A New Business Problem Our Turn to Dump Wheat Better Than Flying Money Very Cheap

By Arthur Brisbane

BUSINESS MEN have a new problem, although 90 per cent of them don't yet know it.

In 1929, their problem was "How can we produce all that we can sell?" Their problem now is "How can we sell all that we produce, or even half of it?"

The 1929 problem was one of manufacturing. The problem now is one of ADVERTISING and distribution. A 90 per cent manufacturing proposition has suddenly changed to a 90 per cent advertising proposition.

Business, big and little, should realize that for its own sake.

Our farm board, tired of buying wheat above the market price, will sell in Europe the huge surplus acquired while it was "running a wheat corner." The farm board paid as much as 92 cents a bushel, and will probably get about half that, as it gradually "dumps" its wheat on Europe's markets.

By the way, it was "red, roaring Bolshevism" when the Russians dumped a little wheat over here. It will be respectable finance when we dump one or two hundred million bushels in Europe. "Orthodoxy is my doxy. Heterodoxy is your doxy."

Ruth Nichols, young American flier, who holds the two-way transcontinental air speed record for women, will fly from New York to Paris, via the Lindbergh route, all alone. There should be some way of admiring and rewarding young women of this kind as thoroughly as they deserve, and at the same time a way to prevent their running such risks.

Such a girl, in the future, might be the mother of a son worth more than a million solo flights across the Atlantic, or the Pacific, or from here to Mars.

H. H. Wooldin, big business man and wise, says "better times in the fall" are bound to come, and his biggest interest, the American Locomotive Co., has not cut wages although operations are curtailed. He says the country is "at the bottom of this business depression," and he is a good judge of business conditions.

General Atterbury, Pennsylvania Railroad president, thinks "plain living and high thinking" would help for awhile, although he sees and approves "an upward trend in living conditions."

General Atterbury, asking no special sympathy for railroads, says they are doing about as well as other businesses.

France has begun sending gold to the United States, and our biggest supply on earth will become even bigger. All that we need now is someone to tell us how to use all the gold, money, coal, oil, wheat, cotton and other things we have in excess.

We have everything and don't know how to distribute it.

Money is cheap, like other things. Uncle Sam needs $80,000,000 more for May refunding and can borrow below 1½ per cent. Those who do not understand finance wonder why Uncle Sam must borrow from banks, when he himself prints the money they lend him.

Prof. W. Z. Ripley of Harvard, authority on transportation, says we need a new cabinet position, with a title like "Secretary of Transportation," to manage railroads. He advocates railroad mergers that will reduce 30 big systems to four, to meet competition of trucks and buses.

The nation should discard or revamp the archaic Sherman act, nearly 50 years old, as much out of date as the hansom cabs, that carried its authors.

That act actually would put in jail manufacturers, oil producers, coal men or railroad men, if they evolved and applied a plan to fight depression with common sense regulation of production.

In one of the Central American countries, barbers, to restore prosperity and kill competition, plead with the government to forbid importation of safety razors. "It is unjust to us," they say, "to let people learn how to shave themselves. Please don't let them."

That sounds like the modern protest against improved machinery and the protest of some railroad men against canals and automobiles. The way to conquer competition is to beat it. Tears will not suffice.

Kansas thinks it needs Vice-President Curtis to run for the Senate again to beat Senator George McGill, Democrat. And Republicans want Dwight W.

FOREST FIRES SPREAD OVER EAST

HUNDREDS IN BATTLE WITH FLAMES

Towns Are Menaced in Many States; Heavy Damage Is Being Caused

Forest and brush fires raged in the sun-dried East today, from Massachusetts to Maryland, burning over hundreds of acres and destroying buildings.

One fire, at Rocky Providence, R. I., that burned over 30 acres, destroyed a [illegible] ing and threatened numbers of other houses, resulted in the arrest of Thomas Grieco, and a sentence today of 10 days in jail in setting [illegible] a month.

Grieco was alleged to have been burning brush on his farm, when the blaze got out of control. Before the sweep of flame was halted, three fire companies and several hundred volunteers had battled through most of the night.

FIRES ARE SPREADING

At Blandford, near Westfield, a forest fire, burning over a two-mile front, was so far out of control that fire-fighters, exhausted by their long battle since the start yesterday, were compelled to call for six [illegible] when a new fire started.

The call was responded to by Deputy Fire Warden Ordway of Westfield, with a truck pumper and more than a score of men. These were joined soon after by volunteers. Meanwhile Deputy Warden Fred C. Knittel and his army of battlers continued to combat the blaze which broke out yesterday.

Both fires were advancing toward Granville, and householders were moving furniture and furnishings from their homes.

Notice was served today on subcontractors at the Connie Mountain dam development of the Springfield water system that no more

'Threat' Letter Is Sent to Hoover

New York, April 22 (AP)—Charged with having sent threatening letters to President Hoover, Governor Roosevelt, Mayor Walker and other prominent officials, Hugh Prudhomme, 38, a salesman, was held in $500 bond today.

Prudhomme was arrested as he was posting a registered letter to President Hoover, detectives said.

Pedestrians Near Death as Poles Collapse

Twisted jangle of wires and poles lying on the car tracks in Mt. Auburn st., Cambridge, after a pole gave way, dragging four others, all heavy with telegraph, telephone, electric light and power wires, with it. All vehicular traffic was tied up at that particular point and thousands on their way to work were delayed when the power carried by the wires to supply a large surrounding area of trolleys was cut off. Nearby homes were deprived of electric light current and many telephones were put out of commission.

THOUSANDS IN 'L' TIE-UP AS 5 POLES CRASH

Cambridge Autoists and Pedestrians Have Narrow Escapes in Tangle of Wires

Thousands on their way to work were forced to walk today when five electric wire poles a [illegible] age near the cemetery, crashed to the street, tying up all trolley and motor traffic, and wrecking a fire-alarm circuit.

Two automobiles were trapped between falling poles and the drivers narrowly escaped injury.

The poles crashed from the [illegible] side and spread across the tracks, but luckily no street cars were passing at the time.

Two cars packed with commuters on the way to Harvard and Kenmore terminal were stopped almost under the spot where the poles fell out. A tangle of falling trolley wires touched the street, sending up flashes of flame.

TWO-MILE HIKE.

Passengers poured from the stalled cars and started hiking the two miles to the tunnel, streaming through Brattle st. in a long line. Later the Elevated put on a bus service.

The deup was one of the worst experienced in the history of the Elevated.

The cause, as yet undetermined, was variously ascribed as a rotted pole, a pole weakened by being struck by an auto truck, or the excessive weight of trolley feed wires stretching across the street from crossarm to crossarm.

One pole toppled and the others followed in swift succession, making a tangled mass extending 400 feet along the artery.

This occurred at 7:50, just as the morning rush-hour period was getting underway on the lines feeding Harvard sq. over the heavily traveled Mt. Auburn st. and Huron ave. routes.

Hundreds of automobiles also were hemmed in toward the street which was blocked and these were detoured by police over Aberdeen rd., Huron ave. and other arteries.

Herbert Teinsel of 9 Herman st., Roxbury, was stopped near the cemetery changing a flat tire when he saw the pole in back of him falling.

ALMOST TRAPPED

He started to run out of the way but in turning saw the one in front of him swaying, and as he hesitated this pole crashed down and was quickly followed by three others.

Another motorist was driving past when two falling poles pinned him between them, as he made a

YANKS SCORE 4 RUNS IN FIRST

Fenway Park, April 22—A crowd of 10,000 saw the Red Sox and New York Yankees open the local American League season here this afternoon.

The weather while clear was cool but the fans desiring to welcome John "Shono" Collins, marking his debut as Red Sox pilot, and to watch Babe Ruth in action, defied the chilly winds by turning out in force.

Governor Joseph B. Ely and ex-Governor Frank G. Allen led the parade to the flagpole and the governor then threw out the first ball.

Hod Lisenbee went to the hill for the Red Sox, while Roy Sherid was the visitors' mound selection.

FIRST INNING

Yankees—Combs singled. Lary walked. Ruth singled, scoring Combs. Gehrig singled, scoring Lary. Ruth stopping at second. Durham replaced Lisenbee. Lazzeri doubled, scoring Ruth and Gehrig. Chapman was hit by a pitched ball. Cooke was called out on strikes. Dickey forced Chapman. Van Camp to Rhyne. Sherid walked, filling the bases. Reeves threw out Combs. FOUR RUNS.

Red Sox—Rhyne fouled to Lazzeri. Sherid threw out Scarritt. Van Camp flied to Ruth. NO RUNS.

Hearst Stand Lauded by Reserve Officials

New Orleans, April 22 (AP)—The Reserve Officers Association, in convention here today, adopted a resolution requesting Congress to foster continued military training throughout the nation.

In another resolution William Randolph Hearst and his associates were congratulated, "for the valuable service they rendered the United States government in their campaign for national defense, and in keeping the people of the nation informed on the subject."

Firemen in Fight to Save Baby

Peabody firemen, since 11:15 p. m. Monday, have been working in relays with an inhalator, to save the life of an infant now five days old.

The infant, John Mullarky, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Mullarky of 5 Pleasant st., Peabody, was seized with a convulsion Monday night, and firemen were asked to aid with an inhalator.

Deputy Fire Chief John Hannon responded with a crew and they have been working in relays, day and night, since that time, using a gas called car-o-gyn, a mixture of 95 per cent oxygen and five per cent carbon dioxide.

Up to noon today the firmen had used two and one-half tanks of the gas, and the doctor in charge declared the infant to have shown a "remarkable improvement" since the rescue work began.

Baby John was of normal weight and otherwise appeared normal at birth, and it is believed the work of the firemen will save his life.

Portugal to Move on Madeira Rebels

Lisbon, Portugal, April 22 (AP)—The Lisbon government today announced the commencement of military operations against the rebel garrison at Funchal, Madeira.

An official of the War Department said no alternative was left after rejection of an ultimatum demanding cessation of the insurrection.

Sousa Dias, chief of the rebel Junta, says he will hold Carmona and the Portuguese government responsible for any loss of life.

BALANCES AND RECEIPTS

RASKOB'S WIFE SUMMONED

Mrs. Minerva A. Raskob, wife of John J. Raskob, Jr., was named today in a summons issued in Cambridge district court in connection with the injury of a woman pedestrian alleged to have been struck by a car driven by the wife of the son of the Democratic chief.

Mrs. Raskob is charged with driving so as to endanger the lives of the public and with passing a street car on the left.

The name of the injured woman was withheld by Cambridge police, who said the accident occurred on April 15.

Mrs. Raskob's cars is alleged to have struck the woman in Massachusetts ave., near the Cambridge-Arlington line. According to police, the accident was "trivial."

John J. Raskob, Jr., her husband, is engaged in experimental work in a fibre plant at Chelmsford.

The car which Mrs. Raskob is said to have been driving at the time of the accident is the one in which he daily travels from his home at 1137 Cambridge st., to the factory.

Cooler and Rain Is on the Way

The warmth of spring was banished today by winds of almost autumnal chill, bringing a drop of 20 degrees in temperatures.

This morning the reading was 49 degrees. Even colder weather for tonight and tomorrow was predicted by the weather man, following showers which will sweep Greater Boston tonight in the wake of a storm moving northward from the Carolinas.

Although the height of the storm will be swept to sea, local disturbances of considerable violence are indicated for the New England coast line.

HOOVER'S 'WOBBLING' BLAMED FOR NICARAGUA OUTRAGES

POLICY CALLED INVITATION TO GUERILLAS

Rep. Ayres of Kansas Assails "Lack of Courage" and "Half Way Measures"

Washington, April 22 (US)—President Hoover's "half way measures" and "wobbling" in his Nicaraguan policy "invite further outrages upon American citizens there," Rep. W. A. Ayres (D.), of Kansas, declared in a statement issued through the Democratic national committee.

The President and Secretary of State Stimson apparently are having difficulty in deciding what policy to take in the present Nicaraguan situation, Ayres said.

Either the United States should permit Nicaragua to work out its own destinies, by revolution if it is so minded, or go through with the policy of the Coolidge administration, said Ayres, adding that the latter course would be "intelligent and consistent." He said:

CITES MANY KILLINGS

"A number of American civilian citizens, presumably engaged in their own commercial enterprises, have been killed by the Sandinistas and our State Department has issued an extraordinary order that Americans in the Nicaraguan interior who stay there must 'do so at their own risk and must not expect American forces to be sent inland to their aid.'

"This sharp abandonment of the Coolidge policy, which gave notice that 'the person and property of a citizen are a part of the general domain of a nation even when abroad,' naturally caused a lot of criticism.

CONTRARY STATEMENTS

"Whereupon the administration hastened to explain that the American government had no intention of allowing American lives in Nicaragua to be jeopardized.

"Of course, there is no way of reconciling the two announcements.

"When we tell an imperilled American citizen in Nicaragua that if he remains on his own property he does so at his own risk, we certainly are not relieving him from jeopardy. The policy of the present administration for the past two years undoubtedly caused the American citizens to feel that the Coolidge policy was to be continued.

CITES "FLOUNDERING"

"The half-way measures we have pursued and are pursuing timidly nobody, and rightly, can imply an invitation for a continuation of whatever outrages is perpetrated.

"We have had many examples of the unfortunate effects of indecision, lack of courage and consistency on the part of the administration in our domestic affairs.

"Now the administration's wobbling has brought about an impossible situation in the foreign field, and President Hoover is as usual floundering, with the consequent destruction of our prestige and an accretion of the suspicion and resentment of the smaller American nations towards this country."

ALFONSO PLANS TO VISIT KING GEORGE TODAY

Crowds Gather Outside His London Hotel; the Exiled Ruler Denies He's Rich

London, April 22 (AP)—Small groups of people gathered outside the Hotel Claridge from dawn on today, gazing at the windows of what was said to be the apartment of the deposed Spanish king, Alfonso, in the hope of catching a glimpse of him.

He arrived here yesterday from Paris for a week's business visit.

At the hotel he was said to be early astir, taking breakfast in his room and sending out for the London papers and such from Spain as were available. Early callers left their cards, but were not admitted to his suite.

MANY VISIT KING.

By noon a large crowd was outside the hotel and police had to open a way for Alfonso when he emerged. It was believed he planned to visit King George today.

The London Daily Mail, in a story which it said was inspired by Alfonso himself, stated that the deposed monarch was far from well off financially, and that he had invested the surplus of his income as king in Spanish utility concerns, a practice which was now proving of considerable disadvantage.

The Infante Don Juan, third son of Alfonso and regarded by many as his presumptive of the Spanish throne, arrived in Paris today and went immediately to Fontainbleau, where his mother, Victoria, has established a residence for their exile.

LOSE TITLES IN SPAIN.

A Madrid dispatch today said Spanish royal titles are taboo in Spain.

A Government decree forbids calling Alfonso Rey, or King, Victoria Eugenia Reina, or Queen, and the princes and princesses infantes and infantas.

Spain Demands Loyal Support by Army

Madrid, April 22 (INS)—The new republican government aped up its administrative machinery today with several executive acts.

To gain firmer control of the army, army officers and officials were ordered to furnish a written declaration of loyalty to the government.

Salvador de Madariga, former League of Nations official and well-known Spanish writer, was appointed ambassador to the United States. The new ambassador is at present in Mexico City.

The voting age was reduced from 23 to 21 years, enrolling new voters believed friendly to the republic.

Recall of United States Ambassador Irwin B. Laughlin was demanded today by the Madrid republican semi-official newspaper Crisol.

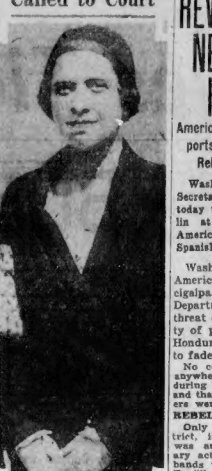
Lardner's Son Hurt at Andover Academy

Andover, April 22 (AP)—Ringold W. Lardner, Jr., son of the humorist, was at the Phillips Academy infirmary today suffering from a fractured shoulder bone. He will be taken to the Phillips House at Boston tomorrow for further treatment.

Lardner, a student at the academy, fell from a third floor window in Johnson Hall Monday while playing with other students.

Called to Court



Mrs. Minerva A. Raskob, wife of John J. Raskob, Jr., summoned to appear in court as a result of an accident in Cambridge last week, in which a woman was injured, police charge, by a car driven by Mrs. Raskob.

WIFE BEAT HIM, SAYS ENGINEER

Providence, April 22—Being a civil engineer, his wife's alleged incivility during eight years of married life finally wore on him, Ronald J. Rannie, 34, in charge of construction for a Blackstone Valley public utilities project, testified today in court.

Rannie seeks an absolute divorce from Mrs. Loretta D. Rannie, mother of two children, while she seeks a "bed and board" divorce, equivalent to a Massachusetts legal separation. Both charge extreme cruelty.

Never once, asserted Rannie, did he strike her. He recited against her that she is extremely jealous, has a violent temper, flies into a rage "at the slightest provocation," uses abusive language and curses him—and will not let him play golf.

She went in town shopping instead, he said, but when she came home, "she beat me up without provocation and threw an alarm clock at me."

Rannie finally delivered a proclamation as follows, he said:

"I've had enough of this sort of life. Let's quit. I suggest that I take the boy and you take the girl."

Rannie said his wife "refused to consider any such arrangement but instead slapped his face."

Sewer Contract Awarded

A contract for sewerage works in Foster st., Brighton, at a cost of $6898 was awarded to the John J. Kennedy Co. by Mayor Curley today.

REVOLT THREAT NEAR END IN HONDURAS

American Minister Lay Reports All Foreigners Safe; Rebel Bands Scattered

Washington, April 22 (AP)—Secretary Stimson announced today that Ambassador Laughlin at Madrid would extend American recognition to the new Spanish government.

Washington, April 22 (AP)—American Minister Lay at Tegucigalpa reported to the State Department today that the threat of revolution to the safety of ports along the northern Honduran coast was continuing to fade.

No combats had been reported anywhere in the rebellious area during the past 24 hours, he said, and that all American and foreigners were safe.

REBEL BANDS SCATTERED.

Only in the San Pedro Sula district, inland from Puerto Cortez, was any considerable revolutionary activity apparent. The small bands which had rebelled in the Trujillo and La Ceiba districts had scattered into the mountains.

South of San Pedro Sula, the principal rebel concentration had remained for some time along the National railway, but last night this force was reported moving northwest toward the Quimistan-San Pedro Sula highway, possibly attempting to join Gen. Gregorio Farra, a veteran revolutionist, supposed to be a leader of this revolt.

MEMPHIS TO TELA

Visits ashore by commanders of the three American cruisers now at northern Honduran ports, Lay reported, had had a reassuring effect on American residents at those points.

At Minister Lay's request the cruiser Memphis had moved from La Ceiba to Tela to reassure residents who had been nervous over the revolutionary developments. The Trenton was at Puerto Castilla and the Marblehead at Puerto Cortes.

Panama Rushes Troops to Santiago After Riot

Panama City, April 22 (AP)—A detachment of 40 soldiers sent hurriedly during the night to Santiago, capital of Veraguas province has believed today to be sufficient to cope with any situation arising from a reported meeting of sympathizers with the deposed government.

Police at Santiago telephoned military headquarters here that all was quiet.

Nicaraguan Bandit Danger Now Believed Averted

Puerto Cabezas, Nicaragua, April 22 (AP)—Persistent rumors of an impending attack by Nicaraguan Insurgents on Puerto Cabezas led to additional precautions for the safety of this banana plantation center and Americans resident hereabout.

Workmen here and along the coast have resumed the cutting of bananas and patrols of the Guardia, reinforced by detachments from Managua with machine guns and ammunition, comb the jungles for insurgent bands.

Gen. Sandino himself was said to be at Altamirano, on the banks of Yoro river, with a large number of his men.

Archduke Albrecht to Form Opposition Party

Budapest, April 22 (INS)—Archduke Albrecht of Hapsburg, one time pretender to the throne, has now set about to fulfill his political ambitions as parliamentarian and party leader.

He is organizing a new opposition party, called the "Party of the 40 Years' Generation." Its tendency will be conservative and in favor of the claims of the legitimate "Hereditary King Otto," who was declared of full age at his 18th birthday on Nov. 20 of last year.

Miss Durant to Tour Europe in Her Own Plane

Newark, N. J., April 22 (AP)—Miss Margery Durant, daughter of W. C. Durant, automobile manufacturer, arrived at Newark airport today in her monoplane Ariel, in which she will make a tour of Europe, starting next week. She flew from her home in Westfield, L. I. Miss Durant was accompanied by her pilot and a mechanic. The plane was checked and shipped to New York, whence it will be sent to Europe on the steamship Hamburg, which sails tonight.

Schwab Sees Era of Greater Prosperity Ahead

New York, April 22—For the third time in 48 hours, a leader in the steel industry publicly predicted the speedy return of increased prosperity. Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the directors of the Bethlehem Steel Co., yesterday told the Pennsylvania Society of Luncheon in the Astor Hotel:

"Do not be discouraged. This is only a period of the elevator of the business extravagances of the years gone by. Greater prosperity is coming. We will reach a point where we will have better times than ever before. The mines and mills and lighter industries of Pennsylvania will lead the nation back and before long."

Schwab was elected president of the society for the fourteenth time.

HEAVY LOSS IN FOREST FIRES

fire permits would be issued at present, Warden Knittel blaming irresponsible workmen for the sweep of fires.

Plattsburgh, N. Y., was threatened with the worst forest fire in years today, as nearly 700 men battled on a three-mile front to check flames surging through some of the Adirondack's finest timberland.

A number of houses and a school building lay in the path of the fire, which was out of control this afternoon and roaring toward the Saranac River, 12 miles away. The fire started yesterday between Peasleeville and Schuyler Falls.

Danger from a forest fire sweeping along a 15-mile front in Clermont, outside Kane, Pa., was increased today by strong winds and the flames were headed directly toward a village of 600 inhabitants.

At Hagerstown, Md., more than 400 men battled three fires which had burned over 4000 acres. Many of the fire-fighters had been two days without sleep.

Another fire, in Blair's Valley, Md., had burned over 3000 acres.

There was also a fire burning between Manchester, N. H., and Dunbarton, N. H., but this was not of serious proportions.

Hundreds of Acres Fire-Swept Near Manchester, N. H.

Manchester, N. H., April 22 (AP)—A forest fire, which in 24 hours had swept hundreds of acres of brush and timber land, was raging today between Manchester and Dunbarton.

A farm house on the West River rd., Manchester, escaped destruction only after firemen had backfired the flames into a nearby pond.

Crews of the Public Serving Company were fighting the fire near the Goffstown line, where several high tension electric power transmission lines carrying 66,000 volts were menaced. Last night the fire swept across the company's right of way a few thousand feet east of the lines now threatened but the 33,000 volt lines there were unharmed.

RAIDERS COMB ILLE DE FRANCE

New York, April 22 (AP)—One hundred twenty-five customs men today searched every nook and corner of the steamship Ile de France, following what they regarded as an authoritative tip that an attempt was being made to smuggle 1000 cases of liquor and quantity of narcotics into this country.

The searchers said the "tip" was received several days ago. They declared the informer said the shipment was to come in aboard a French line ship.

Mickey Walker Denies Annulment

Shrewsbury, N. J., April 22 (AP)—Mickey Walker, middleweight champion of the world, and his bride, the former Clara Hellmers of Hempstead, L. I., today denied their marriage had been annulled.

Announcement made yesterday by Jack Kearns, Walker's manager, that the marriage had been annulled was denied by Mrs. Walker's father, and a search of the court records failed to disclose that any annulment had been granted.

St. Louis, April 22 (AP)—A former convict, Edward (Cocky) Leonard, was under arrest today as police and county authorities pushed their investigation into the abduction Monday night of Dr. Isaac D. Kelley, Jr., wealthy physician.

Every Voter Votes Yes, for Himself

Glencoe, Ill., April 22 (AP)—Every voter for himself, and "devil take the hindmost" is Gladstone's motto in village elections.

Forty-three votes were cast for village offices yesterday, and 43 different names were written in.

Babe Ruth Blocks Store From Using Name as 'Ad'

New York, April 22 (AP)—Babe Ruth won an injunction today to stop Abraham Nocks, a Broadway haberdasher, from using his name in advertisements.

Ruth contended that a year ago he permitted the use of his name by Laurence E. Young in opening a shop, but that when Young sold his store to Nocks the Ruth name was not transferred.

The home run king complained that Nocks used his name in two huge outdoor placards stating:

"Babe Ruth Quitting; Babe Ruth going out of business."

22-STORY LEAP KILLS GIRL

New York, April 22 (INS)—"Money will be sent Monday or Tuesday." That was the telegram from Chicago.

Monday and Tuesday dragged by, and early today the slim form of a beautiful Broadway showgirl hurtled from the 22d story of an uptown hotel. The lifeless figure of Lillian Pass Greer, known on the stage as Lillian Page, was found on the third story mezzanine.

Miss Page, who last appeared in a road company of a "hit" show, left her room in the hotel at about 7 o'clock last night with two other girls, Mumbe Metcalf and Dorothy Lamb, and also Jack Horowitz, who lives in the hotel.

Early today the party went to Horowitz's room. Miss Page appeared worried, the others said. She asked if a call had come from Chicago. The answer was "No." She seemed disappointed and even sobbed, it was said.

At 1:30 a. m. the two other girls were playing cards. Horowitz had stepped out. Horowitz entered the room just in time to see Miss Page's form disappear.

Police revealed there were letters in the room, on the back of which was the name, M. Lipsey. Detectives said "M. Lipsey" was her husband.

MURDER JURY ONE MAN SHORT

Excused by the court from serving or challenged by the defense or the State, a venire of 15 jurors moved from the civil session of Middlesex Superior Court at Lowell today failed to yield a single eligible juror necessary for the trial of the Bagni murder case.

The court therefore ordered Chief Deputy Sheriff Fred Peabody to proceed into "the highways and byways of the county at large" and return with 30 persons, selected at random, from whom the needed juror might be chosen.

Yesterday 11 jurors were chosen from the panel of 93 to be examined, twenty were challenged by the government, 28 by the defendants, and 24 were excused.

The three youths on trial are: John D. Wall, 20, John J. Oliver, 19, and Walter Sousa, 19, all of Somerville.

Following the visit of the jury to the scene, the taking of government testimony under the direction of Dist. Atty. Warren L. Bishop will start.

The government alleges that Bagni was shot down during an attempted holdup by a trio who rode up to the filling station in a stolen automobile.

"Beauty," a police dog owned by Bagni, was also killed by one of the gunmen, as the animal attacked them.

Smuggling Case to Federal Jury Today

Arguments were made today in the case of Jose Leal and Antonio Maryinez, former members of the crew of the steamer Mayari, charged with smuggling nine Chinese and a Spaniard into the United States aboard the vessel.

The case is expected to be given to the jury by Judge James A. Lowell in federal court late today.

$1,000,000 E. Boston Strandway Favored

The joint legislative committee on metropolitan affairs has unanimously approved the bill calling for a $1,000,000 appropriation for a strandway along the East Boston waterfront, it was disclosed today.

Rep. William H. Hearn of East Boston, father of the bill, was notified to appear before the ways and means committee on Tuesday to explain the plan.

Miss Block Freed on Disturbance Charge

Helen Block, of Chambers st., West End, arrested on a charge of creating a disturbance during a demonstration against racial discrimination at Longwood Towers, Brookline, Monday night, was found guilty in Brookline court today. The case was filed.

TAKEN FOR A RIDE TO BE A DEATH JUROR

With only one juror needed to complete the panel of 12 to try three youths in Middlesex criminal court on charges of murder officers today rounded up available men in the Ginn publishing plant, Cambridge. Photo shows the prospective juror getting into a bus to be conveyed to court. Court officers phoned the Ginn Co. and then got everybody in sight.

sudden stop. He was later extricated from his trap by being allowed to detour through the cemetery to Coolidge sq., but Feinesi was hopelessly trapped for several hours.

Telephones in the Mt. Auburn section were put out of commission and emergency crews from the electric light company, the telephone company and the Elevated joined forces in untangling the mess.

Although the trolley feed current was automatically shut off, live electric light wires endangered pedestrians and the thousands of commuters who left the cars to walk to work.

The disruption of service on the Mt. Auburn side of Cambridge seriously affected service on the Massachusetts ave. line from North Cambridge to Arlington, because the cars make a trip through Harvard sq. and Hood's loop to Watertown and Grove st., Belmont. Thirty-five buses were pressed into service between these points.

Six fire alarm boxes were put out of commission and this circuit was the first to be replaced. A wire was strung along the cemetery fence for a temporary connection.

Electric current for homes was restored after about two hours except in the immediate vicinity of the break. There temporary service was established only after more than three hours' delay.

Hit by New Quake

Wellington, N. Z., April 22 (AP)—A severe earthquake was felt in the Hawkes Bay area today. There were no casualties. Many walls of Napier, partly destroyed in the recent quakes, fell.

5 FINED IN 'TAR, FEATHER' CASE

Willimantic Ct., April 22 (INS)—Five young men were fined in police court today because they applied a coat of molasses and feathers to Peter Delude, 24, after luring him to Hosmer Mountain last night.

The prisoners raid they attacked Delude to force him to stop the practice of turning a flashlight into parked automobiles. One of the five, William D. Kelley, former town constable, pleaded not guilty and was fined $25 and costs after his companions told of his participation in the occurrence.

The others, fined $15 and costs each, are Peter Bourey, Ovide Constance, Harold Kenfield and Everett Chappell.

Morrow to run for Vice-President with Mr. Hoover in 1932.

It is not the vice-presidency, probably, that Mr. Morrow has in mind. But Republicans think he might be persuaded to start low and finish high, by promising him the presidential nomination for 1936.

Mr. Morrow's acceptance or refusal might reveal his opinion as to how long this depression will last. Being Vice-President in a long depression is no job to envy.

D. A. R. DEMANDS BOYCOTT ON ALL RUSSIAN PRODUCTS

SOUND WARNING ON 'SOVIET DUMPING'

Members Urged to Bar From Homes All Articles Made by Conscript Labor

Washington, April 22 (AP)—Continued non-recognition of Russia, exclusion of all that nation's products and legislation to require public school teachers to take the oath of allegiance were demanded in a report prepared today for the annual congress of Daughters of the American Revolution.

A committee on national legislation proposed that members "ban from our various households all articles whose production or manufacture is the result of conscript labor."

The report was ready for convention action after an address by Representative Jenkins, Republican, of Ohio, promising he would seek immigration law changes in the next Congress to exclude "Communists" with other undesirable aliens.

VICTORY IN FOUR STATES

The committee fully indorsed findings of the special House committee that investigated Communist activities. Representative Fish of New York, chairman of the House group, was one of the convention speakers.

In addition to committee reports, today's events included a reception by President and Mrs. Hoover and summaries of state activities of the organization.

Of the teachers' oath legislation, endorsed several years ago by the D. A. R., the committee said that some state organizations "were skeptical as to just why we should work for the legislation," and that "with this mental attitude on the part of a leader in the cause, it is of little use to expect whole-hearted co-operation."

Nevertheless, four states—Montana, New Mexico, Vermont and North Dakota—reported victory after "hard-fought battles." South Dakota has a law, covering "practically the same points," he report added.

WARN OF "DUMPING."

State organizations said they expected to hear of enactment of similar statutes "any day" by California, Michigan, Iowa, Texas, Maryland, Nebraska, Massachusetts, Rhode Island or Delaware.

"As the constant drip of water wears away stone, the committee added, "so we intend to pursue our present course."

The committee recorded its opinion that "the policy of non-recognition of Soviet Russia should still be continued, despite the argument of some of our statesmen for a reversal."

The group observed "so long as some of our congressmen regard this matter of so little importance, it seems advisable to start a campaign to arouse the public to the real menace of Soviet dumping."

FLEA FOR VIVISECTION.

A scientist's defense of the use of animals for vivisection to seek remedies for disease was presented to the congress by Surgeon-Gen. Hugh S. Cumming.

"There has been a good deal of talk among many misguided people who are trying to get through Congress a law against the use of animals in scientific research," Cumming said.

"In the face of human sacrifices," he continued, "we feel very deeply on the subject. We see no reason why people should object to the use of rabbits, white mice, even dogs."

Mrs. Hoover invited 350 young women pages to assist her at a reception for delegates this afternoon.

While the delegates showed keen interest in the election of seven vice-presidents general tomorrow, the meeting was without factional dissension. Mrs. Russell William Magna, Holyoke, Mass., remained the only announced candidate for president-general of the organization.

ELY FAILS TO FILL 3 POSTS

Another weekly meeting of the executive council was adjourned today without nominations of Governor Ely for three important posts.

The posts are Fall River finance commissioner, motor vehicle registrar and Superior Court judge, to fill the vacancy resulting from the death of Judge John D. McLaughlin.

The Governor may call a special meeting tomorrow or Friday to name the Fall River commissioner.

The only nomination submitted at today's session was that of Frederick A. Keyes of Boston to the board of dental examiners in place of Ralph P. Cunningham. Under the law members of this board are limited to a specific number of appointments.

The governor signed a bill giving preference in purchase of supplies and materials by State departments to materials manufactured and sold within the State.

Utah Governor Is Guest of Ely at Game

Governor Ely had as his guest today George H. Dern, Governor of Utah, who is visiting Boston.

The two chief executives lunched with the council and afterwards left for the opening of the American League baseball season in Boston at Fenway Park.

FLIERS PLAN AIR RACE AROUND THE WORLD

John H. Mears and Wiley Post Prepare to Start Hops at an Early Date

Los Angeles, April 22 (AP)—A race around the world between two ambitious fliers in identical monoplanes became a possibility here today with preparations by John Henry Mears of New York and Wiley Post, Oklahoma City speed flier, entering the final stages.

Post took his fleet craft to a Burbank factory yesterday for overhauling and installation of larger gasoline tanks. He said he would start his attempt to encircle the earth in ten days with Harold Gatty, Los Angeles navigator, who accompanied Harold Bromley of Tacoma, Wash., on an unsuccessful attempt to span the Pacific from Japan.

PLANE READY MAY 1

Mears has engaged Vance Breese, test pilot, to fly his ship around the world. Mears once held the record for the fastest trip around the world, but the Graf Zeppelin, encircling the earth in 21 days, took away the honors he hopes to regain.

Mears and Post each have a Lockheed-Vega with a 450-horsepower supercharged motor. Mears said his plane would be ready by May 1.

Post said he hoped to be at Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, his starting point, by the last of April. Both planes have a top speed of 200 miles per hour, while their cruising speeds are 170 miles per hour.

FOLLOW NORTH ROUTE

Each aspirant for globe-circling honors expects to follow the great circle route across the Atlantic, touch at Berlin, Moscow and Tokyo, and take the northerly route across the Pacific in order to reduce the over-water distance.

While both Post and Mears said they wished no race, each admitted the intention of beating the other to the takeoff if possible.

WOMAN'S 'PEEPER SHOT' GRAZES 3 IN CAR

WHERE BULLET SHATTERED SHIELD

This is the windshield that was shivered by a bullet as Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Bradley and daughter drove to their garage, 125 Harvard st., Everett. The shot, one of five fired at a "peeper" by Mrs. D'Avolio, whose home joins the Bradley home at the rear, barely missed Bradley, shown here. (Staff photos.)

AUTO PARTY IS MENACED BY A STRAY SHOT

Mrs. D'Avolio Opens Fire When She Sees Man Peering Into Her Home

Pot-shotting the pesky peepers in Everett has its drawbacks on both ends of the revolver—and the "Peeping Tom scorers" were considerably puzzled today over how to score Mrs. Philomena D'Avolio's markmanship.

Mrs. D'Avolio, wife of a Boston theater saxophonist, sent five revolver shots into the night after she had seen a man peeping into windows of her home at 174 Nichols st., Everett.

According to Mrs. D'Avolio, she saw the man stumble and limp, but then she learned with chagrin that one of her bullets had crashed through the windshield of an automobile containing Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Bradley of 125 Harvard st., Everett, and Virginia Bradley, nine, of the same address.

The bullet narrowly missed all three riders as their car was entering the Bradley driveway off Harvard st. and in back of the D'Avolio home.

Scorns Dad's Aid

Beatrice Van Buren Barrett, Malden girl, under arrest in Newark, N. J., charged with being an accomplice of a burglar, has told her father, Atty. Henry H. Barrett, that "if you won't help the man I love, don't try to help me."

PENITENT CAT HANGS ITSELF

Beverly, April 22—Remorseful welled up today in the hidden soul of a disgraced cat, and the chagrined tabby took its own life by hanging.

Nearly two weeks ago the cat bit Patricia Fielding, six, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold F. Fielding of 53 Friend st.

Patricia was given the Pasteur treatment and Dr. William Swan, veterinarian, took charge of the cat to observe it for possible signs of rabies.

He tied up the tabby with a cord around its neck, and thus the cat had been until today—when it leaped out a window and hanged itself.

CURLEY HAS HIS LITTLE JOKE

Mayor Curley had a little fun at the expense of the postal department today.

A prominent Bostonian wrote him suggesting that the inspiration now on the front of the new post-office in Washington, D. C., might be placed on the postoffice which it is planned to erect here.

It reads:

"Messenger of sympathy and love
Servant of parted friends
Consoler of the lonely
Bond of the scattered family
Enlarger of the Common Life."

The mayor laughed at the inscription, commented on the "inefficient" manner in which Washington authorities are handling plans for the postoffice, and wrote his correspondent suggesting that the following would be a better one:

"Vision of an ancient dream
Completed after death of present generation.
We hail thee as a monument to national efficiency, intitutive, enterprise and speed in execution and construction.

SIAM ROYALTY END LONG TRIP

Purchase, N. Y., April 22 (AP)—King Prajadhipok and the Queen of Siam arrived at Ophir Hill on the Whitelaw Reid estate at 12:45 p. m. today to complete a journey half way around the earth.

Their Majesties and 14 other members of the Siamese Royal Family detrained at noon at Scarborough, N. Y., where several hundred persons waited in a festive scene of American and Siamese flags.

Baker Foundation Fund Tops $311,500

A total of $311,502, in the drive for $1,100,000, was announced by the Judge Baker foundation fund in a report submitted by the men's committee at its by-monthly luncheon today. This is an increase of $53,585 over the amount reported two weeks ago and includes the gift of $50,000 by Charles Hayden of Hayden-Stone.

Herbert C. Parsons, chairman of the State Commission of Probation, told the committee the foundation is a "servant of the entire community" and greatly aids the work of the juvenile court.

Mayor Invited to First Corps Review

Col. Harry L. Spencer, commander of the First Corps Cadets, called at City Hall today and invited Mayor Curley to review that organization at their annual guard mount on Boston Common on June 5, next. He also presented the Mayor with a picture of himself and officers of the organization at their annual review last September.

Airport Mechanic Hurt

A back-firing propeller on a training plane slashed the arm of Frederick S. Perry, 28, of 14 Roberts st., Lowell, at the Boston Airport today, necessitating treatment at the East Boston Relief Hospital. Perry, who is a mechanic for Curtiss-Wright, returned to duty later.

WOMEN TO RACE OVER OCEAN

New York, April 22 (AP)—A race between two women fliers, each determined to be the first of her sex to make a solo hop across the Atlantic, was in prospect today.

One of them is an American, Miss Ruth Nichols of Rye, N. Y., who has flown a plane slightly more than 210 miles an hour, the highest speed ever attained by a woman. The second is a Canadian, Miss Edith Elizabeth McColl of Galt, Ont., whose plane became known after it was learned definitely that Miss Nichols is intent on making the flight.

Miss McColl, a blonde stenographer, has been flying quite a bit in Canada, although she is not so well known as Miss Nichols. Her first flight was made at the age of 11, and she has been at it consistently since that time.

Her flight is sponsored by P. A. Bradbent of Toronto, who said she would use a large cabin monoplane for the venture. No date has been set for the flight.

"I am going to cross," she said with determination. "If there was any doubt about it I would not be going."

LADY HEATH IS HELD AS DRUNK

Windsor, Ont., April 22 (INS)—Lady Mary Heath, internationally known aviatrix, today denied charges of drunkenness which have been filed against her by Windsor police as the result of a downtown traffic jam early this morning.

Though admitting the disturbance, Lady Heath told International News Service that "I was doped by my enemies." She refused to elaborate on her statement.

"I went to a private house party after a speaking engagement at the Professional Women's Club," said Lady Heath. "I had two beers and a small whiskey at the party, and everyone knows that one can't become intoxicated on that."

Lady Heath, the divorced wife of Sir James Heath, multi-millionaire London (England) iron magnate, was released under bond of $18.50.

Reginald G. Williams, her secretary, was driving the Lady Heath automobile at the time of the alleged traffic jam.

Lady Heath acquired fame through a solo flight of 11,000 miles from England to Africa. She was the first woman to obtain a commercial pilot's license.

Doped, She Cries

Lady Mary Heath, famed flier, accused of drinking, declared: "I was doped by my enemies."

Mayor Approves East Boston Land Seizure

Two land-takings for school purposes in East Boston were approved by Mayor Curley today.

Damages of $52,000 were awarded to property owners at Saratoga and Bennington sts. and damages of $73,700 go to the owners of land at Lexington and Trenont sts.

SOS GOES OUT FOR SERGEANT

Officer, call a cop!

Deputy Supt. James McDevitt today broadcast on the teletype from police headquarters a request for every Boston policeman to be on the watch for Sergt. John D. "Ducky" Holmes, listed as missing since 9 a. m.

The deputy requested any policeman locating the officer to have him get in touch with police headquarters.

Sergt. Holmes, a member of the detective bureau, reported for roll call at 9 o'clock and then went somewhere, apparently on detective business. Then the detectives were asked to find him. Why the deputy was so anxious to communicate with him was not explained.

If you see a police sergeant about 6 feet tall, weighing 190 pounds, walking fast, smiling and speaking English and Hebrew fluently, it may be Sergt. Holmes. Get in touch with the nearest policeman.

ERSKINE GUILTY IN RUM CASE

John L. Erskine, boatswain's mate, second class, and former member of the crew of the Coast-guard Destroyer Jouett, has been found guilty by a court-martial on liquor selling charges, reduced in rank and sentenced to six months in prison, and then dishonorable discharge.

This was announced today by Coastguard headquarters in the Customs House. He was one of four defendants.

Erskine was found guilty of having liquor in his possession, and of selling and dispensing intoxicating liquor to members of the Jouett's crew.

Under the terms of his punishment he is reduced in rank to coxswain and sentenced to six months in the naval prison in Portsmouth, N. H., at the expiration of which sentence he will be dishonorably discharged.

STUDY BOOKS OF VAUGHN

Frederick D. Bonner, appointed temporarily to succeed Guy L. Vaughn, missing receiver of five private banking concerns, today will begin a study of the account books, checks and other documents in the Vaughn State st. offices.

Bonner has been given wide powers under the decree appointing him receiver. He has been ordered to locate the difficulty in the affairs and take whatever criminal or civil steps necessary to recover for the benefit of the banks, their depositors and the stockholders.

It is reported that a number of valuable papers are missing from Vaughn's offects. He is also said to have told a friend he had a large amount of U. S. Treasury certificates of indebtedness, if found by Bonner these must be applied for the benefit of whatever bank or banks might be entitled to them.

GIRL ON PLANE IS STOWAWAY

Chicago, April 22 (INS)—Having solved her transportation problem, Betty Ross, 18, today was looking about for the job that brought her here from Kansas City as a stowaway in an airplane.

Just an unemployed girl in Kansas City, Betty figured that status would be no less unpleasant here. So yesterday she hid in the baggage compartment of a National Air Transport plane and flew to Chicago.

PROBERS TALK ON EXHUMING SLAIN NURSE

Providence, April 22—Massachusetts and Rhode Island authorities investigating the Verna Russell murder conferred here today on the question of exhumation of the body and a second autopsy.

Those present were Atty.-Gen. Benjamin M. McLyman of Rhode Island; Dist. Atty. William C. Crossley of Fall River, home of Elliott R. Hathaway, alleged slayer of the nurse; Dr. George B. Magrath, medical examiner from Boston; Dr. Charles Bryant, Tiverton (R. I.) medical examiner, who performed the first autopsy, and Dr. Elmus Peaslee of Fall River, who assisted him.

Dr. Magrath was to go over the autopsy report with Dr. Bryant, seeking explanation of certain details and a decision as to whether another autopsy is necessary was to be made.

"The question of exhuming the body and performing a second autopsy is one for the medical men to decide," said McLyman. "If they believe that such a step is necessary, I will not oppose it. I have never tried to block Massachusetts investigators."

Called into the case by Dist.-Atty. Crossley, Dr. Magrath has been waiting several days to confer with Dr. Bryant, who has been in Chicago.

Following the conference the Boston pathologist may talk with Dr. Lester A. Round, state health commissioner, who performed an analysis of the contents of the stomach of the slain Truesdale hospital nurse.

Mrs. Berlin on Stand for Father in Suit

New York, April 22 (AP)—Clarence Mackay and his daughter, Mrs. Irving Berlin, appeared in supreme court today to testify in a $100,000 suit brought against the Postal Telegraph and Commercial Cable companies, of which he is head. John S. Hansen charged that payment for his services was withheld after he had successfully negotiated with the Mexican government to put the companies' lines through Mexico.

Mrs. Berlin was to testify concerning a conversation between her father and Hansen.

AIR KING REIGNS IN EUROPE

Capt. Frank M. Hawks, U. S. air speed king, started his assault on European air marks today in a round-trip flight from London to Rome. Hawks flew to Berne, Switzerland, and then over the Alps to Rome. (International photo.)

CAPT. FRANK HAWKS

School Pupils Don Nets as Protection Against Gnats

Clarksdale, Miss., April 22 (AP)—A second invasion of Buffalo gnats in this area is forcing children to go to and from school covered with mosquito nets.

Before the nets were used several pupils and teachers became ill from bites of the gnats. The bites resemble bumble bee stings.

The first invasion of the gnats a few weeks ago resulted in loss of $100,000 worth of livestock in Arkansas, Mississippi and Louisiana and an appeal to the Red Cross for aid to farmers who had not recovered from the ravages of last year's drouth.

HAWKS, OUT OF GAS, IS DOWN NEAR PARIS

By FREDERICK K. ABBOTT
International News Correspondent

Paris, April 22—The attempt of Capt. Frank Hawks, American speed ace, to reel off 2000 miles of European territory between sunrise and sunset ended near the town of Clen, 100 miles south of Paris today, when shortage of gasoline necessitated a forced landing. Hawks' speedy plane came to rest in a ploughed field a short distance from the town. The flier escaped injury, although the undercarriage of his machine was reported smashed in the emergency landing.

OUT OF FUEL

The speed ace was on the way back to London from Rome. He had taken off from the Italian capital at 1:41 p. m. (7:41 a. m. E. S. T.) and had hoped to reach Heston aerodrome, near London, in time for tea.

Adverse weather conditions encountered on the northerly journey exhausted Capt. Hawks' fuel supply sooner than had been expected. A short while after he had brought his plane down, he made his way to the nearest telephone and got through news of his plight.

"I was obliged to land 100 miles south of Paris on account of terrible weather," Hawks said.

"I will go on to Le Bourget Field tomorrow and then proceed to London."

STRUCK BAD WEATHER.

Frightful weather dogged Hawks on the entire journey. Taking off from Heston aerodrome at 6:30 this morning (12:30 a. m., eastern standard time), Hawks almost immediately ran into heavy rain and adverse winds and at one stage of the flight had to push his speedy plane to an altitude of 23,000 feet in crossing the Alps.

Word here declared Hawks' backers at Heston aerdrome planned to send a load of fuel over to Glen by special plane if needed. It was thought likely, however, that Hawks would be able to make local arrangements for refueling.

Divorce for Wife Who Tried Suicide

Miss Rose Marie Ricci of Shute st., Everett, testified in Middlesex Probate CFourt today that her husband had beat her so often that on one occasion she took poison in a suicide attempt. He told her the poison was good for her, she said. She was granted a divrce on grounds of cruel and abusive treatment. Custody of their three-year-old child, Rose Marie, was left open.

2 Sailors Freed on Smuggling Charge

Two members of the crew of the United Fruit steamer Mayari, accused of smuggling nine Chinese and one Spaniard into the United States, today were cleared of the charge before Judge James A. Lowell in federal court.

The men, Jose Leal, of Cuba, and Antonio Martinez, of Spain, were freed by a jury after two hours of deliberation.

$200,000 FIRE IN NEW SCHOOL

Worcester, April 22—A two-alarm fire swept the rear of the new million-dollar junior high school building in Providence st. here early today, damaging an auditorium, gymnasium and several classrooms to the extent of $200,000.

Short circuiting and overloading of an electric wire, strung temporarily and connected to a fuse box, in which were found two pennies, caused the fire, Chief Charles L. McCarthy and State Fire Inspector Robert E. Molt stated following an investigation.

Considerable comment has been aroused throughout the section, as the building was supposedly of fireproof construction. It was practically completed and was planned to be ready for occupancy in September.

Two walls collapsed as firemen fought the blaze. The staging around the building was also destroyed. One fireman was slightly injured when he fell one story to the ground.

Dancers Drafted to Fill Town Meeting Quorum in Saugus

The Saugus town meeting that convened last night was forced to wreck a dancing party in the Community House to obtain a quorum, it was learned today.

Moderator Frank P. Bennett, Jr., having called the meeting to order, discovered that only 88 taxpayers were present in place of the 125 required to transact town business.

He dispatched Constable W. Charles Selleck to the nearby dancing party to draft enough taxpayers to make a quorum.

Halibut Schooner Hits on Bass Rocks

Gloucester, April 22—The halibut fishing schooner, Grand Marshall, with Capt. Courtney McDonald and a crew of 22, struck Bass Rocks in a fog off the harbor mouth today. She was latter pulled off by a coast guard craft and towed into port.

The mishap was the second to the Grand Marshall in three weeks. The Angie Marshall, a sister ship, sank off Nova Scotia a month ago.

IDEAL WORKING WEEK SOUGHT

Chicago, April 22 (AP)—Armour and Company is experimenting at its St. Joseph, Mo., packing plant with an operating schedule designed to co-ordinate working and leisure hours of all departments.

T. G. Lee, president, said today the company hopes to effect a suspension of work by all departments on Saturdays or some other week day without affecting output, hours or earnings.

Packing house operations are uneven because of irregularity of livestock receipts, cattle shipments keeping one department busy while scarcity of hogs may render another idle.

The St. Joseph experiment Lee explained, will determine whether all departments can be working at the same time and closed at the same time.

CANNON DEFIES AUTHORITY OF SENATE PROBE

Washington, April 22 (AP)—The Senate campaign funds committee today made public letters from Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, challenging its authority to investigate his campaign expenditures in 1928.

The churchman contended the constitutionality of the Senate committees inquiry into the use he made of $65,000 furnished by E. C. Jameson, of New York, to defeat Gov. Alfred E. Smith, the Democratic presidential candidate, in Virginia was "open to very serious question."

Bishop Cannon said the resolution introduced by Senator Glass, Democrat, Virginia, under which the committee has been proceeding, attempted to make the Senate group "assume the functions of a grand jury."

The committee also made public correspondence of Chairman Nye, Bishop Cannon and the bishop's physician, Dr. S. L. Sexton, concerning the churchman's physical condition and his ability to appear before the committee.

The Cannon case was called to the attention of the campaign committee by Representative Tinkham, Republican, Massachusetts, shortly after the passage of the Glass measure.

Dempsey Seeks Spot for Secret Refuge

Reno, Nev., April 22 (INS)—Harried by crowds that dog his footsteps, Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, today was contemplating building a lodge in the high Sierras near the California line so that he might secure rest and seclusion.

Because of the attention he attracts here, Dempsey has been slipping out of Reno whenever possible to take advantage of the more secluded Cal-Nevs resort on the California-Nevada line.

BILL TO EXILE ALIEN CROOKS WINS FAVOR

Washington, April 22 (INS)—An effort will be made in the new Congress to enact further restrictions on immigration and provide more stringent regulations for deporting alien criminals. It was predicted today by party leaders.

The demand of Vice President Curtis for deportation of all alien racketeers and alien communists found widespread support among the legislators. They indorsed Curtis' declaration that "all aliens whose object is to overthrow the government and all alien criminals and racketeers should be deported —the sooner the better for the country."

Friends of restricted immigration will seek to enact the bill slashing all immigration quotas by 80 per cent for a limited period. This measure, sponsored for the relief of unemployment, passed the House but died in the Senate in the closing legislative jam. If it could have been brought to a vote, its sponsors averred, the measure would have passed.

Two reasons prompt support of immigration restrictions. With 6,000,000 workers unemployed and 8,000,000 more working on part-time, it was argued, the admission of new workers merely adds to the armies of jobless. The other reason is that immigrant labor, entering upon a strange life in a strange country, accepts employment at starvation wages, thus tending to break down the American wage scale.

SPAIN'S LEADER AND MOBS THAT HAILED FALL OF ROYALTY

Hurled 40 Feet, but Maybe He Wasn't

Worcester, April 22—Charles [illegible]on, 64, of Prospect st., thinks he was thrown off a 40-foot cliff, but he isn't sure. In Millstone quarry today a dog found his semi-conscious at the foot of a ledge and barked until help came.

At the Worcester Hospital Larson was found to be suffering from several head wounds and a broken rib. He said he thinks he was beaten and hurled off the ledge, but he can remember.

Luke Lea Indicted With 4 in Fraud

Asheville, N. C., April 22 (INS)—Indictments charging five men with conspiracy to defraud the Central Bank & Trust Co. of approximately $1,000,000 were on file here today. A grand jury indicted three Tennesseeans, Col. Luke Lea, Luke Lea, Jr., and E. P. Charlet, and two officials of the defunct bank, Wallace S. Davis, president, and J. Charles Bradford, cashier.

Springfield Tailor Ends Life by Hanging

Springfield, April 22—John A. Pearson, 39, one of the firm of the tailoring establishment of Johnson & Pearson, 115 State st., hanged himself today in his room in Vail Chambers, Main st. The body, hanging from a hook on a closet door, was discovered by Mrs. Elva Ewing, a maid.

Report Chase Bank Buys Into the Corn

New York, April 22 (AP)—Official comment was withheld today on actively circulated reports in Wall Street that interests affiliated with the Chase National Bank, or one of its affiliates, had acquired a majority stock interest in the Corn Exchange Bank Trust Company of New York.

RUN SHUTS BIG SAVINGS BANK

Canberra, Australia, April 22 (AP)—James Scullin, the prime minister, announced tonight that "the New South Wales Savings Bank would not open its doors tomorrow. The bank has deposits of $425,000,000.

The bank met all demands made upon it today and the heavy run which started yesterday had decreased considerably before the usual closing hour.

Bank officials in Sydney and Melbourne assured depositors the bank was solvent, and the president of the institution explained that its directors considered it best to close pending the outcome of negotiations for a merger with the Commonwealth Bank of Australia.

"The Australian economic situation has grown steadily worse during the last few weeks, and the New South Wales state government recently defaulted interest due upon its bonds April 1 in London. The commonwealth government made good the default and is attempting to collect from the state government.

Hoover to Travel to Cape Henry by Water

Washington, April 22 (INS)—President Hoover has commandeered a Department of Commerce inspection boat to take him on the 175-mile trip down the Potomac river Saturday to Cape Henry, Va., where, on Sunday, he will join in the 324th anniversary pilgrimage to the spot where the pilgrims first landed.

The houseboat Dixie, which served as one of his fishing fleet in Florida in February, 1930, is the vessel upon which Mr. Hoover and a limited party will make the voyage down to Chesapeake Bay.

TO EUROPE IN 30 MIN. BY ROCKET

New York, April 22 (AP)—Half-hour transatlantic mail service with commercial rockets as the carriers.

G. E. Pendray, vice-president of the American Interplanetary Society, said today German scientists predict that in two years rockets powered by liquid fuel will fly across the Atlantic every half-hour, carrying 50 pounds of mail or merchandise.

"When I left Germany a few weeks ago plans were complete for sending up the newest type rocket by liquid fuel," said Mr. Pendray. "German scientists working secretly on the rocket seemt o have involved the basis problem of sending rockets soaring for miles into the sky by liquid power.

"Our trouble here has been that the dry fuel now used does not yield sufficient power for the long flight."

Vets' Hospital Sites Up to Federal Board

Washington, April 22 (AP)—The selection of sites for the 50 or more veterans' hospital projects authorized by the last Congress has been placed by President Hoover in the hands of the Federal Board of Hospitalization.

More than $20,000,000 was authorized for active-year building program, although only $5,000,000 was appropriated. The program calls for nine new hospitals and soldiers' homes and approximately 40 additions to existing institutions.

25 Rebels Slain

Rangoon, Burma, April 22 (AP)—Twenty-five rebels were killed and many wounded when a band of 500 attacked a military police camp in the Thayetmyo district today and were repulsed.

'Joker' Sends Taxis and Undertaker to His Victim

Worcester, April 22—The "telephone man" is at large here again.

This time he has singled out Alphonse J. Mathieu for the target of his "gags."

At frequent intervals during the past few days undertakers have called at the Mathieu home, 16 Antoine st. for the body of Mr. Mathieu, who meanwhile goes goes about his business as usual.

In fact, the Mathieu household is less worried about the shadow of death than about the epidemic of taxicabs which, called by an unknown jokester, disturbs the routine of the household by incessant calls for fictitious fares.

Fall Kills Bandit in Roadhouse Holdup

Chicago, April 22 (INS)—A reign of terror instituted by two bandits in the suburb of Melrose Park came to a sudden end today. One of the desperadoes was killed in a leap to escape police and the other surrendered after he had been trapped.

The dead bandit, Michael Ferelli, was killed when he attempted to jump over a counter in a roadhouse, tripped and fell, breaking his neck.

Billie Burke Loses Cash in Providence

Providence, April 22 (AP)—Police today were searching for a bag containing between $3000 and $4000 in checks and a large sum of money which Billie Burke, actress and wife of Florenz Ziegfeld, lost here.

Miss Burke told police she lost the bag when she left a Boston-New York train for a few minutes yesterday.

MARY GARDEN IN BOSTON DEC. 1

New York, April 22 (AP)—While Mary Garden has not renewed her contract with the Chicago Civic Opera Company this year, she will sing again before American audiences, her representatives disclosed today.

For the first time in her varied operatic career, Miss Garden will sing with a symphony orchestra accompaniment. She will open under this new arrangement Oct. 23, when she plans to present a special deBussey program with the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra.

After filling a series of engagements with the Minneapolis orchestra, Miss Garden will present the same program with the Boston Symphony Orchestra the first week in December. Her representatives said she had reserved the season commencing December 28 for operatic appearances in New York.

No statement could be obtained as to whether Miss Garden had been approached with a contract with the Metropolitan Opera Company or whether she would, as had been reported, organize her own company here.

She will remain in Monte Carlo until October.

Diesel Plane Motor in Successful Trial

Berlin, April 22 (AP)—The Junker Co.'s new Diesel airplane motor, whose builders claim for it a wide margin of advantage over the gasoline engine, drove a nine-passenger monoplane in a successful trial flight from the Templehof airport today.

It had been built into a ship ordinarily powered by three gasoline motors. The engine is to go into the Lufthansa airline fleet for service and after extensive tests will be mounted in passenger planes.

THESE BOYS GO UP, UP AND UP

New York, April 22 (AP)—Byron C. Hawley read a newspaper account of a boy of 15 who had reached the exceptional height of 6 feet, 2inches and emitted a snort of disgust.

"Now, I have three sons, the shortest six and a half feet, and I never thought anything of it," Hawley said today. "Just accepted it as a matter of course."

The Hawleys assay thus:

F. Lee, 16 years old, 6 feet, 7 inches, weighs 195 pounds.

Edwin J., 19, 6 feet, 6 inches, weighs 245.

Byron C., Jr., 21, 6 feet, 8 inches, weighs 208.

The father is 6 feet, 1½ inches. His father was 6 feet, 2 inches, and his mother, 6 feet.

The domestic help problem is solved by taking a kitchenette apartment and the best are advertised daily in the For Rent columns.

U. S. Owned Craft Burns in France

Bray Sur Somme, France, April 22 (AP)—A luxurious houseboat, owned by Charles Brockway of New York, caught fire and sank in the canal here today.

Mr. Brockway, his wife and his mother got off in time. The damage was estimated at about $40,000.

ETHEL KENYON SUTHERLAND GETS LEADING ROLE IN FILM DEBUT

Harry Cohn Features Her Opposite Buck Jones in "Branded" Cast

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Universal Service Motion Picture Editor

(Copyright, 1931, Universal Service, Inc.)

LOS ANGELES, April 22—The attractive, divorced wife of Edward Sutherland is being given a start in motion pictures by Harry Cohn. For the first time in her life Ethel Kenyon Sutherland will have the lead in a picture. She plays opposite Buck Jones in "Branded."

Louella O. Parsons lasted about six months. They are still good friends and still talk to each other.

There is an interesting story about Ethel Sutherland and one that has probably not been printed. Mrs. Sutherland was Ethel Kenyon, a stage actress, she invested some money in "Strike Up the Band," an Edgar Selwyn show and got some excellent returns on her investment. Then she married Edward Sutherland and the marriage

When their romance ended she did not want to go back to New York, but stayed in Hollywood, playing bits at Paramount. Now she is being given the chance by Harry Cohn and it will be interesting to see what she will do.

THE MOST SURPRISED young man in Hollywood at the announcement of Dorothy Mackaill's engagement to H. R. Miller was Walter Byron. Just the day that the wire came through from Honolulu that Dorothy and Mr. Miller had tried to get married, Mr. Byron had said that he and Dorothy were going to be married in a few months. In fact, he stated that he was only waiting for her return to set the date. Perhaps he took too much for granted. I don't know. But you can imagine everyone's surprise when it was pretty well understood that Dorothy and young Byron had matrimonial plans.

* * *

MARLENE DIETRICH is coming back and that very soon. Josef Von Sternberg has been working on her story. "Indiscretion." Josef, you know, is the discoverer of Frau Dietrich and he is the one who has fought all her battles, given her advice and done his best to make a star of her. Just how well he has succeeded you can judge by the letters that pour in asking when she is coming back. The story is that she will bring her baby. What about her husband? Well, now, I wouldn't be knowing that.

HERE'S AN interesting bit: Gloria Swanson is on her way to New York. She left Saturday night on the same train that took Richard Dix. Miss Swanson's hurried trip to New York is probably the result of a disagreement she is said to have had with Samuel Goldwyn. Sam and Gloria just couldn't get together. That is only natural when two people have such strong opinions and know what they want. The rumor is that Gloria goes east to see if she can find another releasing arrangement. Meanwhile, her next picture, "Rockabye" is being held up.

* * *

THE MARRIAGE of John McCormick and Mae Clarke is definitely off. No less a person than Mr. McCormick said he is not going to marry anyone. When he sailed last Saturday he announced he was through with Hollywood and he was going to Honolulu to buy a sugar plantation. Just before he left he said he had been married to the best little woman in the world, Colleen Moore, and he hadn't appreciated her and now he wasn't going to marry anyone else. This remark was made in friends of Mr. McCormick who went to the boat to see him off. Colleen is still in the east. One hears that her plan to marry Al Scott will probably materialize.

* * *

LOLA LANE and Lew Ayres are working on the same lot. Lola is a very pretty girl and I am not surprised that she has been given one of the feminine leads in "The Whole Town's Talking." I thought when I saw her on the beach a few Sundays ago with her blonde hair and red bathing suit that I had never seen a prettier girl. These two youngsters have not announced their engagement but they make no secret of their fondness for each other.

* * *

AMONG THE interesting things I heard over the weekend was that Clara Bow will be starred in "Manhandled," the picture in which Gloria Swanson achieved such definite success. As I remember "Manhandled" was one of the pictures that caused Paramount to offer her $20,000 a week and which La Belle Swanson turned down. I also heard that Claudia Dell had been borrowed by Paramount for one of the leading roles in "The Conquerors" and "The Public Mercy." There are a lot of girls in that picture. Harry Pollard has been signed on a long term contract at Metro-Goldwyn-Pyathe.

Ann MacDonald, Stage Favorite, Passes On

The many Boston friends of Ann MacDonald will be grieved to learn of her death last Saturday at her home at Weehawken, New Jersey, after a brief illness. Miss MacDonald was well known on the stage and in private life here, having appeared as leading lady for the late Leo Ditrichstein in "The Great Lover," and subsequently with Leo Carillo in "Upstairs and Down."

DANCING IS THEIR SPECIALTY ON R-K-O KEITH'S SCREEN

"Ten Cents a Dance," feature film at RKO Keith's, presents Barbara Stanwyck in one of her outstanding roles. Ricardo Cortez, Monroe Owsley, Victor Potel, Sally Blane are also featured in this story of a girl who danced with many. Others in the cast include Blanch Frederici and Phyllis Crane. The film is proving a big hit at Keith's.

Stage Who's Who

It is not difficult for Sydney Greenstreet to play the British "Lord Loam," in the revival of Sir James M. Barrie's comedy, "The Admirable Crichton," when it is coming to the Colonial, May 4, for Sydney Greenstreet is an Englishman by birth although an American by adoption. He stepped into the Lord Loam role following the fatal illness of Hubert Carter during the run of the play at the New Amsterdam Theater, New York, after a week's rehearsal. His best remembered role of recent theatricals was as the near-sighted president of the Senate in "Lysistrata," an engagement recently completed. He will also be recalled in several Theater Guild productions—Alquist in "R. U. R." Kublai Khan in "Marco's Millions," and in "Volpone." He also played Dogberry in Mrs. Fiske's company of "Much Ado About Nothing," a couple of seasons ago.

Renew Contracts

Richard Arlen, Frances Dee and Charles Starrett have had their contracts renewed by Paramount.

"Italian Night" Will Attract Notables

Tonight will be "Italian Night" at the Fine Arts theater, when a distinguished gathering of prominent Italo Americans will attend the screening of the first Italian prize-winning talking and singing film "Napoli Che Canta."

"Napoli Che Canta" has been hailed as the finest film of the Italian studios, and pictorially beautiful. The lovely Neapolitan landscape, Mt. Vesuvius in action, the native folksongs and carnivals, provide a background for a simple romance, with the musical score by two of Italy's best known composers, Tagliaferri and Sassoli.

Among those who will attend this evening are Judge and Mrs. Joseph T. Zottoli, Judge and Mrs. Frank Leveroni, Judge and Mrs. Felix Forte, Rep. and Mrs. Felix Marcella, Rep. Augustine Airola, Comm. and Mrs. Saverio R. Romano, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Brogna, Cav. and Mrs. Frank Ciambelli, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Scanga, Prof. Joseph H. Sasserno, Mayor and Mrs. Andrew A. Casassa, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Cifrino, Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Volpe, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen D. Sacignalupo, Mr. and Mrs. Jerome A. Petitti, Mr. and Mrs. P. Nicholas Petrocelli, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Tomasello, Mr. and Mrs. Martin E. Adamo, P. A. Santosuosso, Mr. and Mrs. G. N. Longarini, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Santosuosso, Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Porcella, Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Albiani and others.

Thurston Card Trick Fooled Master

Because of the thousands of packs of cards used in a single season and the tax placed by the federal government upon the sale of cards, Thurston, the magician at the Tremont, becomes a substantial contributor to the nation's treasury. For, in one season, it has been estimated that he buys as many as 5000 packs of cards.

Thurston is still appraised as the greatest manipulator of cards in the world. He created the trick of palming a deck of cards, in which cards are made to disappear, then reappear on an outstretched palm. This used to be his first act, 35 years ago, when he started out in the world as a magician.

The "Rising Card Act," in which cards are suspended in mid-air without any visible means of support, is a feat that caused even Herrman the Great, his master, to be deceived.

Theater Ushers Will Stage Dance Tonight

The ushers of the Codman Square, Fields Corner, Strand and Morton Theaters will hold their first annual dance tonight at the Columbus Club ballroom, Uphams Corner, at 8 o'clock. The music will be furnished by "Cut" Conley's Orchestra, with dancing from 8 to 12. It is planned to arrange to present a short program of entertainment during the intermission.

Film Who's Who

Neil Hamilton, who plays the itinerant newspaper reporter and lover in Norma Shearer's picture, "Strange as May Kiss," at Keith's Orpheum, Friday, was born in Lynn, and was on the stage before entering films. He won wide recognition in "Beau Geste" and recently played in "The Dawn Patrol," "Widow from Chicago," "Darkened Rooms," "Ladies Must Play," "The Cat Creeps" and "Ex Flame."

Scollay Stars Have Only Act of Its Kind

The three Castles, appearing in vaudeville this week at the Scollay, are the only one-legged acrobats in the world today. The three boys, while only having one leg each, perform a series of sensational cycling stunts that many of the two-legged cyclists do not attempt.

Film Shows Ireland's Beauty

THE PERPETUAL lure of Ireland draws folks to such theatrical fare as "The Hills of Erin," Emmett Moore's current offering, now at Tremont Temple.

Moore's rambling movie camera brings to the homesick Gael a glimpse of his native village, of his stay-at-home kinsmen at work and at play, and a panorama of the shrines of Irish history.

"The Hills of Erin" is not the conventional travelogue. It searches out the sequestered thatched cottage, the sudden beauty of a quiet valley hidden in the rugged hills, far from the beaten path of tourist travel.

The world-renowned cradles of Irish valor and learning are not neglected, of course. The famous universities, the citadels drenched with the blood of Irish heroes in the troubled centuries of struggle for autonomy, the ruined abbeys, all are represented in the scenes assembled by Moore in his wanderings through his native country.

But it was the homely scenes in the picturesque hamlets and rural communities that brought the tears to the eyes of the audience, many of whom recognized on the screen the locales of their childhood.

A troupe of native musicians and dancers kept the feet of the music-loving crowd tapping with their rendition of tunes and steps reminiscent of festive gatherings in the home land.

Special Midnight Show at the Howard Tonight

A special midnight performance will be given tonight at the Old Howard, where Primo Carnera, the "man-mountain" who is being engineered into a shot at the world heavyweight championship title, is the star.

The conqueror of Jim Maloney —a decision which led to much arguing—will show his methods of training and expects to convince Boston fight fans that his claim to the championship is due to his ability more than to his size. There will also be a special midnight performance Friday night at 12:05 and there will be three complete shows offered Saturday at 1, 4:30 and 8 o'clock. Primo will appear at every performance.

Symphony in Brilliant Concert

By MOSES SMITH

ORCHESTRAL playing of almost surpassing brilliance featured the last concert of the Tuesday matinee series by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, led by Serge Koussevitsky. The program began with "Noel," from Georges W. Chadwick's Symphonic Sketches. The performance was in the nature of a memorial to one of the few great American composers, who died two weeks ago. This charming Christmas song was delightfully played.

Schumann's first symphony, Stravinsky's Capriccio for Piano and Orchestra, and Strauss' "Till Eulenspiegel" were the other numbers on the program. The Symphony was performed even more beautifully than it had been at last week's subscription concerts. In the Capriccio, the most successful novelty of the year—it has appeared on four programs—the pianist was as usual the capable, self-effacing Jesus Maria Sanroma. The colorful performance of the Strauss work was the more remarkable in that it had received (we were told) no rehearsal.

* * *

A program of orchestral music was given at the Museum of Fine Arts last evening by a group of players from the Boston Symphony Orchestra, led by Arthur Fiedler. Thousands thronged the various galleries surrounding the rotunda where the players were seated. Mozart's G minor symphony was the principal number of the well played list. The slowly-advancing sonorities of Wagner's Prelude to "Lohengrin" seemed to us the most favored by the tricky acoustics of the Museum. In the other works the echoes of the wind tones tended to muffle succeeding string tones, though not violently.

Vivian Oakland has been selected by Lou Brock to play opposite Rosco Ates in "A Cleanup on the Curb."

RASKOB HAS NO INTENTION OF RESIGNING

New York, April 22 (AP)—Three leading figures of the Democratic party—John J. Raskob, Jouett Shouse and Alfred E. Smith—conferred here today on the party deficit.

Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, said the conference had no other significance and that candidates or policies were not to be discussed. Shouse is chairman of the executive committee.

Raskob said he had no intention of resigning, declaring demands for his resignation came from dry Democrats not connected with the national committee.

"Not one national committeeman or committeewoman has written or asked my resignation," he said.

Raskob said the only flaw in his picture of Democratic success in 1932 is the possibility that the party may not see the necessity of setting itself forth properly on the prohibition question.

There is not the opposition to his prohibition plan that there was before it was understood, he said.

He believes that will be one of the three live issues of the next presidential campaign.

"Republicans and Democrats should state clearly what they stand for," he said. "There are three live subjects to be decided at the next election—prohibition, the tariff and the establishment of an economic balance that will not, under posture, hereafter make impossible the recurrence of depressions of such great severity as that through which we have just passed.

"Prosperity and better times are on the way. Business is picking up.

"It is my firm belief that the Republican party is shot to pieces."

1 DEAD, 17 HURT IN N. Y. BLAZE

New York, April 22 (AP)—Flames that consumed a tenement house as if it were a matchbox killed one man, injured 17 persons and left 100 homeless just before dawn today.

Patrolling in upper Park ave. saw a wisp of smoke curling from five-story building at 116th st. In five seconds fire was belching from many windows.

Firemen, almost surrounded by flames, dashed through corridors arousing the sleeping people, some of whom leaped screaming from windows.

When the fire was subdued an unidentified man was found burned to death on the top floor. Julius Fisher, awakened by the crackling flames, carried his mother up a ladder to the roof, but both were burned before they reached safety. Most of the others on the injured list suffered smoke poisoning, lacerations or burns.

CALL BANKERS IN PROBE

Chicago, April 22 (AP)—The special grand jury investigating crime, corruption and politics today turned its attention to 60 bank officials to tell of the financial affairs of police officials.

The investigation has netted the information, Foreman J. A. Farmar said, that certain police captains had made deposits of as much as $6000 and $8000 in a single day, and that one captain had bought $50,000 worth of stocks in four years while drawing a salary of $4000 a year.

Another, Farmar said, deposited nearly $10,000 within a month. The accounts of four other captains were described as "extremely interesting."

Beer War Blamed for Chicago Slaying

Chicago, April 22 (AP) — A Southside beer war was blamed by police today for a new flareup of gangland shootings, in which Edward Fitzgerald, 31, reputed chief Lieutenant for Frank McErlane, a "public enemy," was slain.

Shotgun and pistol bullets were fired into the body as he attempted to flee late yesterday from five men who called at a saloon in an automobile and seized him. The killers escaped.

4 Held in Plot to Steal Plans of Forts

Strasbourg, France, April 22 (AP)—Police, co-operating with the military authorities here, have arrested four Alsatians, three of whom are alleged to have confessed delivering plans of frontier fortifications to Germany.

The investigations are said to have revealed that the conspirators tried to steal the new French machine gun models of 1924 and 1925.

100 Flee as Flames Destroy Building

Washington, April 22 (AP)—A four-story building in the downtown business section was destroyed by fire early today, but efforts to prevent the spread of flames through closely-packed adjoining structures were successful.

Four firemen were overcome by smoke while fighting the blaze at Ninth and E sts., Northwest. About 100 guests in a nearby hotel were ordered to the streets for safety, but that building was not damaged.

Man About Town

By AL DUFFY

To a Flirt

Perfidious flirt! I'll nightly pray
You'll find yourself in love some day,
With one whose speed you cannot span. . . .
A sailor—or a traveling man.

May you surrender to the sort
That gathers girls in every port. . . .
The braggart type that boasts and sings
About his fair philanderings.

I hope you'll lie o' nights awake
And suffer with a jealous ache
As I have done—from dusk 'till dawn—
Because of your gay goings-on!

I hope you've heart enough to hurt,
And know when love has done you dirt!

I hope you'll think of me—and mope—
Perfidious flirt! That's what I hope!

Now that they've given firearms to all the working men in the new Republic of Spain, Ed Young, "the Yankee Philosopher," opines that it's going to look funny to see them staring out in the morning with a dinner pail in one hand and a machine gun in the other.

One of our most reliable spies reports that there will be a drastic reorganization at the Boston Garden on May 15 when the New York interests give over the control of the pleasure spot to the Boston interests. Dick Dunn, we are told, is slated to go out and Jack O'Brien, who was ousted last November, is slated to be reinstated as general manager.

Show Business

The theater is a funny racket. Take "The New Yorkers," the big revue that closes in N. Y. next Saturday night, as an example. In its comparatively short span of life this revue has marked up several noteworth records. It had a record salary list of $29,100 weekly for actors; it grossed as high as $65,000 weekly during the early part of its run—top money for all time on Broadway. In spite of all this—or maybe, because of it, it established a record loss for a long run production, the "angel" parting with $220,000 for the "honor" of sponsoring the greatest collection of stars in one company since the days of Weber and Fields. The company is playing an extra week at half salary to enable the backer to pay off $10,000 outstanding in notes. The producer of this elegant fiasco was E. Ray Goetz and the bankroll was supplied by Mrs. Joshua Cosden.

Imagine how old Josh must have felt seeing all of his hard-earned dough being tossed around in this manner!

* * *

As an evidence of the alertness of the Boston police, Fred ("Three's a Crowd") Allen points out that on a recent week-end visit to Boston he noticed that the following signs had been placed on the swan boats in the Public Garden:

"Don't play cards with strangers."

* * *

As a postscript, Ed Young observes that evidently some of the runners in the marathon were "good 'til the last drop."

MANHATTAN MARVELS

Fanny Ward in the lobby of the Algonquin looking not a day older than 30 . . . George Fawcett, the movie character actor,—also in the lobby of the Algonquin, talking with one of the prettiest girls these old eyes have seen in many a day . . . A man pushing a baby carriage filled with pretzels (So help me) up Lexington ave. . . "Three's a Crowd"—the smartest revue we have ever seen, not even excepting the first "Little Show" . . . The tallest man we've ever seen doing a street ballyhoo in front of the Paramount Theater . . . The display of green shirts, neckties and pajamas (Weegee!) in the window at 49th st. and Seventh ave. . . And the greatest marvel of all—how we ever got dressed in that lower berth just before we arrived in Boston Tuesday morning!

Ex-President Ousted

Asuncion, Paraguay, April 22 (AP)—The chief of police has notified the former Paraguayan president, Eduardo Schaerer, to leave the country, presumably as a consequence of a revolutionary disturbance at Luque.

Judges Chosen for Classes at Show

MISS ELEONORA SEARS and Mrs. William C. Cox (Jessie Bancroft) have kindly consented to judge the saddle classes at the horse show at Marshfield on Saturday, May 2. For the hunter and breeding classes the judges will be Mr. Henry G. Vaughan, M. F. H., and Capt. Clarence V. S. Mitchell of New York. Mr. Vaughan has been master of the hounds of the Norfolk Hunt Club for 27 years and for 25 years secretary of the master of Fox Hounds Association of which he is now president. Having judged the hunter classes for two years at the national show in New York, and at the Boston horse show, at San Francisco Pittsburgh and Bryn Mawr, he is probably the best known and most experienced judge of hunters in this country. Capt. Mitchell has hunted for years with the Essex hounds of New Jersey and is a keen judge of hunters. The show will begin at 9 o'clock sharp with the pony and horsemanship classes. There will be an intermission of one hour at 1 o'clock for luncheon.

THE WORK OF REBUILDING Raceland after the fire is going on steadily at Mr. John R. Macomber's place in Framingham. There is a chance that it may be ready for the final day of the Eastern Horse Club meet on June 22. The first two days of the meet take place as usual at The Country Club in Brookline and this year the first day of the racing takes place on June 17, the second day on Saturday, June 20, and the final day, if the buildings are completed, at the private racing stable of Mr. Macomber in Framingham Center. This is always one of the most enjoyable days of the whole season.

Many Yachtsmen Enter Race Across Atlantic in July

INTEREST IS GROWING IN the Prince of Wales race, which covers a course from Newport to England, leaving Newport, July 4. We hear that Prof. Dallenbaugh, Paul Hammond and Paul Rust, Jr., are entering boats in this event, as well as Dudley Wolfe, whom we have mentioned before. Roger Hallowell of Milton will be another of the crew of Wolfe's boat. We are wondering if Robert Leeson's recent engagement to Evelyn Talbot will change his plans to be on Mr. Wolfe's racing yacht, as he was scheduled to be in the race.

HAROLD J. COOLIDGE, father of Harold J. Coolidge, Jr., whose marriage to Miss Isaacs of Pittsburgh takes place on Saturday, arrived home from England on the Baltic, landing in New York yesterday.

MR. HERBERT JAQUES flew down to his shooting box in Eastham, on Cape Cod, over the week-end, joining a party of young fellows who motored down from Milton Academy, as his guests. Mr. Jaques acquired this beautiful summer lodge from Quincy A. Shaw, a season or two ago. There is a private 18-hole golf course on the estate.

THERE SEEMS NO LIMIT to Rebekah Hobbs' ambitions—she of Professional Players interests—we hear that she has been elected to the Press Association, and is very much pleased about it. Even being a member of the Junior League and Vincent Club cannot give one a thrill like this.

MR. AND MRS. CHRISTIAN A. HERTER of 61 Beacon st. were guests of President and Mrs. Herbert Hoover at the White House the past week.

Dorothy Lawrence Slated to Be Head of Junior League

THE ANNUAL MEETING OF the Junior League is scheduled for Tuesday, May 12, at 11 o'clock and the list of officers for the coming year is posted. Miss Dorothy Lawrence of Milton, who has been vice-president, is up for president; Miss Helen Moseley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick S. Moseley, is up for first vice-president and Miss Anne Clifford of Lime st. is up for second vice-president. Miss Elizabeth Soule is on the board for re-election as treasurer and Miss Rachel Warner is up for re-election as secretary. Mrs. Alexander Nellson of Chestnut Hill is chairman of the nominating committee, assisted by Miss Eleanor Gibson and Miss Charlotte Moseley. Miss Gibson is one of the officers of the Vincent Club.

THE TWO BEAUTIFUL WARREN sisters, Miss Anne and Miss Helen, and Miss Edith Parker, one of the most talented members of the Vincent Club, will play the leading roles in the operetta, "The Maid of Wisteria," to be presented at the Arlington theater on May 15 and 16 to assist the Boston Speech School for Crippled Children.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT E. BREWER of Marlborough st. will sail with their daughters, the Misses Elsie, Susan and Barbara, for Honolulu early in June to be gone all summer.

Color Scheme Warnings, Hints

By ANN ARDEN

SINCE COLOR is the dominant theme of the entire spring mode, it is important that smart women do not make glaring mistakes in the colors which they contrast or blend. For your especial interest we hereby issue a few hints and warnings.

* * *

THE OUTSTANDING colors of the moment are either the pastels or the Algerian tones. These are at the far point in the color range and should not be combined.

* * *

USE PASTELS with dark shades, the basic ones, such as blacks and blues. Use two tones of the same color—a dark blue with a light blue or dark brown with beige.

* * *

USE THE Algerian shades, also, with the basic colors. Never combine two strong shades like bright blue with bright green. And never combine a pastel with any of the Algerian colors.

* * *

NAVY BLUE with raspberry, light gray with blue, black with pale pastels—all these are deft combinations. Algerian accents to white will be extremely chic for summer.

* * *

COTTONS FOR resort wear are full of holes. You see, net weaves are going to be very popular this year so the ground doesn't deceive us. Woven fabrics in novel patterns, lacy weaves and sheers all boost the lowly cotton to an exclusive level from which it can peer down upon the erstwhile lordly silks.

* * *

AN ATTRACTIVE costume to tuck in the week-end bag, perfect for the onlooker to wear at the various outdoor events through the spring and early summer, is the three-piece novelty jersey pictured. The skirt of many gores is set on mesh yoke, buttoning one side. Mesh forms the deep points from shoulders of the blouse, and the short sleeves. The cardigan jacket is belted, patch-pocketed, and toned horizon blue. The hat of white straw has upturned brim, marked by group of pari-colored feathers at right side of crown. The necklace is of white coral, and the bracelet, of heavy gold links, is new and interesting.

* * *

A CHIC onlooker at the races at Auteuil, France, wore a white pique vest with a violet colored skirt. This is one of the many unusual color combinations seen every day both here and abroad. I hate to be a pessimist, but be wary in this color business—it can lead you into some very bad results.

Princess Doffs Her Native Costumes

Washington, April 22 (AP)—Little Princess Takamatsu of Japan, spending a month in this country on her round-the-world honeymoon, has sent back to Japan all her native costumes with which she started.

The princess has a whole trunkful of smart London dresses in the latest mode, mostly pink and blue, her favorite colors. They pep out unexpectedly, even in the all-white costume she wore to the White House.

When Yamaki, her attendant, appeared, carrying an armful of the dainty, diaphanous garments, they presented the appearance of a gay spring bouquet. Yamaki is small and dainty herself. Her cheeks were flushed with excitement. Her brown eyes sparkled. She thought it was fun—showing the dresses.

The impromptu fashion show was arranged with ceremony, but with much graciousness by the Japanese secretary to the prince. The gowns were hung in his office in the 14-room suite in the Mayflower Hotel, which the royal party occupied during their Washington visit.

Yamaki made soft little cooing sounds of delight as she held up one after another the silken soft, cloud-like dresses. The princess' tastes, she explained, are simple, but she does like pink and blue!

Foreign Delegates to See Work of Blind

The work of Perkins Institution for the Blind will be studied by 100 foreign delegates when they arrive in Boston next Monday as members of a World Conference of workers for the blind, called by President Hoover.

The members are now on a nine day tour studying the work for the blind in Philadelphia, Washington, Pittsburgh and Cleveland.

The delegates will be the guests of the city at a luncheon tendered by Mayor Curley during the stay.

Rev. Hadley to Take Winchester Post

Rev. Dwight W. Hadley, for 15 years rector of Christ Episcopal Church, Medford, has accepted a call as rector of the Church of the Epiphany, Winchester, resigned. Rev. Truman Heminway, resigned.

Rector Hadley is a graduate of Harvard University and of the Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge.

Clubwomen Leave for Arizona

Among the prominent club leaders of Massachusetts who will entrain at the South station at 6:30 tonight for the biennial council of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, April 27 to May 2 at Phoenix, Ari., will be Mrs. Carl L. Schrader of Belmont, president of the Massachusetts State Federation; Mrs. Frank P. Bennett of Cliftondale, first vice-president; Mrs. Fred L. Pigeon, national chairman of education, and Mrs. Charles L. Fuller of Brockton, national vice-chairman of credentials.

Mrs. Azel A. Packard, general federation director for Massachusetts, will join the party at Springfield, while Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole of Brockton, first vice-president of the general federation, will leave today to fulfill speaking engagements in Racine and Sheboygan, Wis. Mrs. Arthur D. Potter of Greenfield, finance member, is visiting friends in the West and will attend the council.

The Bay State women are scheduled to take prominent parts in the council program.

The committee includes Joseph Kennesliy, president; William D. Shourin, vice-president; John T. Conway, treasurer; Ethel C. Browne, secretary; James C. Martell, Joseph G. Maloney, Helen A. Kell yand Edmond A. Berger.

Rev. Alter Named as Bishop of Toledo

Vatican City, April 22 (AP)—The Rev. Karl J. Alter, president of the National Catholic School for Social Service Department, of the National Catholic Welfare Conference at Washington, D. C., today was named Bishop of Toledo, Ohio.

The Rev. Alter, rector of St. Mary's Theological Seminary at Cincinnati, Ohio, was named Bishop of Denver, Colorado.

"Don't read the STARS.. read the RAINBOW"

SAYS DOROTHY DIX

"In color lies your fortune..of charm and romance"

Men love clear, unfaded color! A brilliant sweater . . . the entrancing shade of a lovely frock or blouse . . . attract irresistibly

WHICH COLORS ARE YOURS

Dorothy Dix

LUX NEVER FADES COLORS

(Right) Duplicate fabric washed 5 times in ordinary "good" soap—streaked, faded, shrunken. No longer attractive.

"OF COURSE you want romance—and you wonder — what have the stars in store for ME? Every girl does!

"But don't depend on the stars. The glorious, colorful rainbow is far more helpful! For in COLOR lies your fortune—of charm and romance.

"Color can magnetize. It can attract. Chosen rightly, it can lift you to radiant beauty. Just remember these rules:

"Study YOUR type—choose YOUR colors—and then take care to keep them perfect!

Fading lessens effect

"Never let colors fade. When a color is new it has a thrilling, 'live' quality that makes YOU alive, and gives you a radiant, conquering charm. Faded, it becomes dead and listless and makes you seem so, too. Also, it may even become actually the WRONG shade for you.

"So be careful how you wash your colorful dresses and blouses and gay, brilliant scarfs. I would advise using LUX every time, simply because Lux is especially made to keep colors perfect.

"AND AT HOME: Color at home can surround you with charm. But do keep it fresh and lovely with Lux! Curtains, sofa cushions, table linens, all need this care."

LEE-WAY PLAN INSPIRES CASH PURCHASING

Material inducement in purchasing for cash is offered in the new Lee-way of merchandising Lee tires and tubes through its dealer organization in New England, says Guy D. Miles, New England manager.

There are no mysterious discounts, he says, explaining that the prices are plainly stated on all sizes and types of Lee tires.

Lee has been a manufacturer of rubber articles for 48 years, he declares, and modern methods and modern thought have kept the manufacture at strictly up-to-date, while using care and experience accumulated over years of operation.

To keep abreast of the developments of the tire industry, a test fleet of passenger cars and trucks have been operated daily by Lee for over four years. These vehicles average over 500 miles every 24 hours, rain or shine, over all kinds of roads, constantly wearing out tires.

SEES BUSINESS PICKING UP

The machinery of American business is gradually picking up momentum on a slow but sure climb back toward normal that should continue throughout this year and next.

That is the conviction expressed by W. A. Blees, vice-president in charge of sales for the Oakland Motor Car Company, upon his return from the Pacific Coast where he conducted the last of a series of Oakland-Pontiac dealer meetings which took him during the last three months to nearly every important city in the United States.

During his 15,000-mile tour of the nation, he was convinced by thousands of contacts with business men, bankers, automobile dealers and economists that conditions are showing steadily increasing promise of betterment.

"Doubtless the progress of business will be slow and it will be accompanied by normal seasonable variations," he said, "but the fact remains that all major factors point definitely upward."

CHRYSLER MAN OPTIMISTIC

Raising his eyes from a deskful of graphs and charts representing business in general and the automobile business in particular, John W. Scoville, chief statistician of the Chrysler Corp., told an interviewer that the "business picture looks more encouraging" and that "the automobile industry is steadily climbing toward normalcy."

Scoville pointed to a wealth of facts, figures and logic to substantiate his statements.

"Last November," Scoville stated, "retail deliveries of all makes of cars had fallen to 47 per cent of normal. Recovery commenced in December, with deliveries at 61 per cent of normal, while January increased still further to 67 per cent. February reports show that this figure has been raised to 75 per cent."

Economic Parley Asked by Green

President William Green of the American Federation of Labor believes President Hoover should call a national economic conference to solve the present unemployment situation.

Speaking before more than 600 Harvard Business School students in the Baker Library, Harvard, Green declared that labor and industrial heads, as well as government officials and trained economists, should participate in the conference.

He also advocated the immediate inauguration of a shorter working week, including unchanged wages.

Lack of Funds May Close Belleau Park

Paris, April 22 (AP)—The Paris edition of the New York Herald-Tribune today said that the Belleau Wood Memorial Park should be closed to the public June 30 for lack of funds by a decision of the board of governors of the Belleau Wood Association, Washington.

William B. Fitts, superintendent of the memorial, protested to the board against the decision.

FIELD NOW HAS VACUUM TIRES

Irving L. Field, president of the automobile tire and accessory concern of Field's, 1030 Commonwealth ave., Boston, announces he has been appointed a New England distributor of Vacuum Cup tires.

This tire has been a recognized high grade product from the beginning of the automobile industry, he says, adding that the makers of Vacuum Cup tires back up their product with a guarantee of unquestionable satisfaction.

In connection with this guarantee of the manufacturer, Field's has inaugurated an additional feature of service available to every tire purchaser.

DODGE SALES IN STEADY GAIN

Despite inclement weather which prevailed in many sections of the country, retail deliveries of the New Dodge Sixes an Eights, for the week ending March 28, showed an increase of 4.5 per cent over the preceding week. This further increase is construed by Dodge Brothers as a continuation of the public acceptance that met the current line of Dodge cars when they were introduced a few weeks ago.

"This is very encouraging to us and gives promise to further gains with milder weather in the offing," said A. vanDerZee, general sales manager of the Dodge Corporation. "Furthermore, this increase in sales, in our opinion, is a very definite and encouraging indication of the trend that is steadily bringing us back to normal conditions."

SYNCRO-MESH WINS PRAISE

Advantages of the new Syncro-mesh transmission with quiet second gear used on the 1931 Oldsmobile, are winning unstinted praise from owners, according to R. C. Gilmer, general manager, Boston branch of Olds Motor Works. Safety and driving ease are enhanced both on the road and in traffic, the owners declare.

The ability to easily and quietly shift from second to high and high back to second, with the danger of missing gears eliminated, has won the thousands of 1931 Oldsmobile owners to Syncro-mesh, Gilmer says.

The almost constant shifting of gears required when driving in congested city traffic brings out additional advantages of the Syncro-mesh, he claims.

No One Goes Hungry in This Judge's Court

New York, April 22 (AP)—If you're broke and insist on being arrested it's a good idea to have your case come up before Magistrate Jonah Goldstein.

The magistrate, it became known today, is buying hot lunches for penniless prisoners who are forced to remain in the detention pen during lunch hour.

High Speed Kitchen to Follow Tanks on Battlefield

Washington, April 22 (AP)—Tanks in future warfare will wriggle over battlefields at more than 30 miles an hour, but the army does not purpose to let their crews go hungry.

A high-speed kitchen—the speed referring not to culinary production but to locomotion—has been designed in the office of the quartermaster-general, and the plans referred to the tank board in Ft. Meade, Md., for study.

The kitchen will be carried on a two-ton truck chassis. In addition to a gasoline burner stove, which can be converted into a wood burner if need be, it will have an icebox with a 100-pound capacity.

BLISS GETS NEW NASH POST

Announcement was made that C. H. Bliss has been elected vice-president and director of sales of the Nash Motors Co. The official announcement, made by President C. W. Nash, is considered another important step in the organization policy which has surrounded the motor car leader with unusual executive strength throughout every department of the company.

Identified with Nash since its inception in 1916, Bliss has also had experience in the retail merchandising of automobiles. He was an automobile dealer before entering the Nash Motors shops, and thus received a thorough training in the business of selling cars and in the problems confronting the retail merchant.

Following practical production experience in the Nash manufacturing plants, where he advanced through the various building departments, he entered the factory sales department, where in nine years' time he rose through the positions of assistant sales manager and general sales manager to the directorship of the department.

U. S. Bankers Favor International Bank

London, April 22 (INS)—American banking interests, with one or two exceptions, agreed to the general outline of a plan for an international bank to finance trade in new world markets, proposed by Montague Norman of the Bank of England in his recent United States visit, the London Daily Mail said today.

Although Norman remained noncommittal, the Mail said he was likely to announce formation of the bank at the forthcoming meetings of the World Bank for International Settlements at Basle, Switzerland. The plan calls for a $500,000,000 capitalization.

Judge Who Blocked Merger Faces Ouster

Youngstown, O., April 22—Disbarment proceedings have been filed by Prosecutor Ray L. Thomas against Judge David G. Jenkins, charging that Jenkins received money from the treasurer of a local utility company to pay the expenses of a vacation trip.

Judge Jenkins recently handed down a decision restraining the proposed billion dollar merger of the Bethlehem Steel Corp. and the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co.

CHEVROLET HAS NEW PLANT

The speed of modern industry is illustrated by the announcement that production of the new Chevrolet commercial body plant has totaled more than 22,000 bodies since Oct. 15. On that date, when the plant was taken over by Chevrolet, designs for bodies to be built were not yet in existence, says J. H. Walsh, Chevrolet zone manager.

Sixteen different types are already in volume production, and plans are complete for building three additional types.

Since acquiring the plant, formerly operated by the Martin-Parry Body Corp., Chevrolet officials have renovated the buildings and grounds, replaced obsolete equipment, schooled workmen in precision methods of manufacture called for in the body designs, and opened and placed in operation 52 body assembly plants at as many zone points.

BANCROFT GOES ON AIR TONIGHT

Los Angeles, April 22 (US)—George Bancroft, smiling villain of underworld films, will talk over the radio tonight as guest star of Louella O. Parsons, motion picture editor of the Hearst newspapers and Universal Service. Mr. Bancroft will tell something of his career. Also, he will answer a number of questions asked him by Miss Parsons.

Mr. Bancroft's appearance on the air is the 13th of a series of Miss Parsons' weekly broadcasts which reach from coast to coast in a national hookup. This interview today will be heard between 8:30 and 8:45 (Eastern Standard time). It is being sent out over the Columbia Broadcasting System, sponsored by the California fruit growers.

NOBILE CALLED A VICTIM OF AIR FIGHT

By WALTER DIETZEL,
International News Correspondent.

Berlin, April 22—Gen. Umberto Nobile, commander of the ill-fated airship Italia, wrecked in the Arctic with the loss of many lives, has been called an "Italian Dreyfus" by Willy Meyer, German ex-war hero.

His book, "The Fight Around Nobile," is meant as a belated but definite vindication and rehabilitation of Nobile. As a result of this investigation, Meyer arrives at the following conclusions:

Nobile has been "railroaded" by his own country merely because the fight between airship and airplane has been decided in favor of the heavier-than-air craft. Gen. Balbo was Nobile's conqueror.

It is mainly Balbo's fault that Nobile, whose airships are still flying in Argentine, Spain, England, Japan and the United States, was never allowed to finish his largest airship with which he intended to cross the ocean from Rome to Buenos Ayres prior to the ill-fated Arctic flight of the Italia.

The committee which investigated the Italia tragedy pronounced a verdict without hearing the defendant.

Charges of cowardice were untrue. All witnesses, especially the commandant of the expedition ship Citta Di Milano, agree that Nobile was rescued first solely on the explicit request of all responsible quarters.

Business Men Plan War on Auction Sales

Representatives of women's and business organizations met with members of the Back Bay Business Men's Association at the Hotel Statler, and discussed methods of securing legislation to stop auction sales of a questionable nature. They were described as unfair competition to other merchants, who pay high rents and taxes and also unfair to the public.

G. Harry Adalian, president of the Back Bay Association, in opening the discussion, said the drive was launched against auctions where merchandise is brought into a store for the purpose of disposing of it as the original stock of the store.

TOO MUCH GOLD KILLED ALL JOY IN HER LIFE

What would you do if your family had so much money that you weren't able to enjoy it in the way you wanted to?

What would you do if your family had so much money that you had to live up to the money?

What would you do if your family had so much money that you could do nothing but spend?

What would you do if your family had so much money that you could never want anything?

What would you do if your family had so much money that you could have everything but achievement?

What would you do if your family had so much money that it was a bar to the love you desired?

Jennifer Rarick faced a life in which "too much money" might well have been the plaint. She was a girl who would have been fine and sound in all things, if she hadn't had too much money. She was a girl who suffered the things that others have suffered, and will continue to suffer, because of "too much money."

MORGAN'S WORKERS DANCE

Nearly 1000 employes of Morgan's will attend the 14th annual store dance this evening at the Hotel Kenmore.

The committee in charge of arrangements is headed by M. Cerulo, assisted by George E. Snook, traffic manager; Rose M. Lodico, Carmaisen Butler, Beatrice Kadish, Sam S. Brown and Rita Sullivan. Managers of all branch stores and executives of the firm will participate in the festivities. These include Abner Cohan, president; Sidney Rogal, vice-president; J. M. Pullman, controller; Leo Gaffney, advertising manager; E. A. Brest, credit manager; Al Reinberg, store manager. Also Robert Lewis, Waltham store manager, and Richard Pierce, Somerville store manager.

BON VOYAGE PARTY

Miss Florence Webb, buyer for Filene's Jewelry shop, and Miss Grace Hunter, buyer for the gift shop, are on the ocean today, en route to Europe.

They were given a surprise bon voyage party by the staff of the gift shop late Saturday and presented with "reminders" of store friends. Miss Jeanne Gerson, Miss Kathleen Braithwaite and Daniel Sullivan of the gift shop staff arranged the party. Present were: Leonard Libby, men's store service superintendent; Edward Phelps, assistant buyer for the stocking shop; Lincoln Morton, buyer of toilet goods; Sam Bregal, of Mr. Kirstein's staff; and Russell Levin of Mr. Lacy's staff.

NEW LIBRARY OPENED

Miss Denapoli is in charge of the new lending library of 4000 volumes, opened Saturday by Houghton's. The library contains an assortment of reading matter.

GILCHRIST NINE ON FIELD

The Gilchrist 1931 baseball team has joined the Mercantile League, and is challenging other teams under the management of Lloyd Doyle. Sam Bent has been elected captain.

One of the games already scheduled is that with the Brighton police team, captained by Bill Earle, formerly of Gilchrist's receiving room staff.

MISS FULLER IN CHARGE

Miss Evelyn Fuller has been placed in charge of the new beauty shop recently opened by Plotkin Bros.

CHEER DACE WINNER

Linden Dempster is receiving the plaudits of his fellow workers at Waterman Fountain Pen Co. for having won the 10-mile race held by the Michael J. O'Connell Post, A. L., of Roxbury, on the holiday. Dempster is in charge of the shipping department.

DANCE FOLLOWS MEETING

Seventy-five store members of Emerson's danced and frolicked in the store last night after the management announced plans for a birthday sales contest, to begin on Thursday. The party was given by President T. Grafton Abbott and Vice-president Frank W. Phillips, who will captain opposing sales teams during the event celebrating the 89th birthday of the firm.

MITCHELL IS AN ACTOR

James Mitchell, of R. H. White's rug department, who is playing in the minstrel show being staged for three nights by the James C. Hayes Council of K. of C., Dorchester, was given a big "hand" by men of his department who attended the performance last night. In the group were: John Savage, Roy Lovell, John Garabedian, Fred Lake, Jr., and Edward Brown.

TWOMEY ON PLATFORM

The nature of "present day competition" was explained in an address given before the Malden Chamber of Commerce last night by Harry F. Twomey, sales promotion manager for Jordan's.

HOOVERS WATCH AUTOGIRO LAND

Washington, April 22 (AP)—While government and aviation notables, headed by President Hoover, looked on, an autogiro landed today on the south lawn of the White House.

The feat was accomplished by James G. Ray as part of a ceremony in which President Hoover presented the Collier trophy to Harold Pitcairn of Philadelphia and associates for the outstanding development in American aviation in 1930.

The windmill airplane was the second craft ever to land on the White House grounds, harking back to the Taft administration, when the pioneer, Harry Atwood, made a landing.

Faced with a strong southeast wind, Ray, who is chief test pilot for the Pitcairn-Cierva Autogiro Co., passed twice over the small space before he dropped from above the White House and came to a stop after a 200-foot run.

President Hoover shook hands with the pilot, while Mrs. Hoover and two grandchildren, Peggy Ann and Herbert 3d, looked on from the south portico of the White House.

Follies Girl Sues Penny Arcades

New York, April 22 (AP)—Myrtle Miller, former Ziegfeld Follies girl, objects to acting in the penny arcades, via photographs.

Providence, R. I., April 22 (AP)—Dwight Seabury, 68, prominent mill engineer and descendant of one of Rhode Island's oldest colonial families, died last night.

Suing O'Neill for Plagarism Costs Woman $17,500

New York, April 22 (INS)—Gladys Lewys, author, today lost her suit for plagiarism against Eugene O'Neill, the dramatist, and, furthermore, was assessed $17,500 costs by Federal Judge Woolsey. Of this amount $7000 goes to O'Neill for costs of the suit.

The court held there was "no possible ground" for Miss Lewys' contention that O'Neill's play, "Strange Interlude," was plagiarized from Miss Lewys' novel, "Temple Pallas Athenae." Judge Woolsey also scored her actions during the trial.

IGLOO TO HAVE NO SUCCESSOR

Memphis, Tenn., April 22 (AP)—Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd wants no successor to Igloo.

When he arrived here today to make his first lectures since his fox terrier died in Boston, he was offered another dog. He wrote in reply:

"I appreciate the proposed gift just as much as if I could accept it, but I cannot.

"Your kindness calls for an explanation from me. It is this: Igloo cannot be replaced.

"Those of you who are dogs' friends know that a dog can be, and usually is, a better friend to his master than he is to himself."

Admiral Byrd has not decided when Igloo will be buried. He wants to attend the burial but does not know if that will be possible.

VAMPIRE TO DIE NINE TIMES

Duesseldorf, Germany, April 22 (INS)—Justice descended today upon Peter Kuerten, so-called "vampire killer," found guilty of nine murders and seven attempted slayings.

He was sentenced to death nine times, one sentence being meted out for each of the slayings.

In addition, he was sentenced to 15 years in the penitentiary for other crimes.

The multiple death sentence carried the stipulation that Kuerten "be deprived of his citizenship rights for the rest of his life."

Bishop Favors Ban on Death Chair But—

Dist. Atty. Warren L. Bishop of Middlesex county today clarified his stand on capital punishment in Massachusetts in a letter to Miss Sara R. Ehrmann, secretary of the Massachusetts Council for Abolition of the Death Penalty.

The district attorney's letter was in reply to a telegram from Miss Ehrmann. The answer was:

"I am strongly in favor of abolishing the death penalty for murder as soon as murder ceases in Massachusetts—but not before."

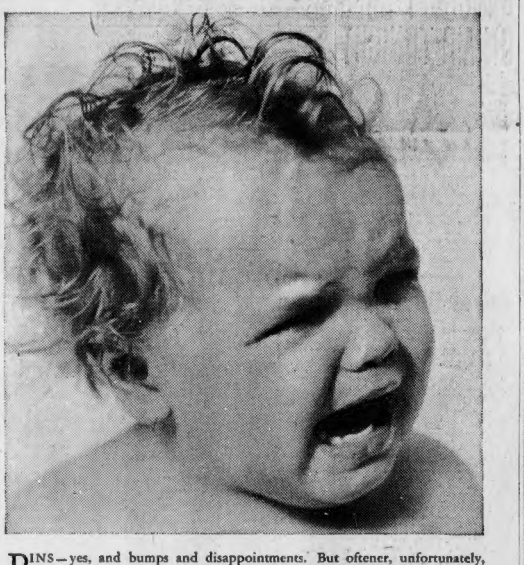
Price War Forces Cement Cost Down

New York, April 22 (AP)—Quotations for Portland cement in the territory each of the Rocky Mountains have dropped to the lowest levels in 15 years as the result of a price war.

Reductions were made yesterday in the Hudson River territory, parts of Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa and Missouri and in the Baltimore district. Since the beginning of the year five price cuts have been made in New York city.

TEMPER

is not always the cause of a child's cry



PINS—yes, and bumps and disappointments. But oftener, unfortunately, babies cry because of a general state of unrest caused by improper, inadequate or injudicious feeding.

Most milks look alike, but there the similarity ends. Milk to keep a baby healthy and happy must be good at its source. Then pasteurized in a way that maintains the fine, fresh, clean flavor. That creates absolute safety without changing the digestibility of the nutrients and what is more important, without destroying any of the essential vitamines.

America's Favorite Story Teller

Jennifer Rarick was the exasperatingly clever daughter of the thirteenth richest man in the world, John G. Rarick (a Napoleon fan), and daughter of Jenny Rarick who got her husband to buy the Ficke Palace in Fifth Avenue, and she was the sister of Avery Rarick, whose unhappiness at college was killing him in spite of speedboats and imported roadsters for toys. What enormous wealth did to the Rariks is the story of Miss Hurst's great novel entitled (because of the source of that wealth) "Five and Ten."

Mary Lou Decides to Play Safe

By FAITH BALDWIN

Author of "The Office Wife," "Alimony" and Other Famous Serials.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR

Mary Lou Thurston, a beautiful and vivacious girl of the "home" type, orphaned by the death of her parents, lives with her aunt and uncle, Clara and Howard Sanderson. The former is private secretary to a publisher, and the latter an engineer. Larry Mitchell, energetic young newspaper reporter, is Mary Lou's pal. Sanderson gets a wonderful business chance to go to the Orient and take his wife as secretary. Mary Lou is to stay temporarily with Grandma Jennings. Clara's mother. Larry is eager to marry Mary Lou and take care of her, but Mary Lou convinces him they are merely good pals and asks him to help her get a job. She applies at the Lorrimer's and is claimed by the son of the house as his war bride, named "Delight." Mary Lou qualifies as companion for Travers, who seems to find her different from his remembrance of his wife." The Lorrimers plan for the first gay Christmas since the war. Mary Lou discovers her love for Lorry.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"AND WHO are 'they,' Margaret? You fuss over that boy far too much!" said Dr. Mathews.

"Do I? And I try so hard not to," she murmured. "They' are Travers and Mary Lou, of course . . ."

"Some day you'll get confused and call her that," he warned.

"No, I don't think so," she told him. "Sometimes I find that's the only way I can remind myself of the true situation by naming her—just to you—Larry Mitchell is here for the weekend, and Jenny Wynne is out with the three of them; they are skating on Willow Pond."

"Mitchell is a nice youngster," commented Mathews.

"Yes—he's terribly smitten with Jenny, poor boy. She treats him outrageously—as she treats everyone."

Presently the four came back from the pond, cold and ruddy, trudging up to the house, the comfort of a hearth fire, and tea, laughing all the way, their boots crunching in the hard, dry snow

Loved Beauty

The sun was now at its setting red and gold, a glory of celestial fire.

"Lovely," said Mary Lou—"lovely. . ."

Her voice broke a little. She had always loved beauty, it had an intimate message for her, but lately, it seemed, it broke her heart.

Larry, with whom she was walking, looked at her quickly.

"Steady on," he murmured, for, it seemed, no good reason.

It wasn't until he spoke that Mary Lou realized there were sudden tears in her eyes.

She blinked them away, and said, defensively.

"Well, it is lovely——"

Jenny broke into a little run "Golly! I'm frozen," she cried. "Travers, you lazy lump, I'll race you to the house!"

She darted off, slim and straight in her skating suit of scarlet wool, grimmer trimmed Mary Lou watched her flash along the path between the Lorrimer and Lorrimer after her. She remembered how she had raced with him—one day, it seemed very long ago, and yet was just before Christmas.

But since then he had kissed her, under the pale green and amber pearl of the mistletoe, since then she had come to her new wisdom.

Larry said, low:

Crazy About Him

"You're crazy about him, aren't you? Don't be afraid of me, partner. We've always been friends. I understand, you know. You are aren't you?"

"Yes," she said, quite simply.

"What are you going to do, dear?" he asked her, anxious for her, comprehending.

"I don't know. See the farce

HUSBAND TELLS OF LOVE RAID

The installment plan aura was widened today to include installment plan detectives to trail your wife.

Andrew C. Scott, son of Supt. Scott of the Brookline division, Boston Elevated Railway Company, testifying in his divorce suit in Middlesex Superior Court, declared that he paid his detectives on the installment plan out of his $28.30-a-week salary.

In his suit against Mrs. Marie E. Scott, the husband named Albert E. Wilson, Devonshire st. business man, and said that as a result of information brought him by his operatives, Scott and his father found the wife in a hotel room with Wilson.

"She had her shoes off and was sitting in a chair, smoking," said Scott. "There was a pint bottle half full of liquor. My wife appeared to be under the influence of liquor. She was very loud."

DEATH TAKES 'JERRY' LEARY

"Jerry" Leary, who smiled benignly on thousands of Boston brides and bridegrooms during 34 years' service at City Hall, died today at his home, 65 Gladstone st., East Boston.

Death overtook him after he had enjoyed his retirement for only a little more than eight months. He was 66 years old.

He will be buried on Friday, with a solemn high requiem mass at St. Joseph's Church, Breed st., East Boston.

Despite his many years as "aid to Cupid" in the role of assistant city registrar, from which he retired last August, "Jerry" Leary never married. His first and last love was baseball.

Born in East Boston, he always made his home there. He was graduated from grammar school and later attended business college. Then he went to work as a clerk at the Navy Yard and later joining the police department, where he remained nine years.

His next move took him to the city registry, where he was made assistant registrar, a position he held until his retirement.

His geniality endeared him to thousands of couples and he was one of the most popular figures in city affairs. "On giving up his duties he estimated that he had dealt with 200,000 couples and had taken a hand in recording the marriages of half a million.

He was a member of Fitton Council, K. of C., and the M. C. O. F. His sister, Miss Elizabeth M. Leary, survives him. A brother was Michael J. Leary, former alderman.

GUARDSMEN FOR BIG AIR SHOW

Mayor Curley called on Gov. Ely in the State House today and requested him to assign a company of national guardsmen to assist Boston police in preserving order during the air maneuvers which are to be held over Dorchester Bay, May 23.

It is estimated that a crowd of 2,000,000 will throng the South Boston Strandway and at other points along that shore line. The Mayor told the Governor that F. Trubee Davison, assistant secretary of war in charge of aeronautics, had phoned that plans for the huge air show are now nearly complete.

A section of the Columbus Park Stadium on the Strandway will be reserved for aviators from all sections of the nation who will come here as guests of the city, Mayor Curley said.

P. O. FIGHT MAY GO TO CONGRESS

Washington, April 22 (INS)—A fight in the next Congress appeared a possibility today as a result of the Treasury's policy of accepting supplemental bids from contractors without further advertisement.

The row which has attracted attention since Comptroller-General McCarl threw out a contract made by the Treasury with the M. P. Severin Company of Chicago for construction of the Boston postoffice. The Treasury has asked reconsideration of the comptroller's action and a decision is expected in a few days.

Bids were first asked on the Boston building for granite construction and combination granite-limestone. New England interests demanded granite and the bid for that material was beyond the limit of cost; supplemental bids were asked.

A satisfactory granite bid was secured and the contract awarded to the Severin company.

Bull Routs Police 'Rodeo Department' in Cambridge

2 OFFICERS FLEE AS FUGITIVE CHARGES

Small Boy With Cap Pistol Defies Animal, Which Is Captured After a Tussle

The rodeo department of Cambridge police emerged victorious in a joust with a roving bull today, but not until after the belligerent bovine had routed his two police matadors from a Cambridge yard and driven them, in undignified confusion, into a house.

Unversed as they are in slinging rope, Patrolman Herbert J. ("Bill the Trail") Halliday, and Mark Cleary of the rodeo squad, experienced considerable difficulty and many cheers from a watching throng in Franklin st. before they succeeded in curbing the bull's activities.

BUMPS TWO AUTOS

The bull escaped from a Brighton abattoir in some mysterious way and placed itself in rapid circulation. The first known of its freedom was when it clumsily sideswiped two parked automobiles as it lumbered down Western ave., Cambridge.

Turning into Franklin st., a block away from Central sq., the wanderer tired of the pavement and entered the yard at 567 Franklin st., where Bobby Schnitzlein, three, and Joseph Martell, four, of that address, were playing.

Bobby had a toy cap pistol in his hand, and he snapped that valiantly at the bull before the boys fled into the house.

Police were notified and Patrolmen Halliday and Cleary put on their roundup mood and responded.

ROUTED PELL-MELL.

They got a long clothesline and fashioned a loop, but by that time the bull had made up his mind that all was not well. He charged, and the rodeo department of the Cambridge police tumbled into the house.

When the bull, now watched by a constantly-growing throng, had trotted away from the door, the policemen cautiously emerged again —and this time succeeded in dropping their lasso around the fugitive's size 36 neck. Then they tied the bull to a tree, while the crowd cheered.

A short time later Frank Welch and James Burns, employes of the abattoir, arrived and led the bull back to its pen.

BISHOP IN PLEA TO STOP ALL RUM BUYING

Low Salaries Paid to Rectors Are Scored at Episcopal Diocese Convention

Stop drinking—that's the way to stop bootlegging, and the only way to do it, Bishop William Lawrence told the 146th annual convention of the Massachusetts Episcopal Diocese at Ford Hall today.

The retired head of the diocese painted the benefits of total abstinence and while he refused to pass on Prohibition as a governmental policy, he remarked

"Our present lawlessness has been 'passed off' on prohibition."

"Men will drink as long as they want to," he also said.

His address followed other business in the course of which Philip S. Parker, legal authority of the diocese, charged that half the rectors in the diocese were underpaid.

WALKS OUT ON ARGUMENT

"I have lived 80 years and worked many years among all sorts of people," said Bishop Lawrence.

"Before I became a total abstainer several years before the war, I have felt a freedom and happiness in spirit, and a liberty and solidity and courage I had never felt before in all those years.

"I have seen many stages of governmental administration and have found that the law will be broken and men will drink as long as they want to.

"Our present lawlessness has been passed off on prohibition. As for me, when the question of prohibition comes up, I walk out and save myself lots of time.

"If you don't drink and other citizens don't drink, there will be no bootlegging. Often a moderate use of liquor twists a man's prejudice and judgment. I believe the majority of ministers who are total abstainers are not so because they are ministers, but because they are citizens.

LOW SALARIES HIT

"It is a very easy problem to solve, if we just stop talking and drinking."

Parker's assertion that rectors were underpaid came during an argument over admission of two churches to representation at the convention.

The churches were Christ Church of Needham and St. George's Church of Maynard.

Bishop Samuel G. Babcock opposed their admission on the grounds that they were not self-supporting and did not pay a living salary to their rectors. The Maynard rector receives only $1500 a year; that sum and use of a rectory are not sufficient, the bishop held

The question finally was put to vote and the two churches were admitted

Three resolutions were adopted: one for appointment of a chancellor to advise the presiding bishop on questions of law at the national convention; one to appoint a committee of five clerics and five laymen to determine the relations existing between the diocese and Massachusetts State Federation of Churches; and one to adopt the 1932 budget of convention expenses, amounting to $15,427.35.

300 AT COMMUNION.

Standing committees of the national convention and the general missionary council were nominated and various reports were received.

About 300 of the more than 1000 delegates attended communion at St. Paul's this morning. The service was administered by Dean P. F. Sturgis, Bishop Henry Knox Sherrill, Bishop Babcock, Dean Henr, B. Washburn and Rev. F. W. Fitts. There was a holiday at the City

At the opening session last night, Bishop Sherrill declared that social responsibility to uphold the prohibition law must be the principal bulwark against the evils of liquor traffic.

FREE STATE TAX AGENT FIGHTS

The battle to extradite William J. Clifford of Thorndike st., Arlington, former tax collector in Tralee County Kerry, Irish Free State opened today in Federal court, with Clifford denying that he embezzled while holding that post.

It is charged by the Irish Free State in its attempt to have Clifford sent back to Ireland for trial that Clifford withheld between $600 and $800 in taxes collected before he came to the United States

This is the first time the Free State Government has called upon the United States to extradite a fugitive from justice, and much time was spent in the opening session in arguments over law and provisions of the treaty between this country and Great Britain.

U. S. Commissioner Edwin C. Jenney finally continued the morning session until afternoon to give counsel opportunity to look up the treaty and international law.

Clifford testified that he deposited the £ money in the Bank of Ireland, with a sworn schedule of collections. He declared also that his accounts were audited at the Irish customs house and were certified as correct by the inspector of customs.

A battle of counsel ensued when affidavits were introduced from 13 farmers of the Irish Free State that Clifford had collected taxes from them, Atty. George Douglass, counsel for Clifford, contending that the affidavits and the extradition papers had no business before the commissioner at this time, but should go before Secretary of State Stimson in Washington.

$50 for News Tips

Do you want to get money for being alert? If so, the Boston Evening American offers the opportunity. Each week $50 in prizes will be given for news and picture tips telephoned in to the News-Tip Editor at Liberty 4000.

What is a news tip? It's the information that something of interest to Greater Bostonians has taken place or will take place. Do you know, for instance, that an interesting picture is to be obtained, that an accident or an unusual event has happened, that there is going to be a business merger? That's a news tip.

If you have a camera, take a picture of some news event while it is happening. Bring your pictures to the American quick. Delay often spoils them for one.

There will be $15 given weekly for the best or the most unusual event news tip received; $10 for the next best; $5 for the next best, and $2 prizes for each of the 10 next most valuable tips.

ATTWILL FAVORS RAIL MERGER

No serious objection to a consolidation of the Boston & Maine and New Haven railroads is seen by Henry C. Attwill, chairman of the Public Utilities Commission, provided safeguards could be set up to prevent such a consolidation being gobbled up later by [redacted] trunk line.

Attwill, testifying before the legislative committee on transportation, thought that some new corporation could be created, with all New England railroads in, and with a charter provision under which the Governors of the New England states could appoint directors whenever it appeared that control of the corporation was in danger of passing to outside interests.

He said he has had misgivings in the past that if a trunk line got control here it might work to the disadvantage of the Port of Boston. It is natural, he pointed out from purely selfish reason for a trunk line to favor the long haul to some other port in which it has an interest in

"Ten years ago I was very pronounced in that opinion, but I don't think the danger now is so great with the railroads forced to meet competition from trucks on the highways," he said. "It may be as time goes on that the trucks will make the railroads give good service to and from the port."

CHELSEA BARS 'SNAKE DANCE'

Chelsea high school pupils were warned today by Police Chief Charles M. Finn that police will halt any attempt to hold their annual snake dance and auto parade in June.

A bulletin issued by Chief Finn was read to officers at rollcall and to the pupils at a mass meeting called by school heads.

Two girls were injured during the parading last year and others have been injured in past years.

MILK THIEF IS CAUGHT IN ACT

Swampscott police believed today they had solved the mystery of the missing milk.

Complaints from residents of the Stetson st. district that an early-rising thief was drinking their milk sent a police detail to watch for a miscreant with a milk appetite.

The detail found a large St. Bernard dog lapping up the remains of a quart of milk at 112 Stetson st., after it had been turned over by his huge paw.

JUDGE DELAYS WILL CASE UNTIL CHILDREN PROVE IDENTITY

A BIG ONE ON THE FORK

Lowell Thomas, nation-wide radio broadcaster, will have something new to talk over the air about now. With his wife he took a trip to the fishing grounds near Provincetown today on the trawler Boston College. Here he is with a big one that was hooked. (Staff photo.)

STATUS OF KIN BIG ISSUE IN CONTEST

Legal Battle Over Estate of Mrs. McManus to Hinge on Old Records

A legal battle over the will of Mrs. Ellen T. McManus of Adams st., Dorchester, was postponed today in probate court pending preparation of proof by three persons that they are children of the deceased.

A long conference at the bench at the opening of court, when the battle was due to begin, closed with announcement by Judge Arthur Dolan that the big issue was whether these three were her children.

Accordingly he instructed their attorneys to prepare a motion to that effect and he was informed that it would take three days to draw up the necessary documents in support of such a motion.

CHILDREN ARE CUT OFF

The contestants of the will are John Arthur McManus of Medford, a postal employe, George J. McManus of Adams st., Dorchester, and Mrs. Mary J. Somers of New York.

Mrs. McManus drew up a will on Sept. 2, 1930, in which John and Mary and other relatives were left sums varying from $500 to $2000. A few weeks later she made another will in which she cut off her children, saying:

"I intentionally omit my bequest to my so-called son, John Arthur McManus, and my so-called daughter, Mary J. Somers, as they are not my children."

Also included in the second will was a bequest of $1500 to Robert Harding, "known as George McManus." Bequests in the second will totaled $15,000, which was left, chiefly to relatives.

MUST PROVE IDENTITY

If the three can establish to Judge Dolan's satisfaction that they were children of the deceased, it is expected that the matter will then go to a jury trial in Superior Court on their claim of undue influence, unsound mind and illegal execution of the will.

A priest, who it is understood has baptismal records which the contestants may use in support of their claim, was in court but was not called upon today.

Misfortunes' Heavy Burden Is Lightened by Magic of Thurston

Rabbits, ducks and 'most everything developed from out of the thin air or popped out of empty pockets as Thurston the Magician and his daughter, Jane, entertained crippled kiddies at the Massachusetts Hospital School at Canton. The expressions the camera caught on the faces of the children is ample evidence of the joy derived from the show, arranged by the Boston Evening American. The patients will long remember the show.

Smiles are few and far between for this youngster, but he forgot his cares while Thurston and his daughter, Jane, performed the rabbit trick, the delight of children everywhere. Jane sang and danced and showed that she has mastered her father's art. (Staff photos.)

LOWELL THOMAS GETS FISH TIPS

Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Thomas of Chicago were the guests of the Massachusetts Fisheries Association today on a trip to Provincetown aboard the steam trawler Boston College, during which the explorer, author and lecturer observed methods of fishing off the New England coast.

Accompanying Mr. and Mrs. Thomas on the trip were J. J. Babb, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Huse, Carroll Swan, Mrs. Dudley Harmon, Wilfred O. White and F. J. O'Hara.

7 POSTAL HEADS ARE PROMOTED

Postmaster William E. Hurley today announced the promotion effective May 1 of F. S. Childs, assistant postmaster in charge of finance to senior assistant postmaster; A. H. Cull, superintendent of mails, to assistant postmaster; T. P. Keeney, from superintendent of delivery to superintendent of mails, and J. H. Cleary, from assistant superintendent of delivery to superintendent.

Other promotions made were J. J. Halloran, from assistant superintendent of mails in charge of transportation, to assistant superintendent of delivery; F. M. Grant, from station examiner to assistant superintendent of mails in charge of transportation, and C. A. McGrath, from assistant cashier to station master.

The promotions were the result of Hurley's advance to postmaster, he announced.

Jobless Chelsea Man Tries Suicide

Louis Barlow, 50, of Essex st., Chelsea, was sent to Chelsea Memorial Hospital today after drinking poison in his home because of unemployment, according to police. First aid treatment saved him and he was sent home.

His wife heard him fall, found him on the floor with the empty bottle beside him and notified the police.

Episcopalian Club to Meet at Dinner

The Episcopalian Club of Massachusetts will hold its spring meeting and dinner at the Copley-Plaza Hotel this evening at 6:30.

The speakers will be Prof. Joseph H. Beale, of the Harvard Law School, and the Rt. Rev. Alfred A. Gilman, S. T. D.

Oliver Ames Post to Welcome Sears Home

A reception will be given tonight at the YD Club by members of the Oliver Ames Post, American Legion, to Dick Sears, a member, who recently returned from Florida, where he was recuperating from pneumonia. Senator Henry Parkman, Jr., of the post, will be chief speaker, and the drum corps of the post will give a concert and play for dancing. A collation will be served.

Sleep in Auto Leads to Arrest for Theft

The next time Harry Fafany, 22, of New York City, becomes drowsy and decides to sleep in an auto he will probably select a different place than a city street in which to park.

Found asleep in an auto in Breed st., Lynn, early today, he was taken to Lynn police headquarters, held as a suspicious person and, after lengthy questioning, is said by the police to have confessed stealing the auto in which he slept, in New York, April 15.

Benefit Show in E. Boston Tomorrow

A benefit show for former Rep James J. Coffey, who has been ill, will be staged tomorrow evening in the Central Sq. Theater, East Boston.

Miss Helen Otis, "The Musical Maid" of Station WLOE, will entertain, together with the Hogue brothers of Springfield, known as "The Dancing Bellhops." Other vaudeville acts as well as talking pictures will be included on the program.

HUSBAND, 71, IS GIVEN DIVORCE

Joseph B. Tibbetts, of Saugus, 71 won a divorce in probate court at Salem today from Mary Egan, of Lynn, whom he married on New Year's day of 1888.

It didn't take Tibbetts 43 years to discover he had married the wrong woman but he has just let things slip along. His wife left him, after selling the furniture, in 1890, he told Judge White, and he has seen her only once since that time.

He had no witnesses and his wife did not contest the action. Tibbetts was the only witness. He said if the divorce was granted he would be able to dispose of a small plot of land which is the only thing that keeps him from being a state charge.

Register Horace P. Atherton inquired whether he had any idea of being married again and Tibbetts admitted he was considering it he did not say to whom. He was granted a decree for desertion.

Mrs. Amy McLean, 28, librarian at Magnolia, became a divorcee on her own petition to be freed from William McLean, of Gloucester, whom she characterized as a "big bootlegger." She was given permission to resume her maiden name of Lovett.

Alleging cruel and abusive treatment, Mrs. McLean said that once she did not have her clothes off for 11 days and nights because she feared her husband. Once he chased her around the house brandishing an axe because she remonstrated with him for drinking, she said.

Musical Society Gives Dance Tonight

The Fenway Musical Society will give an informal social and dance tonight in Girls' Latin school hall, Huntington ave., near Longwood ave. John F. Whalen, president, is chairman of the committee.

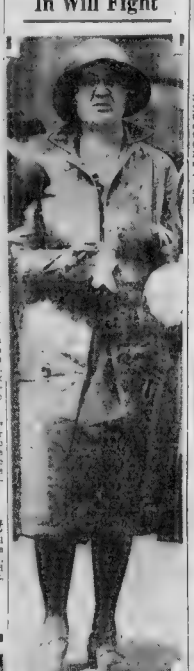
In Will Fight



Mrs. Mary J. Somers, who is contesting will left by Mrs. Ellen T. McManus, her mother. With two other children she was cut off in the document. The case is being held up until contestants prove they really are the children of Mrs. McManus. Photo shows Mrs. Somers at courthouse today. (Staff photo.)

Medford Drum Corps Gives Party Tonight

A bridge and whist party will be given tonight by Medford Post, American Legion Bugle and Drum corps at lower Putnam Hall, Medford. A refrigerator will be given away. Proceeds will go to the fund of the drum corps for the convention at Detroit next September. Ralph C. Whittemore, chairman, is assisted by William J. Knight, Joseph A. Wellington, Herbert Healy, Lester Freeman and Chester A. Macomber.

MAGIC CHEERS CRIPPLES

The thrill of a lifetime came to 300 crippled and deformed children yesterday when Howard Thurston, the magician, and his talented daughter Jane, who are playing at the Tremont Theater, entertained the youngsters at Massachusetts Hospital school, Canton, under auspices of the Boston Evening American.

The boys and girls are today singing the praises of Thurston and his daughter as a result of one of the best shows they have ever witnessed.

Laughter came from the young boys and girls as Thurston pulled rabbits, cards, pender guinea pigs and ducks from various parts of the clothing of nurses, doctors and crippled patients who participated in the performance.

In addition to the marvels that the magician performed his daughter sang and danced for the children, and also tried her hand at magic.

The egg trick in which one of the little patients tried to hold a handful of eggs in his arms without dropping them "went over big" with the children. As egg after egg dropped to the floor the laughter increased until the boys and girls forgot their ailments.

QUEER MALADY KILLS FIREMAN

First Lieut. Alphonse Levesque, Jr., 43, of Swampscott, died today at Lynn Hospital after a mysterious illness which attacked him last Friday.

Lieut. Levesque, a member of the Swampscott department since 1905, was stricken with a coma five days ago. Skilled diagnosticians were unable to determine the cause of the malady.

He is survived by two sons, Joseph A. and Lester.

POLICE TEST HIT AS 'UNFAIR'

Charging that Dr. Harry Belon of Commonwealth ave., was "unfair, Rep. William H. Barker of East Boston today appeared before the joint legislative rules committee and asked that several candidates for the Boston police department rejected after being passed by the Civil Service Commission, be given a [illegible] deal.

According to Rep. Barker and several candidates for the police, [illegible] examined by the police [illegible] after being [illegible] physical and physiological examination by Civil Service [illegible].

The matter came before the legislative rules committee on an order presented by Rep. Barker that the Civil Service commission investigate the matter of appointments to the police under the Civil Service law with particular reference to the practice of the commissioner in requiring such candidates to submit to a second examination by police department physicians.

REVISION ASKED FOR BANK LAWS

Bank Commissioner Arthur Guy and several Boston bank officials appeared before the joint legislative rules committee today and favored resolves providing for the revision and recodification of the laws pertaining to savings and co-operative banks.

"The co-operative bank business is changing and we've got to give them relief," said the bank commissioner. "I believe co-operative banks need a certain liquidity that they did not have in former years. They need other avenues of investment than real estate."

R. F. Smith, chairman of the legislative committee of the Massachusetts Savings Bank Association, representing 194 savings banks in his state, said that the savings banks laws had not been recodified since 1908 and that many of their provisions were obsolete and should be deleted.

SHIPS CRASH IN HARBOR FOG

The freighter Nevadan of the Nevadan of the American-Hawaiian Line crashed twice today in fog-bound Boston harbor with the British motorship Lossebank, damaging the Lossebank's bridge, both fore and aft.

The Nevadan first struck the British craft on the port side aft, tearing away a section of the afterbridge. Then, rebounding, the Nevadan hit the Lossebank forward damaging the forward bridge.

No damage was done to the Nevadan, which checked up with the Lossebank and both proceeded on their way when the fog lifted 15 minutes later.

JEWELER GETS JAIL TERM

Harry Clair, 45, of 52 Charlesgate east, Back Bay, a Tremont st jeweler for more than 20 years, was found guilty of receiving stolen bonds today and sentenced to two years in the House of Correction.

Clair appealed and Judge Francis Good, in Municipal court, fixed bail at $3500 pending trial in the Superior court.

He was charged with receiving seven $1000 bonds of the Southern California Edison Company, stolen from the Salem Trust Co. in August 1928. These bonds and others Clair testified he took in a sale of diamonds in November, 1928. He then pledged them at the National Shawmut Bank as collateral for a loan of $14,000 and February, 1929, ordered the bank to sell them.

Two years passed before a coupon clerk noticed the numerals on a coupon sent in for collection of interest by the purchaser and subsequent checking by Inspectors Mark Morrison and Henry Dunn led to Clair's arrest.

"The transaction described in the defendant does not seem to be a normal method of business and in my belief he has shown himself to be bold and shrewd and guilty of the offense," said Judge Good.

Clair said he was unable to produce his books because [illegible] records had been destroyed when a basement where he kept them was branded a fire menace, but he said the man from whom he received the bonds gave his name as George M. Styles.

BRIBED, CLAIMS MRS. PAGE

"I, myself, have been offered a bribe of $50,000, and a former secretary of the Democratic State committee offered a bribe to a committee to get rid of me at a convention," said Mrs. Frank W. Page of Boston in addressing the joint legislative rules committee today.

She was the only speaker on the order presented by Representative Roland D. Sawyer of Ware that the election laws committee be authorized and directed to make such investigation as may be required to ascertain the facts in the alleged attempt at bribery of Fred J. Burrell, former State Treasurer, when he was a candidate for office, as alleged by him.

"I think Mr. Burrell was honest in his statement that he was offered a bribe, having been offered one myself," said Mrs. Page. "I feel quite sure he must have been offered a bribe, as he stated, and I think it should be made clear to the public who made the offer to him."

Somerville Police War on "Petters"

Somerville police today planned to put a stop to petting parties on Benedict ave., where, according to a complaint received, as many as seven cars park all night on some occasions. This morning it was charged, a girl in one of the cars parked there kept nearby residents awake until 2 o'clock with her loud talking. A similar complaint was investigated recently regarding petting parties on Sartwell ave., which has since been closed to petters.

Miss Locke Named to Relief Dept. Post

Miss Ellen M. Locke an authority on welfare work, was today appointed to the soldiers' relief department of the city for a period of three months by Mayor Curley.

During that time she will install what is known as the case system in that department. Several years ago Miss Locke installed a similar system in the mothers' aid division of the municipal welfare service.

TODAY'S TRUE STORY

"The Better Man"

All's Fair in Love

SPRING was in the air when Kate Merton went walking with Tom that May day in the arbutus-scented woods on the outskirts of Phillipsville. She'd never taken a walk with such trepidation—something within her had urged her not to go—she felt sure that she wasn't in love with Tom and she resented his ability in persuading her to go.

He was so overmastering—so virile, so dominating that she seemed powerless to battle against his wishes.

Her mother rather admired him, so did her father, "He's the kind of man who'll go far in this modern world," they said, "he's aggressive and impresses people with his ability to do things."

And in that way he was quite different from Carl Vedder, Kate's other suitor who had known her for years. Carl had none of the showy qualities of Tom. He was a big, rangy chap, but singularly mild in manner, and yet there wasn't a man in town who had any desire to get into an argument with him.

And as for Tom, was he really in love with Kate or was he in love with Kate's prospect of inheriting a fortune from that aged aunt of hers who lived the life of a recluse in Boonestown 10 miles away.

Everybody knew about Miss Tilly—knew she had close to a quarter of a million and knew, too, that it was all coming to Kate.

Miss Tilly had known Carl ever since he was a boy at school and now she was introduced to Tom. Carl had always been polite to her, treated her as he treated any other woman, but Tom was so attentive that Miss Tilly actually chuckled.

"I don't see much of your old friend, Carl, these days," she said to her niece. "Why is that?"

"Oh, I guess Carl has tired of me," answered Kate, evasively.

"You mean," said her aunt, "that you have tired of Carl. I suppose a new broom does sweep clean, even in love."

Kate did Tom that day in the spring sunshine that her rich aunt admired him. Tom grinned.

"It's always well to have a friend at court," he remarked.

And then he drew Kate into his arms and kissed her. She tried to free herself from him, but somehow she couldn't, for she was conscious of a delicious thrill when Tom's lips were pressed on hers and you—

Tom held her away at arms' length. "Well, my dear," he said, "you are going to marry me, aren't you?"

"Oh Tom—I—give me still—give me a week, and then I'll know."

"One week then," said the polite Tom," and again he gathered her into his arms.

Miss Tilly invited her niece to supper and asked her to bring Tom along. Kate was delighted. They drove over—Tom's roadster, looking for all the world like an engaged couple. Miss Tilly was delighted, and Tom was almost affectionate.

"You know, I've asked you here for a reason," she said after supper. "I know I can trust you, Tom—anyone who's kind to a poor old woman like me can always be trusted. I am very fond of Kate—I've always wanted to do something for her—and I figure if you and she are going to get married one of these days—"

"But Auntie," broke in Kate, "who said I was going to marry Tom?"

Miss Tilly looked at the triumphant Tom and smiled. "Oh, I know—I'm not blind—and as I was saying—I want Tom to be a witness to my will—Tom won't tell—I hear he's got much, but I've always thought Phillipsville ought to have a library; I was born there, you know, Tom—I therefore called the Merton Library—so I've decided now that Tom is such a capable chap—he'll leave what little I have to build a library."

Kate could not help seeing the blank look on Tom's face as he signed his name below that of the maid who had served Miss Tilly for years.

Perhaps it was fate and perhaps it was good luck that Kate happened to be walking in the twilight down the deserted street to call on a girl friend when she saw Tom engaged in what appeared to be an argument with Carl Vedder—Carl's face was very white and Tom looked angry, too.

"Don't you dare call Miss Tilly an old fool or say other kind of a fool," she heard Carl say, "and don't let me hear of your saying it. Understand?"

"No, I don't," answered Tom. "What are you going to do about it?" He raised his bare palm and struck Carl across the cheek. "How do you like that?"

Kate was aware of a sudden galvanizing into action on the part of Carl. His arm shot out—his fist caught Tom on the end of the jaw—he staggered and fell—

"You can have more, you big bully," said the wrathful Carl, "whenever you want it—and you'll get it if you don't keep your mouth shut about Miss Tilly."

And then Carl saw Kate.

"Oh, hello," he said. "Didn't see you—come along—this is no place for you."

"Why Carl—What's happened?"

"Oh, nothing. Ask Mr. Pardee, he'll tell you."

Kate slipped her hand through his arm. "Won't you take me home, Carl?" she asked.

The next time Miss Tilly saw Kate her niece was with Carl. The old lady chuckled. "Where there's a will there's a way," she said to her aged servitor.

THE FAMILY ANNUAL

By Nell Brinkley

GOTTEN OUT along about this time of year is the exciting, thrilling family annual entitled, "WHERE shall we go this year for our vacation?" comes on every year with the buds and Spring fever.

Are the robins back from the languorous South of jasmine and sugar cane? So is the skittish feeling over the ding-dong of an engine bell! Is the boat boy spending Sundays scraping and scorching the hull of a speedy-looking peanut of a motorboat alongside the towering masts of a proud sailing beauty of the seas, also being scraped and scorched for her new Summer suit? So are the travel pictures being overhauled, and is the family exchequer being put into training?

First Spring suits are on The Fair blooming on Tremont st.? So is the family engaged in a delightful yearly fight a mixture of pleasure and pain!

Is the small boy writhing on his slippery little seat at school and sighing like a small cyclone and casting aneep's eyes at the outdoors, growing in lure and beauty day by day? So is the family, on a fairy carpet, covering the known world that can be done in two or three weeks traveling every night after dinner, trying the delights of the "New England Seashore," the raptures of "The Mountain Tops, the 'Cruise Up Puget Sound,' the solemn churchly lighting of the "Big Trees," the light joys of the "Honeymoon Isles of Bermuda" the peace of "Acadian Villages of the St. Lawrence and "there is always Atlantic City, my dear; a real rest!"

Oh, they transport themselves in an ecstacy of argument over the whole vacation world, trying it out, and trying to please everybody. You see, Mother (mommy) has a thin, blond skin and burns in the sun like a piece of linseed paper under a burning glass.

You see Father (daddy) is a boat boy, the sea's lover. He fumes a bit, under cover, of course, in the wilderness of the mountains. Mommy was raised in 'em, and there's where her spirit grows and swells its biggest and best. Small boy, he's the only one with a truly open, generous anywhere-in-the-world where-a-boy-can play, princely mind that shouts with joy at every destination!

When you see that far-away look on the faces around you, unless you know the observed to be in love or to have lost a pocketbook around this time of year, you may know they are in the throes of the Family Annual, trying to pick out the place the family will hire for THIS YEAR'S VACATION. —NELL BRINKLEY.

Do You Know That--

Mrs. R. H. Stanley of Hugo, Okla., is the only woman ever to be made an honorary member of the state's legislature.

Dallas, Tex., has spent $20,000,000 harnessing the Trinity river to prevent floods and to solve a major traffic problem.

Ventilation Is Essential in Our Cities

By DR. COPELAND.

WITH increased population new problems of health have arisen. These have been added to by the tendency to concentrate in large cities and great business buildings. One of the most pressing of these problems is that of ventilation.

The importance of fresh air has long been appreciated. The sufferings in the Black Hole of Calcutta emphasize this necessity.

Dr. Copeland

When we inhale we take in air that is laden with oxygen. Oxygen is essential to the body. Without oxygen we cannot thrive.

When we breathe out we exhale carbon dioxide. This is the residue and waste after the oxygen has been utilized by the body. If there is no source of fresh air, the atmosphere will soon become heavy with carbon dioxide.

It has been shown that the carbon dioxide content of the air can reach 2 per cent without causing serious damage. When increased beyond this point it is dangerous. Asphyxiation may occur where there is a marked decrease in the available oxygen.

In addition to the necessity of fresh air proper ventilation requires the air to be at a certain temperature. The moisture content of the air is of vital importance. This has been proved by repeated observations in schools where stuffing have been made.

Proper ventilation, then, depends on fresh air, correct room temperature and the right degree of humidity. The air of the room should be kept in motion and the waste gases removed.

Where these conditions are maintained, school children are less susceptible to colds and infections. They appear brighter. They take greater interest in their school work and make greater strides in education.

Bad air produces drowsiness, dizziness and dullness at the stomach. Continued exposure to bad air causes loss of appetite, anemia and lack of vitality.

The temperature of a room should be evenly maintained. The proper degree depends on how active the work is. It varies from 65 to 72 degrees.

Do not hesitate to keep your windows open. A stuffy, overheated room causes lowered resistance. Such air helps the germs to spread disease.

through. Play the game somehow."

"He's mad about you," Larry said.

"Not me, Delight. The girl he thinks me. Oh, Larry, it's such a miserable tangle!"

"What are you going to do?" he asked her again.

"I don't know. I'm—damned sorry," Larry told her, low. "He's a corker, and you've done wonders for him. Getting those kinks ironed out. Getting him back to normal. And what a normal! For before all this happened to him he was a magnificent youngster, Mary Delight," he corrected himself, "I've been up to the hospital as he asked me to and seen McEwan, you know Lorrimer's his god. It's amazing. The stories he told me—"

"Tell me, Larry!" she begged.

"Not now. Haven't time What about Mac, anyway, is Lorrimer getting him out of there?"

"I think so. He and Mrs. Lorrimer have been pulling wires and expect to send him to the Adirondacks in a few weeks' time," she answered. "It's been the best thing in the world for him—for Lorry—to have that interest."

Larry caught her hand.

"Hurry—we've been mooching along and they've beaten us to the house," he said, straining his eyes for a scarlet skating suit.

"Jenny! Jenny!" she laughed.

"Don't kid. This is the real thing," said Larry soberly.

"I know it is. I'm glad. Darn you," she said, "and lucky Jenny!"

"I'm not so sure about that. She won't be serious. She's met me in town you know, several times. Lunch, at some funny place. Dinner too and a show. And I'm out here whenever I can sneak off. But she won't listen, she just laughs."

"That's Jenny's way," said Mary Lou, soothingly. "I wouldn't lose heart."

"Well," said Larry gloomily, "it's all pretty much out of the question, after all, even if she did care anything about me, which she probably doesn't. That girl's like quicksilver! I can't ask her to live on the beautiful earning capacity of a rotten reporter, can I? And I wouldn't live on her money, so that's that. I've got to add to my income somehow. Writing a chapter a year on a novel or a scene every six months of a play won't help much—it will be twenty years, I'll be senile before I get one published and the other produced and even then they'll probably be flops, if they get that far. I'm prophesied drearily, "so I'll have to catch me some extra jobs if only to keep her in lunches. She has expensive tastes in food!"

"What kind of a job?" asked Mary Lou.

"Oh, I don't know. I've heard that I can do press agenting for some spring show or other if I want. I'll look into it. Give the bird another seed," said Larry irrepressibly, "every five bucks counts in this depleted exchequer!"

They had reached the house and went in. Lorrimer and Jenny were already there, standing by the fire, thawing themselves out. Peter had arrived with tea and Jenny and Doctor Mathews had started one of their interminable arguments. They were always arguing. And the Doctor was getting the best of it. He had brought Jenny into this vale of tears and was not above reminding her constantly of the fact.

"Laggards!" cried Jenny in her clear voice as the other two entered.

Lorrimer glanced at them a brief moment. He had been reassured as to the state of Mitchell's affections and had observed, for himself, Jenny's effect upon that usually volatile young man, but he was unreasonably uneasy in that curious lover-state of being suspended between heaven and earth, or heaven and Hades. It was incredible to him that anyone knowing "Delight should prefer Jenny or should not, at once, succumb beneath the arch of Delight's slender instep.

Tomorrow—Lorry sees the light of love in Mary Lou's eyes.

Miss Fairfax Tells Her to Speak First

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

We boy friend and I have been going together for about five months. We were having a nice evening with some friends at my home when an unexpected girl arrived. The young man became very much interested in this girl and made no effort to talk to me, staying with her the rest of the evening. When he was about to go home he came to see if I was mad at him or not. I told him I was done. I see him often and should like to know whether I should speak to him first or not. I understand he still cares for me and should like to make up. LONESOME PAT

Dear Pat: When will you girls learn a little more sportsmanship and not show your feelings so plainly? The young man acted very rudely in your home in disregard you and pay exclusive attention to the other girl. But it would have been better if you could have carried it off and not shown you were hurt. If you stopped speaking and told him you were done it up to you to speak first, should you want to continue the friendship.

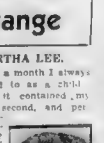
Season of the Blood Orange

By MARTHA LEE.

APRIL WAS a month I always looked forward to as a child first because it contained my birthday and second, and perhaps more important, because it is the season of blood oranges—or perhaps your fruitman calls them strawberry oranges or rubyblood oranges. By any name, a blood orange is still a favorite with me. And I'll never get over my delighted surprise when the fruit goes to the beautifully colored pulp.



Martha Lee

And what lovely dishes can be made with the juice of these oragnes. For instance, an orange cup, made with one cup of the blood orange juice, one slice of banana, and two slices of pineapple diced. These are mixed, chilled, served very cold in cocktail glasses and garnished with two or three candied cherries if convenient.

Ruby Sparkle is delicious and decorative, made by combining one-third of a cup of juice from one of the red-fruited oranges with one-third cup of ginger ale. Pour this over cracked ice and serve immediately.

A wholesome Fruit Paste for the children can be made with 1 cup of the blood orange juice and pulp, ¼ cup of liquid commercial pectin, ½ cup of light corn syrup and 1 cup of sugar. Combine the ingredients and cook, stirring frequently at first and then steadily, until the mixtures reaches a thick pastry consistency. Pour into a straight-sided pan and when cold cut in cubes and roll in powdered sugar. This will have a clear strawberry color that is very attractive. Of course, you can use ordinary orange juice and color the paste with a little vegetable coloring but to me the blood orange has a flavor all its own

ORANGE EGG NOG

1 egg
Sugar to taste.
½ cup blood orange juice.
½ cup milk.
½ tsp sherry.
Grated orange rind

Beat the egg whites stiff with 2 tbsps. of sugar. Add ¼ cup of orange juice. Beat together well the remaining ¼ cup of orange juice, milk and sherry. Fold into the egg white mixture over which grate a bit of orange rind. Serve at once

Any request recipes you'd like to have? It's easy for you to ask, by letter or postcard, and a pleasure for us to answer.

Faithfully yours,

Martha Lee

BROCCOLI DELICIOUS

Cook the coarser pieces of broccoli in boiling water with ¾ teaspoon soda and 1 tablespoon salt. When tender, drain and chop. To 2 cups broccoli, add 1½ cups of finely chopped cold potato. Moisten with heavy cream, using enough to mold it, yet not enough to make it lose its shape when it is put. Season highly with salt and pepper and pack closely into a well buttered mold. When it has stood long enough to shape, turn from mold on to a buttered baking sheet. Spread over the Parmesan cheese moistened to spreading consistency with heavy cream. Place in oven to reheat and brown.

Answers to Requests

MARSHMALLOW FROSTING

2-3 cup sugar
2 tbsps. cold water
⅛ tsp. cream of tarter
1 egg white
1 tsp. lemon juice
6 marshmallows

Put sugar, cold water and cream of tarter in top of double boiler. Beat with egg beater until sugar is dissolved. Add egg white unbeaten place over rapidly boiling water and beat constantly until frosting will stand in peaks. Remove from fire add lemon juice and cut marshmallows. Arrange place over hot water and fold over and over until marshmallows are softened and frosting is still standing in peaks. Spread between layers and on top of cake, making swirls with spatula. Mrs. L. P., 21 Carmel st., Chelsea.

Household Hints

IF TWO or three small onions are put on a flower pot covered well with a good soil and put in the kitchen window, they will grow up and you will have onion tops for flavoring soups and stews all the year round. Miss Nina Jones, Stanford Hall, Boston.

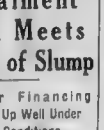
Instalment Plan Meets Test of Slump

Consumer Financing Stands Up Well Under the Conditions

—By M. S. Rukeyser—



M. S. Rukeyser

New York, April 22 The major depression has tested the soundness of instalment credits and it does not seem too early to declare that consumer financing has stood up well under the challenge

Spoken seven for the years' managers Finance companies deep in instalment credits exaggerate purchasing power in good times and contract it all normally in depressed periods as has been loosely charged They contend that instalment credits rise and fall in proportion to changes in the general volume of business

In so far as instalment credits may be looked upon as a new barometer of trade the remark to one absent their current status by Edwin C. Vogel chairman of the executive committee of the Commercial Investment Trust Corporation, leading factor in the instalment field, is timely

"It is my belief," Mr. Vogel pointed out, "that the total instalment outstandings on our books have passed the low point and there is indication of a seasonal increase from this point on"

Commenting on the extent to which the public has recovered itself from instalment indebtedness since the peak of prosperity Mr Vogel added

"There are no statistics that I know of to indicate that consumers who were indebted on the instalment plan a year or two ago are now ready to make new purchases. It would be impossible to determine, because it would depend upon their financial position and their state of mind. However, we do know that instalment purchases as well as all other purchases were in unusually small amount during the year 1920 than they were during the year 1930 Instalment buying increased and decreased as general businesses increased and decreases. The average instalment purchase made on 12 months' time that is, it is payable in 12 equal monthly instalments; therefore, the large majority of purchases made in 1929 have been paid for. Collections during the year on instalment purchases were considerably more than the amount of new purchases and the total instalment debt definitely decreased. Our own instalment outstandings are now approximately 31 per cent of the corresponding figure in 1930 and 45 per cent of the corresponding figure in 1929. These outstandings at present are 69 per cent of the peak 1930 figure and 66 per cent of the peak 1929 figure."

(The outstandings in the early spring of 1930 reflected purchases made late in 1929 before the panic)

Queried concerning the effect of unemployment on defaults on instalment contracts Mr. Vogel said

"The loss ratio during the period of depression since the panic of October, 1929, has been somewhat higher than normal. Upon this point I can do no better than quote what we said in our annual report for the year ending December 31, 1930:

"The experience of 1930 confirms our faith in the fundamental soundness and safety of instalment paper. While repossessions and charge-off items arising out of instalment paper acquired by us have been what greater than usual in proportion to volume of business, they have not been disturbing at any time.'

"In this connection it must be remembered that in time of depression such as we have been passing through losses increase with respect to all types of credit and it is my belief that the increase in the ratio of losses on instalment debts has not been more and has probably been less than the increase in the ratio of losses on open account credits."

Leaders of the finance field at dura s ringing data to confirm the earlier fear that instalment selling would constitute an important cresspot in the economic situation

FOOD COMPANY EARNINGS ARE WELL KEPT UP

By FRANK H. MELOON

Food company earnings are being well sustained A statistical study recently showed they kept at normal levels in 1930, with only a slight decline from the 1929 peak Whatever the times, good food or indifferent, we all must eat

General Foods Corporation, of which Colby M. Chester Jr., is president, today reported for the first quarter net profits of $5,872,399 or $1.05 per share on the 5,237,407 shares of no-par value common stock outstanding March 31

Colby M. Chester, Jr

* * *

These earnings are one of the largest in the history of the company and were fully covered only by those for the corresponding quarter last year, the company's record quarter, when General Foods Corporation, as then constituted, reported net profits of $5,990,764, equal to $1.15 a share on the 5,282,851 shares then outstanding

* * *

Mr. Chester, who spoke optimistically before the Boston Chamber of Commerce a fortnight ago, says today

"The company is emerging from a period which was marked by practically no merger activities of importance, by readjustment of distribution and sales methods. As a part of our no-no sales plan, officials of the company have personally completed a widespread survey to obtain first hand knowledge of current conditions. This work will be continued through out the year.

"In the next few days General Foods will announce an important development in the field of quick-frozen food distribution."

Montreal advices say there will be no Canadian issue war In New England however there are various signs of evidence of fierce rivalry. In Newburyport new saw a station selling night gallons of Standard Oil for a dollar. In most sections the "one price is seven gallons for a dollar. The dollar price has the merit of avoiding the making of small change

Another Boston-listed "textile" gives a good report P reston John A Stevens at the annual meeting of directors of Burgess-Sanford Cot pet Co presented quarterly figures showing the substantial margin

Directors voted to anticipate payment of semi-annual notes of $1,000,000 maturing November, 1934, and 1935 from cash on hand This will leave $2,000,000 of an original issue of $5,000,000 which does not mature until Nov. 30 1936 in 1940

* * *

Absence of real support in Steel causes worry that the directors may reduce the dividend when they meet next Tuesday Heretofore it has been hoped that cut would be held off until July at least. Latest estimates as to earnings puts net at 40 cents a share for the first quarter, but this is said to include an other credit from tax reserves. Most reliable estimates as to income seldom are available until a few days before the meeting of directors.

* * *

The New York Central first quarter report is the subject of increasing conversation. It will be out Tuesday and the latest guess is it will show a few cents for the common. Bethlehem's first quarter earnings is estimated at under 10 cents a share

Western Dairy Has Increased Income

Western Dairy Products Co. reports for quarter ended March 31 net income of $205,432, compared with $45,312 in first quarter of 1930 and $43,852 in March quarter of 1929.

Today's News of Live Stocks in Wall Street

Trading today continued highly professional in Wall st. The short interest was generally believed to be a little larger than a week ago Aggressive bullish leadership, which appears lacking for the moment has the short interest for a tenta tive stepping stone. Incidentally the bears have little fear of so-called investment buying, as this is not commonly a powerful stimulant

Du Pont to Show Dividend Earned

Du Pont showed considerable strength most of today's session. It is generally believed the big company will show as its dividend report more than earned for the initial 1931 quarter.

Solvents Dividend Is Nearly Earned

Commercial Solvents and nonvoting Class A stock today declared dividend was within 4 cents a share of being earned for the initial quarter. The quarterly dividend today, showed for the quarter ended taxes and reserves equal 1 41 cents a share on 2,796,951 shares of common against $794,150 or 30 cents a share on 2,612,2 shares on the first quarter of 1930

General Electric Scores Comeback

General Electric today quickly lifted a point from its early low The report of General Electric for the first quarter was better than expected. That the company could come within 2c. of its dividend requirements while other electrical equipment companies were finding it difficult to avoid a deficit, calls attention again to the company's leadership in its field

Auburn Auto Stock Soars, Not Sours

One of the three stocks today reported Auburn Auto stock had moved up 10 points A little later one the correction announcing Auburn had raised its quoted

Chesapeake Corp. Earnings Larger

Chesapeake Corp (Va.) was sold mostly unchanged. This was despite its reporting for quarter ended March 31 net income of $1,490,415 after expenses, interest, etc., equal to 93 cents a share on the 1,709,745 shares, against $1,536,866, or 89 cents a share, in the first quarter of 1930

Leading Steels Earn 3.71 P. C.

U. S. Steel was again the market bellwether today in rallying moments. Twenty leading steel producers operated during the quarter at the country's ingot capacity, in 1930 earned 3.71 per cent on their capitalization on analysis by the trade publication, Steel, says. The rate was the lowest in six years

Consolidated Gas Demand Increased

Consolidated Gas is meeting with increased demand due to the attractive yield at which the stock is selling.

Good Buying in United Corporation

United Corporation continues to meet with good buying on a scale down. This demand, however, is not aggressive, but develops only on reactions

Quiet Selling in Texas Corporation

Estimates that earnings of Texas Corporation would be rather disappointing for the first half of the current year were responsible for quiet selling in that issue. Incidentally, Texas also was influenced by the disclosure made in this newspaper that efforts to bring about a reduction of oil were being frowned upon by the Department of Justice

Covering in Westinghouse

Relative strength in Westinghouse Electric represented short covering by day-to-day traders who had short accounts in the stock remain intact, the bears being encouraged by reports that current earnings of the company show little or no profit

Radio Forced to Low on Move

A new low for the present setback was recorded by Radio, with selling attributed to the same interests who had been prominent on the bull side near the top These interests, it pointed out here some time ago, completely reversed their position

Western Union Dividend Worry

New low level reached by Western Union confirmed belief expressed here when the stock was materially higher than a dividend adjustment was threatened because of declining earnings.

Magma Draws on Surplus for Dividend

Magma Copper's profit of $111,425 in the first quarter was equal to about 28 cents a share, or 22 cents less than the quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share. In other words Magma had to draw on surplus to the extent of nearly $90 000 to meet the dividend

This does not mean heavy inroads on surplus as Magma at the close of the year had current assets in excess of current securities of approximately $4 000 000, equal to nearly $10 a share

FRESH SELLING IS ABSORBED IN WALL ST.

New York, April 22 Further selling was absorbed in Wall St. transactions today. Although declines were narrower than yesterday's, the weakness embraced a broader list of representative issues

It spread in late trading to General Motors, which has been receiving stubborn support during most of the current decline. The general level of prices was pushed to a new low level for 1931

TURNOVER IS LARGER

The day's turnover was well above two and a half million shares, and the largest of the month. The bond market also was under pressure, with some of the Australian issues regarding what still is one an news of closing of the New South Wales Savings Bank.

Issues losing 2 to more than 3 points included General Motors, Bethlehem, North American, National Biscuit, Air Reduction, Paramount, Electric Auto-Lite, Radio, Webster, du Pont and Coco Cola.

Rails continued their decline. Atlantic Coast Line Company and carriers of 2 or more included Atchison, Baltimore & Ohio and Canadian Pacific. New York Central closed under the 100 mark.

Of steel, Budd and Standard of New Jersey were among issues off more than a point.

Freight car loadings as reported for the week ended April 11 showed a decrease, showing a gain of 9423 cars, somewhat larger than the usual gain for that week, and accounted for largely by a pronounced upturn in the miscellaneous classification.

INGOT OUTPUT OFF

Weekly steel trade reviews were in keeping with advance estimates, indicating that ingot output for the country at large has slipped below 50 per cent of capacity, or back to the average of the last quarter of 1930.

"Steel" said a decline in the requirements of the Ford Motor Co. was being felt, lending substance to a report that the manufacturing limitations of the company may shut down for two months this summer, while assembly plants work off a surplus of parts.

The steel trade is hopeful, however, that the slackening of operations may be checked around the current level.

The weekly report of electric power consumption, showing a reduction of 6 6-10 per cent from the like week of last year made the least favorable comparison since the first week of March.

Substantial shrinkage in gasoline stocks during the week was counted the only favorable aspect of the figures. Gasoline stocks are now at a total of 46,400,000 barrels, 4,000,000 lower than a year ago. The reduction achieved, however, is only little more than half that planned

DISCUSSES CUT IN NEWSPRINT

At the annual stockholders' meeting of International Paper & Power Co., President Graustein, presiding, commented on the $3 per ton cut in newsprint price just announced. Mr. Graustein said that the price cut was made by the mills in Canada led by the Canada Paper & Paper Corp., Abitibi and St. Lawrence

International Paper was not a party to the cut and has not yet taken any definite action with regard to it. However, it is the company's policy, Mr. Graustein said, to protect its customers against price cuts by the other large companies.

A stockholder inquired what would be the effect upon earnings if International Paper should determine to meet the $3 per ton reduction in newsprint. To this query Mr. Graustein stated that without allowing for any stimulation of consumption by the lower price gross loss would be something under $5,000,000; a year if consumption was increased, naturally the loss would be correspondingly less

Butterick Profit Gains in Quarter

New York, April 22—Butterick Co. reports for quarter ended March 31 net of $100,186 after depreciation, taxes, interest, etc., equal to 87 cents a share on 184,208 no-par shares, against $83,802, or 38 cents a share on 182,230 shares in first quarter of 1930.

EARNINGS DROP

I. I. Athol—What is the present status of Packard Motor? Have some of the stock at cost. Better hold?

Ans.—Though the past record of Packard Motor is a good one, the stock is a speculation. Because of the general business depression last year their dividend fell to $2 a share, against $4.25 a share in 1929. The present stock paid $1 a share annually from September, 1929, but with quarterly payment of 25 cents from December, 1930. It was reduced to 12½ cents last month. Any attempt to judge future prices would be guessing.

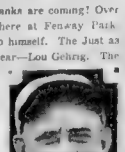
HERE AND THERE ON SPORTS TRAIL

"THE YANKS ARE COMING! The Yanks are coming! Over Here! Over Here! Over Here!" Over here at Fenway Park They're here already. The mighty Bambino himself. The Just as Mighty—perhaps he will be mightier this year—Lou Gehrig. The new Murderers' Row which commits assault, battery and mayhem on all pitchers They're here for the grand American League opening with Shono Collins' reanimated, rejuvenated, up from the grave Red Sox. Which should explain why grandpa has gone to join grandma, who obligingly kicked the bucket for the National League opening here a few days ago. Yes, grandpa died, last night with a peaceful look on his face. In case of rain today the funeral will be tomorrow.



SHONO COLLINS

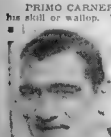
If Joe McCarthy and them Yankees were regular fellers they'd help the local fans out just as the Red Sox did the New York fans at the Gotham opening Wiley Moore, you recall, pitched just good enough to lose. When the Oklahoma farmer had lost the game he was called in and Ed Durham from South Carolina, ash, mounted the peak to allow Babe Ruth to make a home run. What could be sweeter for the Gotham fans. The Yankees won and Babe Ruth knocked a home run. Now why can't Yankees won and Babe Ruth knocked a home run. Now why can't those terrible Yankees return the favor and give us Boston fans a chance to beat

IF THE Red Sox pitching staff is working on all eight cylinders those terrible Yankees are likely to bite the dust anyway. Give that Red Sox hurling corps half a team back of 'em and they would win the pennant. The Sox came to life against the Yankees in the last game—the 13-inning Marathon—in New York and they may have McCarthy's number now. You can accent the may," Mister Composition

Let depends on how mad Wiley Moore gets. After pitching just good enough to lose the opener in New York the Oklahoman got riled and came back and stood the Yankees on their heads in the last game Get mad Wiley, get mad

PRIMO CARNERA apparently judges a fighter by his size, not by his skill or wallop. When we crowded the Ambling Alp into a stuffy little stage dressing room of the old Howard and asked him how he expected to make out against Jack Sharkey, the Tall Tower of Gargonnola grunted

"Huh! These sharkey fallow he no bergs than Malaneev. I beeg. I wans sir-r-rong man. I knock these fallow Sharkee's block off. I beeg! I wheep them all!"



CARNERA

Intervieving fighters in stage dressing rooms was no nasetly. Long after John L. Sullivan quit the ring we spent half an hour with the Old Roman and Jake Kilrain in a little 10 by 8 dressing room at the old Star Theater in Brooklyn. We stood in the wings while he did his monologue. Burlesque dames crowded about. First week in September and hot as blazes. Smell of perspiration, rouge, paint, powder and other things those burlesque grandmothers used to make themselves look like chickens, made us pea sick.

Was with James J. Jeffries in his dressing room at the William Morris theater in Newark when he signed for Johnson. "Hello Big Fellow," chirped a soubrette as we came out into the hall. "Hello Yourself, Kid," answered Jim, lifting her in his arms and tossing her up to the ceiling and catching her. Jeff hadn't lost his heartlike strength when he fought the Galveston Black. But he had lost speed, punch, stamina—and youth.

IF WE only could get Jack Sharkey on the long distance telephone at the Maine camp where he is fishing and tell him what Signor Carnera says he will do to him there probably would be a short circuit burn the wires. Something like this

"Now look what you went and done. Blankety blank blank blank! I promised the wife to stop swearing. Now you get me five miles to the telephone to tell me the big bum says he can lick me. I've heard them babies before, Say, I'll wrap that blank-blank-blank spaghetti inhaler around a ring post. And you, too. Don't you know the fish are bitin'"

PENN RELAYS, just around the corner Looks as if Lawson Robertson's own Pennsylvania teams would bag the lion's share of the laurels. Look as if the Red and Blue collegians would repeat that board floor triumph on the cinders. Pennsy captured the indoor intercollegiates, establishing new world marks in the one mile and medley-distance relay races. Pennsy hogged its own meet last year and are likely to repeat on Friday and Satu day.

Robertson has the great Barney Berlinger and the great one-mile relay team of Jimmy Healey, Jack Edwards, Billy Carr and Horace Steel. Pennsy's four mile team of Carl Conn, Billy McKnight, Roland Ritchie and Dan Wear is a corker.

LANDIS WINS COURT FIGHT WITH CLUBS

Chicago, April 22 (AP)—Kenesaw Mountain Landis absolute dictatorship over organized baseball was strengthened today by federal court revocation

The recognition was rendered yesterday by Federal Judge Walter Lindley, who not only dismissed a suit for an injunction to keep the commissioner's powers in the case of Outfielder Fred Kress, but reprimanded him as the "tool of designing baseball magnates."

"The various agreements between the major and minor leagues and rules, constituting a complete code for organized baseball in America," ruled Judge Lindley, "disclose a clear intent on the part of the parties to endow the commissioner with all the attributes of a baronial or but absolute despot and all the disciplinary powers of the proverbial 'peter families.'"

Milwaukee, through the St Louis club of the American League sought an injunction in the case last summer, when Commissioner Landis ordered St Louis either to waive Kennett to the other main leagues, sell him to some other club not connected with the St Louis club or to release him outright

St Louis refused and sent him to the Milwaukee club, of which St Louis is part owner, and the commissioner ruled Kennett a free agent under the rule that no player can be controlled for more than two years by one club without an opportunity to play major league baseball

The suit for injunction was heard in Federal Court here last February, after which Judge Lindley delayed his decision until he rendered it yesterday

Attorneys for the Milwaukee club said they planned to carry the case to the Circuit Court of Appeals

League Not Responsible for Club's Debts

Chicago, April 22 (AP)—A baseball league isn't always required to absorb the liabilities of one of its financially disabled clubs, Federal Judge Kenesaw M Landis ruled today.

The rommise once turned down a plea by Richard Rudolph, former manager of the Waterbury club of the Eastern League, who sought to make the league instead of James V Gilpin former owner of the club, pay him $225 back salary.

Because of the failure of the club Gilpin, decided to give up operation, the league took charge until the end of the season

Rudolph contended that inasmuch as the Eastern League took over the club it was liable for his compensation. Commissioner Landis, however ruled that the league monies in operating the club for the rest of the 1933 season and Gilpin, instead of the league, must pay Rudolph's back salary.

GOOD GOLF

BY CHESTER HORTON

Golf's Greatest Teacher

The sickening, nauseating feeling of your right leg on the back swing proves to be a shift of your weight instead of a gathering of your strength This requires almost a splitting of verbal hairs to make the process clear The strength gathering in your right leg is revealed to your senses as a pressure. Your trench gathers this way because your right leg is considerable work to do, hence the trench gathers exactly as tension accumulates in a wound-up spring If a spring could talk it doubtless would say its weight shifted inward as you wound it up. Just as a tree, if it could speak, would say it shifted its weight in the direction of a passing wind. We know it doesn't; the lower trunk, which compares with your own right leg, merely stiffens and strengthens, to resist being torn away. This obviously is a close analysis, for the low-handicap player, who improves by narrow margins The beginner, however, may as well be sound on this theory, of which he will hear much.

STORM BLOWS OVER JUDGE'S HEAD

In the first court battle to test the power and authority of Judge Landis, the czar of baseball was upheld. Landis had ruled that Fred Bennett of the St. Louis Browns was a free agent. Both St. Louis and the Milwaukee clubs sought an injunction to restrain the judge's order. Federal Judge W. C. Lindley, who heard the case, ruled that Landis was right.

ANTHURIUM IS WINNER OF RACE CLASSIC

Epsom Downs, Eng., April 22 (AP)—Anthurium, carrying the feather impost of 99 pounds and an outsider at 25 to 1 in the betting, today won the classic City and Suburban Handicap, the first of the three ribbon racing stakes at Epsom Downs.

Rustom Pasha, top weighted favorite with 130 pounds, and Leonidas II, second choice, were tie back in the field of 17, the former showing up in sixth place and the latter in 9th.

The Pen, carrying 113 pounds was second, and Cabalerro, with only 106 in the saddle, was third They were both at the long odds of 23 to 1.

Twixt Tee and Cup

By BILL GRIMES

For some unknown reason the opening matches of the Boston Four-Ball League will be played today. Secretary Clark Hodder was in touch with the various team captains and agreed to have their quota ready to go into action this afternoon.

For the first time in years, Mrs Edward H. Baker, Jr., did not play at No. 1 for the Southern District yesterday against Western. Mrs. Henry R. Watson led off for Southern and was upset by Mrs. H. F. Prunaret, Jr., while Mrs. Baker playing at No. 2 carded an 83 to defeat Mrs. W. G. Dow, 6 and 5.

Mrs. W. J. Hainan is having a tough time getting started for Eastern in the first match. Mrs. Hainan was defeated in a 19 hole match by Mrs. F. A. Stanwood and yesterday she was on the short end of a 4 and 2 match with Miss Dorothy Richards, the state champion.

Miss Rosamond "Pinky" Vahey was strokes off her game yesterday at Oakley. Miss Vahey spent the weekend on the Cape and met with an accident which resulted in an infected elbow. Although it was impossible for Miss Vahey to properly swing a golf club, she insisted upon playing for Central and was vanquished by Mrs. W. C. Quimby, 8 and 7.

Miss Virginia Hodder won her first match for the Western first team yesterday by a margin of 4 and 3 over Mrs. R. K. Byers, who is an experienced high class competitor. Last week Miss Hodder was not back when Miss Edith Stevens tossed and 87 at her at The Country Club.

Jack Winslow will make his debut as a member of the Commonwealth C. C. four-ball team this afternoon. Winslow led the field on his first try for club honors at Commonwealth on the holiday

Mrs. C. F. Eaton played for Western yesterday and although she has not been able to even practice this spring, she won her match from Mrs. George Wrren. Mrs. Eaton was a victim of pneumonia last winter and it was rumored that she would not play this season.

Try and convince Miss Martha Brewer that the new and lighter ball is a detriment to the game. Miss Brewer went around Oakley in 81 strokes yesterday and she has been in the low 80's this spring at Weston. As she played the larger ball through preference last season, Miss Brewer is more versed than the average player.

There was no reason why Miss Brewer should not have been in the 70's at Oakley yesterday during her match with Miss Edith Stevens. Three putts from the far edge of the 9th green and a missed short putt at 16th, which was preceded by an erring brassie at the 13th prevented her from setting up a new women's record

Cooney Weiland and Dutch Gainor of the Bruins are playing golf daily. They are two fine golfers and are both getting a great kick out of being able to play regular greens at this season of the year, which is an unheard of condition in Canada in spring.

Mrs Donald M Belcher, who was the runner up to Miss Dorothy Richards in the W. G. A. State championship last May at Salem holed out no less than three chip shots from well off the green against Mrs C. D. Deland at Andover yesterday. Needless to state, Mrs. Belcher won the match.

Mrs. J. Mott Hallowell turned in her best round in some time at Oakley yesterday while playing for the Eastern second team. Mrs Hallowell, who is vice-president of the W. G. A., defeated Mrs. Bache 7 and 6

Dartmouth Squad Is Slashed to 21

Hanover, N. H., April 22—The Dartmouth baseball squad, was cut by Jeff Tesreau to 21 players. Tesreau kept seven pitchers in Lauri Myllykangas, Way Thompson, Arthur Fousseau, George Edwards, Eddie Tomlinson, Fred Prince and John Schneider

Hank Barber and Joe Clough will alternate at first base, a surprise coming when the brilliant fielding George Flagg was dropped to the junior varsity. Capt. Red Rolfe, Tom Eagan, Tom Maskilleson and Loppy Rich remain as infielders, while Ed Picken, Aarne Frigard, Howard Harvey and Will Morton will comprise the outfield

Memorial Loses to Brighton, 10 to 3

Raining hits off Pitcher Chalwansky's offerings in the first two innings, Brighton High batted out an early lead and defeated Memorial, 10 to 3, yesterday on the Brighton diamond. Brighton opened with a bang in the first inning by scoring five runs on four hits and two passes

After Danejefsky and Fisher, the Memorial reserve battery, entered the fray in the fifth inning, the home team sluggers were held scoreless.

Eagle Cubs Play Andover Nine Today

The Boston College freshman baseball team will play Andover Academy at Andover this afternoon. Moynahan, former St. Xavier's high school star, will pitch for the Eagles.

The yearling tennis team will also open its season today, playing Boston Latin school on the Alumni Field courts.

Pirates-Cubs Game Called Off

Pittsburgh, April 22 (INS)—Rain forced a cancellation of the scheduled Pittsburgh Pirates-Chicago Cubs baseball game here today. This game was to have been the opening contest of the 1933 season locally.

What the Stars Did

By the Associated Press

Herb Pennock, Yankees—Allowed Athletics only seven hits and won 15-1.

Oasie Gluege, Senators—Home run and two singles accounted for four runs against Red Sox.

Ed Brandt, Braves—Beat Giants 5-1, giving only five hits.

Jonathan Stone, Tigers—Hit third homer in as many days with two on in ninth against Indians.

Jim Elliott, Phillies—Scattered nine Brooklyn hits, fanned five and won easily 7-3.

ANDREWS AND TILDEN ARE TO MEET MAY 9

New York, April 22 (AP)—The first of a series of professional tennis matches for the world's championship, between Big Bill Tilden and Vincent Richards, will be played at Madison Square Garden, Saturday, May 9, Promoter Jack Curley announced today

The series is for best three out of five matches. Curley said he planned to stage two of them in Philadelphia and Chicago.

Tilden is now winding up a transcontinental tour with Karel Kozeluh, the Czecho-Slovakian professional.

TUNNEY PICKS STRIBLING

Munich, Bavaria, April 22 (AP)—James Joseph (Gene) Tunney and his wife, who are on a visit here, are delighted with the Bavarian capital.

Their round of sightseeing includes a trip up the Zugspitze, Germany's highest mountain, where Tunney intends to do some skiing.

Tunney, in answer to one of the innumerable queries as to what he thought of Max Schmeling, world's heavyweight champion boxer, said that he thought that he was still not quite up to the mark in ring-craft to face experienced boxers like Sharkey and Stribling.

Stribling, he thought, should be winner of the match at Cleveland July 3. Tunney remarked that he did not believe Primo Carnera, Italian boxer, had much chance of capturing the world's heavyweight title.

Springfield Downs Seton Hall, 6 to 5

Springfield, April 22—Springfield College won its second baseball game of the season, defeating Seton Hall of Orange, N. J., 6-5, here

A three-run rally in the eighth on four solid smashes, one a triple decided the issue

Seton Hall had the tying run on third when the umpire called a third strike for the final out

Capt. Davidson and Chief Meyers of the local team each crashed out three hits. Meyer's triple to center brought in Springfield's winning run.

Strohmeier Leads Amherst Swimmers

Amherst, April 22 — Daniel B Strohmeier of Monson was elected captain of the Amherst swimming team for the coming season. Strohmeier captained his freshman swimming outfit and has taned in the 440 and the backstroke in varsity competition for two seasons

He established Amherst and New England records in the 440-yard swim during the past season and was a member of the relay team that hung up a new college record in the 220-yard relay against Williams.

Harvard-Holy Cross in Tennis Tilt Today

Harvard's tennis team will open its home schedule for 1931 this afternoon at 4 at Divinity Field courts against Holy Cross.

The Crimson netmen were undefeated in their training trip in the South last week, downing William and Mary, Norfolk Country Club, Virginia, Navy and Princeton.

The Harvard team has won to date 33 straight matches, covering the seasons of 1928, 1929, 1930 and 1931, having won the last two matches of the 1928 season and gone undefeated since.

Cochrane Picks B. U. Golf Team

Capt. Warren Kellogg, Dick Knowles, Charles Tyson and Ray Gustafson were named by Coach Fred Cochrane to represent Boston University in the golf match against Tufts tomorrow, after an elimination round yesterday on the Albemarle course.

The cards of the qualifiers were Tyson, 80; Capt. Kellogg, 81; Knowles, 83 and Gustafson 83.

PLAN TO END GRID ROW WITH B. C.

Mayor Curley has suggested a solution of the controversy caused by his refusal to sanction November 28 as the date of the proposed Dartmouth-Stanford football game. The mayor said that the game might be played in the Harvard Stadium Sunday afternoon, November 29.

This is the day following the scheduled date of the annual Holy Cross-Boston College encounter, and thus would not conflict with that struggle

If his suggestion should meet approval, he was certain, he said, that both games would be tremendous successes, and that the Stadium would not be big enough to hold all the people who would want to attend the Sunday game.

Should Dartmouth and Stanford and Harvard authorities agree to the idea, such a clash would be the first college football game ever played in New England on a Sunday. Although amateurs and professional teams have met on Sundays in other years, no college ever chose the day for a game.

If the colleges concerned agree, the mayor declared that he would do everything in his power to boost the contest that there would be no question of a sizeable crowd on hand to watch the clever of Hanover fight the Cardinals from the Pacific.

Conference on Matter Will Be Held Today

That the idea may actually be accepted was strengthened somewhat by the news that Edward A. McLaughlin Jr., president of the Boston College Alumni Association, is to confer with the mayor at City Hall today.

It was also learned that Harry R. Lamson, supervisor of athletics at Dartmouth is in Boston.

While the suggestion met with general favor among the football men, the attitude of Holy Cross and Boston College, while not official, was expressed, is believed to be unfavorable to a Sunday date

Harvard Crimson Blames B. C. A. A.

In a caustic and bitter editorial, headed "Sport," the Harvard Crimson, Harvard undergraduate publication, urged Boston College to prevail upon Mayor James M. Curley to reconsider his refusal to allow the football teams of Dartmouth and Stanford to meet in the Harvard Stadium on November 29, the afternoon on which Holy Cross and Boston College will clash in their annual and time-honored gridiron classic

The Crimson blames the Boston College Athletic Association for Mayor Curley's refusal to officially sanction the intersectional gridiron classic and accuses John P. Curley, Boston College athletic director, of passing the blame to the Boston College Alumni Association.

The position of Boston College in the intercollegiate world will be seriously jeopardized if Dartmouth and Stanford are forced to take their game elsewhere, the Crimson states.

Capt. Wilcox to Direct Navy Sports

Annapolis, Md., April 22—Capt. Henry D. Cooke will be succeeded within this month by Capt. Wilcox as head of the department of athletic training at the Naval Academy by Capt. John W. Wilcox, Jr.

The position is regarded as one of the most important at the academy, the incumbent having charge of all intercollegiate relations as well as the physical training of the midshipmen.

When a midshipman, Capt. Wilcox was a member of the football and rifle teams.

HARVARD, B. C. PENN GAMES TEAMS PICKED

Coach Eddie Farrell announced that Harvard will compete in three of four relay events in the Pennsylvania University carnival Friday and Saturday—the sprint medley, distance medley, the mile and four-mile events.

Ten Crimson relay runners will go to Philadelphia. Nearly every man will run two races and David Cobb, stellar middle-distance star, may race in all three.

Tom Upton discus tosser; Red Finlayson and Al Kidder, hammer throwers, and Red Reeves, intercollegiate high hurdle champion, will represent Harvard in the individual events.

The sprint medley relay Friday will see Phil Dodge running one 220-yard leg. Charlie Williams the other, and Hamilton Kollmyer and Cobb the quarter and half respectively.

In the one-mile event Saturday, Record, Dodge, Kollmyer and Williams will carry the Crimson colors.

For the distance medley Friday the Crimson mentor will use Dodge in the 440-yard leg, Cobb for the three-quarter mile leg, Joe Fobes for the 880, and Pen Halloweli for the mile.

On Saturday the strongest team Harvard can muster will make its bid in the four-mile event.

Boston College Teams for Penn Relays Picked

The Boston College teams for the Penn relays were selected by Coach Jack Ryder. There was one displacement on the varsity two-mile relay team that won the indoor intercollegiate title.

Jack Carew, who ran last year on the two-mile team at the Penn relays, is the newcomer on the two-mile quartet. Carew is a junior and ran his past winter on the one-mile team.

The other three members are Capt. Jack O'Brien, Don Fleet and Tommy Meagher. The times turned in yesterday and Monday were very fast, indicating that the team is the strongest outdoor quartet ever to represent the Eagles.

Pete Monahan, the fourth member of the indoor team, had been sick for a week with the grippe and has not recovered fully from his illness. Maurice Whelan will accompany the team as alternate.

The freshman one-mile team, the fastest quartet of first-year men from the Heights, will be made up of Dana Smith, ex-Boston Latin star; John McManus, formerly of Mechanic Arts and Bridgton Academy; Bill Parks and Paul Dailey, who were graduated from Boston English high. This quartet turned in the fastest time trials ever made by a B. C. freshman group.

The Eagles will also be represented by four individual entries. Ralph Ward will compete in the steeplechase, Tommy O'Brien in the dashes, Phil Coughlin in the shot-put and Bob Sullivan in the 400-meter hurdles.

The Eagles will leave for Philadelphia tomorrow evening. The relay teams and O'Brien will run Saturday and the others will compete Friday.

Gov. Ely Aids in Sox Opening Ceremonies

By JOE CASHMAN

Fenway Park, April 22—The Collinses of Boston and the McCarthys of New York pried the lid off the local American League season here, this afternoon, while a capacity crowd which included Gov. Joseph B. Ely, Ex-Gov. Frank Allen and several other state, city and military dignataries looked on.

The weather while clear was not as warm as it has been of late, but a little thing like a cool breeze couldn't keep the fans from turning out in force to welcome John "Shano Collins, who was making his local debut as manager of the Red Sox, and his charges, to say nothing of Pilot Joe McCarthy, Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig and the other New York Yankee favorites.

The Bambino and his mate and rival, Lou Gehrig served notice on the early arrivals that they can hit the new and allegedly slower ball as fast as the old one, by parking several pellets in the stands and outside the park in pre-game hitting drill.

So they, naturally, hogged the limelight until it was time for the customary opening day ceremonies to start, for there is nothing the cash customers would rather see than good old-fashioned slugging, be it in practice or actual conflict.

Batteries Warm Up During Flag Parade

As the guests of honor and the athletes started to fall in line for the parade to the flagpole, "Hod" Lisenbee and Charlie Berry started to warm up for the Sox and Roy Sherid and Bill Dickey did the same for the Yanks, indicating that they would be the rival batteries.

In perfect step behind Jimmy Coughlin's 101st Regiment Band, Gov. Ely and Bob Quinn, Red Sox proxy, led the line of march to centerfield, where the Governor raised the flag, and then back to the plate, where the Governor threw out the first ball.

There was one more ceremony, a presentation to Collins, before the game started.

A small army of Shano's boyhood chums and admirers from Charlestown and Newton gathered around the plate and showered the popular Red Sox pilot with gifts.

Then the field was cleared and the game started.

The batteries which warmed up were announced as the starters. Lisenbee and Berry for the Sox and Sherid and Dickey for the Yanks.

The Yanks lined up with Gehrig on first, Chapman at second, Lazzeri at third, Lary at short, Ruth in left, Combs in center, and Cooke in right.

Bob Fowler's Team in Title Track Games

Rio de Janeiro, April 22 (AP)—Robert M. Fowler, formerly of Boston and a former Olympic athlete, today left for Buenos Aires and the South American track and field championships with the team of 24 Brazilians he has been coaching and training.

The team is made up of the leading athletes from Rio de Janeiro and Sao Paulo.

Rockne Memorial Idea Hits a Snag

Wichita, Kas., April 22—The Rev. Charles L. O'Donnell, president of Notre Dame University, is not in sympathy with a movement for the erection of a memorial to Knute Rockne near Ramona, Kas., where the Notre Dame coach and seven others lost their lives in an airplane crash last month.

"I regret to say," Father O'Donnell has advised alumni here, "that I do not find myself in sympathy with the proposal. It should be recalled that seven other persons perished at the spot. A marker there would seem to perpetuate the memory of a grewsome tragedy."

Golfers Compete

Amateur golfers from six Southern states will compete in the southeastern amateur and greens tournament at Macon, Ga.

2500 Texas Fans to Come Here for Game

Plans for conveying 2500 Texas University supporters to the football game next fall between Harvard and Texas were announced at Cambridge, following a consultation between William J. Bingham, director of Harvard athletics, and three railroad officials, in charge of the special train that will make the 60-hour trip from Dallas.

Crimson-Tufts in Lacrosse Tilts

Tufts lacrosse teams, varsity and freshman, will journey to Soldiers Field today, where both will compete with Harvard teams.

The varsity outfit, defeated in its first two games of the season, will mingle with the Harvard junior varsity, while the freshmen will meet the Harvard freshmen.

TECH CREW FOR NAVY RACE UNDECIDED

Annapolis, Md., April 22—The two senior M. I. T. crews are still batting for the right to row against the Naval Academy varsity Saturday, according to Coach Haines.

It had generally been thought that the crew, in which Capt. MacLeod rows bow and which is stroked by Obie Lawrence, held the first position, but this is not the case, and the two crews have been evenly matched in their brushes in their home waters and on the Severn.

TRACK RECORDS IN DANGER AT DRAKE RELAYS

Des Moines, Ia., April 22 (AP)—A litter of broken records strewn along the trails of track and field stars during the indoor season foreshadows more destruction when several hundred athletes gather for the Drake relays here on Friday and Saturday.

Lee Sentman and Verne McDermott, Illinois' hurdling and pole-vaulting pair; Harold Manning, Wichita College's great little two-miler, and Hughie Rhea, burly Nebraska shot putter, are the most logical choices to contribute record-breaking performances.

This year's relay meet, the 22d annual revival of the fleet-foot festival established by Maj. John L. Griffith before he became commissioner of the Big Ten, involves more than ordinary interest.

It will bring together many of the collegians who are already aiming at places on the 1932 American Olympic team, and who figure that every performance in this spring's major meets will have an important bearing on their chances for the trip to Los Angeles next summer.

Sentman, who is gradually gaining recognition as one of the finest high hurdlers the United States has produced, faces a real job in trying to crack the 14.8 mark made by Bob Simpson of Missouri in 1917 over the 120-yard route of high sticks.

This mark, oldest on the Drake relays record book, was tied by Guthrie of Ohio State in 1925 and by Dye of Southern California in 1926. The Illini ace has blazed a brilliant trail indoors this spring, setting new world's records over the high hurdles at 50, 60 and 75 yards.

Pole Vault Record Hard to Break

McDermott is in just as tough a spot, apparently, with the Drake record, owned by Tommy Warne of Northwestern, reading 13 feet 11 inches. McDermott has topped Warne this Spring and has vaulted sensationally, setting a mark of 13 feet 9¼ inches in the Big Ten indoor title meet.

Warne, though seriously handicapped by a foot injury, has been soaring over 13 feet consistently.

Manning and Rhea have but to come close to some of their own past performances to earn new records. The Wichita running machine unreeled two miles in 9:18.1 last spring in the N. C. A. A. meet for the second fastest collegiate two miles on record, Tel Berna of Cornell having done it in 9:17.8 18 years earlier.

The Drake standard is 9:26.2 set by Orval Martin of Purdue last year. Manning has a 9:15.8 indoor two-mile to his credit, also.

Sonnenberg Favored to Defeat McCoy

By RINGSIDE

Gus Sonnenberg, most colorful wrestler in the world, has been installed a favorite in the early betting for his finish bout, best two falls out of three, with Bibber McCoy, which will be staged at the Arena tomorrow night under the direction of Paul Bowser.

Gus has shown remarkable form on the mat since he was beaten by Ed George on the Coast. His upset at the hands of George was due chiefly to lack of physical condition. Sonnenberg left a hospital in Providence to go to Los Angeles to keep his engagement with George.

As Sonnenberg has five victories to his credit over Strangler Lewis, it does not look as though the veteran, who is in the midst of a come back, should cause him much concern. The Strangler is too slow to get out of the way of Sonny's vicious flying tackle.

Match these men six nights each week and Sonnenberg will always win.

McCoy Has Always Given Sonny Trouble

McCoy, on the other hand, has always given Sonny trouble. Bibber is fast, aggressive and has a fine defense against the flying tackle. The former Holy Cross star has shown to advantage in his recent starts and is of the opinion he will beat Sonny tomorrow night.

Count George Zarynoff will have George Mamos as an opponent in another bout tomorrow night. This will be a 45-minute match. Zarynoff has been seeking a bout with George, but will have to get by Mamos to land a match with Ed.

Al Morelli, Boston College star, will have Pat McKay, Irish heavyweight, as an opponent in a time limited match.

Ed George Beats McKay at Brockton

Brockton, April 21—Ed "Don" George defeated Pat McKay in two straight falls in 26.35 and 6.10 here tonight. Harry Mamos of Springfield and Jack Wagner of Providence wrestled 45 minutes to a draw. Zeus Wilszewski, former Boston College football and track and field athletic star, tossed Nick Platos of Greece in 9 minutes 15 seconds.

Yale Polo Team Awarded Letters

New Haven, Ct., April 22 (INS)—Yale's indoor polo team, winners of the National Class A. indoor polo championship, today possess the major "Y" given usually only for baseball, crew, football and hockey players. The men who were awarded "the greatest letter in the alphabet" are J. C. Rathbourne of Westbury, L. I., Capt. Lawrence A. Baldwin of Honolulu and James P. Mills of New York.

Bayard Tuckerman to Judge Horse Show

Warrenton, Va., April 22—Mr. Bayard Tuckerman of South Hamilton, Mass., and Mr. William Skinker of The Plains, Virginia, will be the judges at the sixth annual Stuyvesant School Horse Show to be held on the afternoon of Alumni Day, Friday, May 1. This announcement was made by the directors of the show, Mr. Edwin B. King, headmaster, and Mr. E. B. Hall.

Northfield, Vt., April 22—Norwich nine will play its opening game today with St. Michael's here.

DERBY MARK OF 1914 HAS NEVER BEEN BEATEN

Louisville, Ky., April 22 (AP)—For 16 years, the record time for the Kentucky Derby has been held by Old Rosebud.

In 1914 he covered the mile and a quarter in 2:03 2-5, and the time has not been bettered by any three-year-old.

The only other horse to beat two minutes 4 seconds was Bubbling Over, which was clocked in at 2:03 4-5 in 1926.

Bubbling Over has two sons eligible for this year's Derby, but neither rates highly. They are H. C. Hatch's Boys Howdy, and W. C. and E. W. Reichert's Boiling.

The record made by Old Rosebud was hung up under an impost considerably lighter than the 126 pounds all colts and geldings now are required to carry. Fillies are given a five pound advantage.

3 Youths on Pirates' Hurling Staff

Pittsburgh, April 22 (AP)—Youth will have its fling on the Pittsburgh Pirates' pitching staff this summer.

While Ray Kremer, ace of the staff, now has reached 35, he is surrounded by mates of rather tender years, from a baseball standpoint.

Of the hurlers who will carry the biggest part of the Pirates' mound burden, French and Weed still have down on their cheeks. Ervin Brame is but 20.

Change in Hockey Rules a Success

Duluth, Minn., April 22 (AP)—Changing the American Hockey League rules relative to overtime play and tie games was a distinct success.

Only eight league games were left deadlocked this season, compared with 48 stalemates the year before.

The new rule eliminated the giving of one point credit for a tie and stipulated 20 instead of 10-minute overtimes. St. Louis played its 47 games without a single tie.

McPherson, Cooper Billiard Winners

Two games were played in the Bay State amateur three-cushion tournament at the State room yesterday. William McPherson of Brockton won from F. A. Hutchins of Boston 25 to 17 in the first encounter, and H. L. Cooper of Hostindale easily defeated Harry Boyce of Medford 25 to 14 in the second. Hutchins will meet Carl LoCascio of Arlington tonight.

W.G.A. MATCHES TOMORROW TO BREAK TIE

By BILL GRIMES

As the schedule calls for the Southern and Northern districts to clash at the Dedham Country and Polo Club tomorrow, the first place tie in the race for the W. G. A. team match championship, which has existed since the conclusion of the first match, will be broken.

The Southern District started the season with a 6 to 3 victory over Midland and yesterday came through with a 5 to 4 win over Western at Charles River C. C., while Northern went into action by defeating Central, the defending champions, last week and annexing its second victory over Midland.

Southern and Northern are the strongest teams in the association this season. Both are veteran teams, especially Northern, which is carrying on with the identical club that finished in second place last year, while Southern gathered two valuable assets in Mrs. Raynor M. Gardiner and Miss Mary Parkinson.

Mrs. Gardiner was a member of Central for many seasons but transferred her allegiance to Southern this spring, making her first start yesterday against Western, while Miss Parkinson was promoted from the second team to the varsity a week ago.

Southern-Northern Tilt Should Be Close

The Southern-Northern tilt at Dedham will be close and stubbornly fought. There is little choice as to the winner, and in all probability the winning club will take the decision by not more than one match.

The Southern District is making its most serious turnest to gain the championship which it yielded in Central six years ago.

2 Southpaws on African Cup Team

Capetown, South Africa, April 22 (AP)—South Africa has two southpaws in the Davis cup players who will tell this month for Europe.

They are Louis Raymond, who has just won the South African championship for the sixth time, and V. G. Kirby, a young star.

The third member is Norman Farquharson, who showed California what he could do by carrying Doeg into five sets.

RISKO WINS BOUT

BAKER BOY HAS EVERY ROUND

By JACK CONWAY

Rubbery Jawn Risko is still "the Spoiler."

This venerable citizen stepped into his old role at an Argonne A. A. show at the Arena and tossed a million or so boxing gloves in the general direction of one King Levinsky of Chicago.

The youthful Levinsky, blessed with a hard wallop that knocks over buildings when it lands, was a few seconds late. The wise boys argued that old Rubbery Jawn had crawled through the ropes too often to be able to stand off a Levinsky rushes. They spoke much about the adage which holds that "youth must be served."

Jack Conway

Old Rubbery Jawn never had time to study adages, and, if he did, he probably wouldn't believe in them anyway. He has been knocking over precedents since he first bobbed into prominence the night he gave Gene Tunney an awful opposition out in Cleveland.

Risko, beaten in his previous major fight by the colorful Stanley Poreda, was supposed to be easy picking for the heavy hitting King.

Old Rubbery Jawn, however, looked upon Levinsky merely as just another fighter. He just wouldn't let Levinsky connect with his wild right hand punch. The King surely put a well left his right duke out in Chicago for all the service it was to him against Risko.

Meanwhile Old Jawn kept pumping left hooks into his opponent's midsection. There was plenty of power behind these socks. Just to relieve the monotony of things Risko occasionally shifted his attack to the head. By the time the ninth round opened, Levinsky's left eye was partly closed.

In the ninth frame Risko tossed a right to the floor from which landed on the King's jaw. Old Jawn had decided that the dynamite had left his opponent a right and so took a few chances.

I gave Risko 10 rounds. It was a repetition of his showing against Otto Von Porat, who was also rated as a knock 'em dead bird.

Old Rubbery Jawn apparently likes those boys who only use a right hand in their attack.

At close quarters, Risko was too tough for Levinsky. He also proved he knew too much for his rival when it came to infighting.

Pavelick is Winner Over Unknown Winston

Joe Pavelick of Cleveland outscored Unknown Winston of Waterbury, Ct., in the semifinal of eight rounds.

Chris De Ross of East Boston won from Ad Zachow of Dover, N. H., in four heats.

Gus Brown of Canton disposed of Joe Gainor of Roche ter, N. H., in four heats. Brown scored one knockdown.

Johnny Hanlon of Lynn lost to Johnny Delano of East Boston in four sessions.

Bob Barno of Chelsea disposed of Johnny Walker in four frames.

Frank Flournoy Sees Bouts at Arena

Frank Flournoy, matchmaker at old Madison Square Garden at the time Ted Rickard was at the height of his glory, attended the show as Frank is managing Stanley Poreda, brilliant New Jersey heavyweight who recently licked Risko in New York.

Flournoy says he is planning to show Poreda in Boston.

Andy Callahan Is Home From West

Andy Callahan, New England lightweight champion, has returned home following his winding tour with Mickey Cohen at Denver. Callahan will start training within a few days for several bouts. Johnny Buckley has in view for him. It is likely he will tackle Cecil Payne in Los Angeles on May 3.

Conway Right in Picking Risko Over Levinsky

Jack Conway gave the short eaders a little nourishment when Johnny Risko, his selection, upset the dope by defeating the highly touted King Levinsky at the Arena.

Conway, despite Risko's defeats in his last two major bouts, predicted he would toss a wet blanket over the King's famous right duke. And he did.

Conway's 1931 record follows:

Boston Evening American Baseball Album

LANCE CLAYTON RICHBOURG.

Braves' outfielder.

Born, DeFuniak, Fla., Dec. 18, 1897.

Height, 5 feet, 10½ inches.

Weight, 165 pounds.

Signed up by New York Giants in 1919 and optioned to Grand Rapids in 1920.

Sent to Dallas and then sold to the Phillies by the Giants in 1921.

The Phils sent him to Charleston for the following year and then released him outright to Nashville in '23. The next year he was sold to Washington.

The Senators traded him to Milwaukee late that season and he remained with the American Association club until 1927, when he was bought by the Braves.

He played rightfield regularly for the Tribe during the past four seasons and always hit over .300. His major league batting average for six years is .314.

Last season he hit .364 in 130 games, making 161 hits including 23 doubles, eight triples and three home runs.

He fielded for .971, making 284 putouts, nine assists and nine errors.

He still makes Florida his home and coaches the University of Florida baseball nine every winter.

MORE TREMORS PREDICTED FOR NEW ENGLAND

Albany, N. Y., April 22 (AP)—The earth's surface will continue to move and settle as it did throughout eastern New York and part of New England Monday afternoon, according to prediction by two prominent authorities of geological disturbances.

The Rev. John P. Delaney, in charge of the seismographic observatory at Canisius College, Buffalo, classified it as "really a godsend."

Tremors similar to the one of this week have occurred on an average of two a year since 1610 along this fault, stated David H. Newland, professor of the New York geological survey, "and as the record seems constant it is expected they will continue."

Three major earthquakes have occurred in the northeastern portion of the country, Father Delaney said. The earliest on record was in February 8, 1663, with its epicenter near Three Rivers, Que., and felt severely in Boston. On November 18, 1755, one centering around Cambridge, Mass., was felt along the coast from Nova Scotia to Chesapeake Bay and inland to Lake George. The last was February 28, 1925, which rocked northwestern New York and Ontario.

The minor earthquakes, he continued, relieve the strain of earth crusts by small steps and prevent its accumulation for a sudden release with terrible effects.

TRAIN CHANGES ON TWO ROADS

Now comes the season of perplexing time tables. Starting and running time changes effective with daylight saving on Sunday were announced today by the Boston & Maine and the New Haven Railroads.

The Green Mountain Flier and The Alouette, crack Montreal trains over the Boston & Maine, will be speeded up 20 minutes in running time. The former, on the night run, will be renamed The Ethan Allen.

The new timetables will list the new central station at Lawrence.

The Boston & Maine will not be schedule changes to provide hourly service in each direction between Boston and Nashua, N. H., on the hour from 12 noon to 6 p. m., via the Shore Line.

The Yankee Clipper will leave at 4 p. m. daylight time instead of 3:30 p. m. The Puritan will leave at 5 p. m. instead of 5:45 and the Shore Liner at 2 p. m. instead of at 1:05.

Sonnenberg Downs Ledoux in 2 Falls

Albany, N. Y., April 21 (AP)—Gus Sonnenberg defeated Ernie Ledoux of Canada, by two falls here tonight. Sonnenberg won the first in 23 minutes 55 seconds and the second in 3:15.

MYSTERIOUS WAYE -:-

By PERCIVAL CHRISTOPHER WREN

SYNOPSIS: John Waye St. Clair recovers his young daughter from the kidnapers by sending them his famous diamond, "The Unsetting Sun," and other precious stones. But the anguished father finds the child insane and she dies shortly after. Turning his whole life toward avenging her death, he becomes John Waye, denizen of the world of crooks, after having left civilization and the world of his suicide. Thus disguised, he trails every clue that might lead to his child's abductors. Arrested at the scene of a murder, he is unjustly convicted through circumstantial evidence, and sent to the Tombs to the hole tail. There a guard, Murphy, corrupted by "Uncle," a powerful underworld leader, whose end Waye has asked, helps Waye plan his escape.

CHAPTER 31

AT TEN O'CLOCK at night Murphy passed my cell door and heard heavy breathing from that he expected to hear. Supposing, as he stated, in evidence, later, that the occupant of the cell had attempted suicide or was dying, he unlocked the door and stepped inside.

Instantly an automatic pistol appeared in front of his face and a grim voice said: "Put 'em up."

As he did so the voice continued:

"Here's where I die—after I've killed you—or else I make my getaway. Strip!" And Guard Murphy pretended that he was trapped, and that unless he instantly obeyed every order of this desperate criminal, he would be a dead man.

"Quick," I growled. "Cap, trousers, everything . . . If I get clear you'll write me a note to work again."

"I'm trusting ye," whispered Guard Murphy.

Gagged Him

"I'm trusting you too, Murphy," I said, "but turn to me and cross your wrists 'behind you. I shall only want one hand and my teeth for the job, and my other hand will be holding the gun against your liver."

In about three minutes Murphy's uniform, boots, cap and belt were on the floor of the cell, and his hands were bound together behind him, and I could now lay the pistol aside. In another minute his feet were tied together.

Having gagged him I dressed myself as a guard, and, taking his keys, opened the door, stepped out into the corridor, and locked the door behind me.

I was free—inside the prison, and if every man reacted correctly to my suddenly presented pistol, there was a chance that I should be free outside it too.

Assuming the attitude of a guard on duty, I trampde down the corridor toward the watchman who, as I knew, would be outside the big common-cell known for some reason as The Fort.

If the watchman took no notice of me, as he was quite likely in that dim light, I would pass on.

As I passed him the watchman looked up.

"Say, Patsy," he said, and then his eyes and mouth opened wider. "What the . . ."

"Stick 'em up!" I growled. "Quick!" and his hands shot up as high as he could put them.

I took his pistol.

"Unlock the door and get inside, quick," I said.

The watchman opened that four-inch iron door more quickly than usual, and went into The Fort as though it was his home. It was—for quite a long while.

Like Guard Murphy, he was safely out of action until some one other than myself was in possession of the big key which I turned and withdrew from the lock. The watchman had done me splendid service by recognizing me and causing me to drive him into the cell, for he had provided a perfect solution of the greater part of my problem.

Whither the watchman had gone his comrades should go—every guard, watchman, trusty or other official who might molest me or showed suspicion.

That big cell, I realized, had no windows in the ordinary sense of the word. There would be no audible cry for help from The Fort.

Proceeding on my way toward the Warden's Office, I emerged into the blessed freedom of the dark night, and marched boldly across the bare, inner quadrangle which was the convicts' exercise ground, to where a guard stood sentinel beneath a lamp.

As I approached him at an angle, whistling an Irish air which was a favorite with Murphy, I got within arm's length of the sentry without his taking the slightest notice of me, and, with a lightning grab, I disarmed him, at the same time growling, with as sinister a scowl as I could achieve: "Hands up! . . . Quick!"

Arms Laden

Up went the guard's hands, for life was so dear to him as to most of us.

Within a minute I had shepherded my victim to the Fort door, and made him open it and enter.

The look of disappointment on the watchman's face when I appeared as he saw two automatics and the guard, instead of release, was ludicrous.

"Don't either of you be near the door, next time it opens," I said. "I may get mad and make a real killing."

The door closed gently, again I locked it and withdrew the key.

Thrice I repeated this process, and each time the proceedings passed off without a hitch.

It was unbelievably easy—owing to the fact that, being in the uniform of a guard, I was able to present a pistol at my victim before he had the faintest idea of anything being wrong.

It was of pleasing interest to me to notice that, on each occasion, the heavy iron door of The Fort opened upon silence and appeared empty.

All Captured

The men within knew that, certainly two, and probably four, would be killed before their concerted rush could get at me.

It was in almost a state of exhilaration that I, coolly, swiftly, and in business-like manner, went about my affair until, one by one, I had captured every single guard inside the prison.

Having safely disposed of all the latter guards, I now turned to the more dangerous task of dealing with the Warden's Office staff—if any were still on duty—and the outer guard at the prison gates.

Tramping heavily, whistling, and jangling my keys, I marched up to the door of the office, threw it open trumped in, with all the assurance of the Warden himself, closed the door, and saw that the only occupant of the room was the prison hookkeeper —who stared at me in amazement.

He stared harder, with yet more amazement, as a big automatic appeared a foot from his face, and the unknown guard gave the peremptory order.

"Signal the outer guard to open the prison gates!"

"Yes," he smiled, came round the desk as if to pass me, suddenly struck the pistol from my hand, and sprang on me like

Port of Boston

By JAMES J. DELANEY

A diver will probably be called today to patch the Moore-McCormack Line steamer Saguenay, which is beached on the flats off Deer Island, after striking a ledge off the Graves Light, last night, while outward bound to Philadelphia.

She had to be beached after taking when it was found that she was in danger of sinking.

Arrangements were made by local representatives of the line and underwriters to float her and bring her into the upper harbor for survey and drydocking.

Opinions of those who viewed the vessel is that her bottom plates are smashed and that she is badly damaged, several lighters equipped with steam pumps will pump out the vessel.

WOODPULP CARGO

After an ice breaker had opened the way for her after leaving Bayeda, the Swedish motorship Halloren arrived here with 13,500 tons of woodpulp and other cargo. A channel had to be opened through ice four feet thick and she was delayed 24 hours before getting into clear water.

STORM TOSSED

One member of the crew of the Dutch steamer Willemspiein was injured, when a battering sea crashed on board her in the Atlantic during, a storm. She comes here from Nicolaieff, Instanbul and Oran, bringing iron for the Mystic Iron Works.

LIQUOR FOUND

Stem to stern search of the Silverwainut, British motorship, by the United States customs special duty squad, failed to reveal any stowaways, drugs or other contraband, other than two bottles of liquor, which were found. The tanks filled with cocoanut oil, the motorship came here from the Far East bringing 5000 tons of cargo for Boston and New York.

POSTPONE MEETING

Notice of the postponement of the meeting which was to have been held by the Trunk Line Association, New York, for the purpose of discussing the petition to reduce rates on grain from Buffalo to Boston and other North Atlantic ports, was received by the Maritime Association of the Boston Chamber of Commerce. It has been indefinitely postponed.

CRINGING AND CRAWLING

An administration that refuses to protect Americans abroad gets the contempt it deserves.

TIME was when Americans abroad could not be lined up against a stone wall and shot without a protest from this government.

The protest, also, was usually backed up by the guns of American warships and the rifles of American bluejackets and marines.

Assassinating American citizens thus became a sport that few foreign nations indulged in TWICE.

That lesson, first taught under the walls of Tripoli, by Stephen Decatur, more than a hundred years ago, has been with few exceptions our national policy since.

A century after Decatur, Theodore Roosevelt rubbed it in again with his historic cablegram, "Perdicaris alive or Raisuli dead."

Roosevelt, like Decatur, had the strange idea that American citizenship should be respected everywhere and, like Decatur, he took steps to make it respected.

The present administration seems to have a different idea.

Soon after nine Americans in Nicaragua had been brutally murdered by Sandino's outlaws our state department advised all remaining Americans in that country that they would not be protected unless they fled to the coast.

Apparently the state department thought the United States too cowardly or too weak to look after its own people if they lived beyond the range of the guns of its navy. Instead of "Perdicaris alive or Raisuli dead," it sent a pusillanimous message that a tenth-rate country would be ashamed to put its signature to.

This has not raised American prestige abroad nor American self-respect at home. But as a confession of official blundering, it is masterly.

For the fact is that the recent tragedies in Nicaragua rest squarely on the shoulders of the administration at Washington.

Had President Coolidge's wise policy been carried out, as he laid it down for his successor, there is little chance that these killings would have occurred.

The Coolidge program was to train and develop a native Nicaraguan police force which could preserve order and permit the marines to be gradually withdrawn.

The present administration failed to carry out that program. For two years it did nothing and then suddenly announced that it would withdraw the marines, though it well knew that the Nicaraguan police force was too small to keep order and could not be developed sufficiently to do so for months, or years.

The announcement of hasty withdrawal was an invitation to Sandino to come in and shoot up a place that had been virtually stripped of defenders—an invitation that Sandino accepted.

The further announcement that the United States will not protect citizens living inland is a fresh invitation to outlaws of the Sandino type to butcher more Americans.

In Honduras, it has been taken advantage of already.

There is little that the average American can be proud of in this sorry record.

There is little that the government can be proud of in its two-years mismanagement of Nicaraguan affairs.

And now the cringing official declaration that the United States cannot or will not protect its own people in that country caps the climax.

An administration that seeks refuge from its past blunders by these timorous, un-American tactics deserves the contempt it gets, and gets the contempt it deserves.

The Future of Wages

The time has come for clear thinking on the subject of wages in the United States.

The prolongation of the depression has been driving a wedge into the employing group, which is beginning to lose its nerve and its confidence in the American system of high wages.

To the defeatists in business, who lack courage and faith in human progress, it seems perfectly obvious that after the decline in commodity prices there must be a corresponding fall in wage rates.

The so-called leaders who take this view, overlook the historical fact that in past depressions wages have never fallen as much as commodity prices.

Misguided bankers and industrialists, bent on breaking down the morale of the Nation's principal employers, who have been seeking to maintain wage rates, overlook the fact that the depression has already been lengthened by SUB-NORMAL CONSUMPTION.

What is plainly needed is MORE CONSUMER BUYING POWER, NOT LESS.

Unemployment and part-time employment cut down the wage receipts of American workers by 21.3 per cent.

In the circumstances, David Friday, former president of Michigan Agricultural College, and an economist who is widely consulted in Wall Street, is to be commended for speaking out boldly against the wage-slashing propaganda, toward which the American Federation of Labor had already directed attention.

Pointing out that wages need not necessarily decline with prices, Dr. Friday, in the Evening Post, declares: "There are changes which are not so obvious as the movement of prices, but which are just as important for the manufacturers' profit. The most important of these neglected elements is the ever-increasing productivity of labor, which arises out of greater efficiency, better machinery, more power per worker and improved management.

"For if industry turns out an ever-larger volume of physical product per hour or week of labor, then it is not necessary that wages should move downward with prices. Under these conditions it is inevitable either that wages should rise or prices should fall, if competition keeps the margin of profits at a normal level."

It is Dr. Friday's opinion that when production revives, real wages—purchasing power—will be higher even than in 1929.

Senator Robert F. Wagner, of New York, who perhaps has a sounder view of labor economics than anyone else in the government service, advocated an increase of $1000 a year within six years in average wages as a means of balancing demand with the enormous productive power of American industry.

Ethelbert Stewart, of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, also recently stressed the desirability of a universal rise in wage levels.

Until the depression has been checked, it is perhaps visionary to emphasize the ultimate desirability of wage increases.

Nevertheless, if employers keep their minds free of fallacious counsel, they will automatically increase the purchasing power of fully employed workers by standing pat, as the cost of living continues to recede.

As the debate continues, President Hoover, who before the election set up the ultimate abolition of poverty in the United States as the goal for business, SHOULD BATTLE FOR HIS PROFESSED HUMANE PRINCIPLES.

Mr. Hoover established a wage truce in November, 1929, and should now use the prestige of his office to BLOCK INSIDIOUS EFFORTS TO LOWER THE AMERICAN STANDARD OF LIVING.

It is interesting to note at this crucial time that the President "caught the limit of trout on the Rapidan River."

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

MRS. SOLOMON SAYS—

VERILY, MY Daughter, how softer than a down pillow, how lighter and more irresponsible than a summer holiday is the life of a MAN, in this Day of Tolerant Women and Amiable Damsels!

* * *

For, all his days are carefree, and all his evenings are revelry and petting and diversion.

* * *

Behold, once the Damsels of Babylon were imperious and difficult to please. Now they are all Griseldas, and their meekness knoweth no limit.

* * *

Lo, once a damsel was wroth if a man arrived not upon the hour of his appointment. She kept him waiting, without mercy.

* * *

But, now, she chideth not the tardy wooer, but runneth joyfully to greet him at the first note of his motor-horn. And the divans of the hotel lobbies are adorned with neglected maidens who wait patiently in all their humility for any man who chooseth to keep them waiting.

* * *

Once a damsel was filled with indignation if a man removed not his hat before kissing her. But now she is grateful if he putteth down his golf clubs and stoppeth to throw away his cigarette before the embrace.

* * *

Once, a damsel was scornful if a man called not to escort her to the party, and came not bringing orchids and burnt offerings and a taxicab.

* * *

But, now she meeteth him cheerfully at the corner drug store. And, peraventure, if he be coy, she getteth out her own car and calleth at his house, so that she may drive him to the dance with her own fair hands. She is SO chivalrous!

Yet, WHO that hath understanding shall blame them?

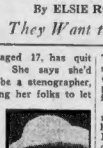
They Want to Show Off

Lois Brown, aged 17, has quit business college. She says she'd rather die than be a stenographer, and she's plaguing her folks to let her take up aesthetic dancing. It's pretty hard on Mr. and Mrs. Brown. They've gone into debt to send Lois through school and they were counting on her helping out for the next few years. But, of course, they'll give in, for Lois has convinced them that she's a second Pavlowa and they dare not refuse to give her her chance.



Elsie Robinson

Then there's Martha's boy, Marvin. He's 21 and has a trivial clerking job that brings him in about $100 per month. His uncle has offered him a chance to work the ranch on shares, and Martha's wild to have him take it. But Marvin refuses to leave the city. He's joined a Little Theater movement and is preparing to make Barrymore look like a plugged nickle. The very thought of branding longhorns makes him ill.

And young Mrs. Nell . . . they've only been married 18 months, but she's turned her new baby over to her mother to tend and she's studying to write short stories. It's tough on John. He's just getting started in business and he needs every cent he can save. Eating in restaurants is expensive. But he says he feels he should make every sacrifice for Millie, because of her "great talent."

Ask any editor or director how these Potential Stars stack up and he'll tell you that the great majority of them haven't even talent, much less genius. Then why are they so hell-bent on climbing on the stage or the front page? The psychologists have a name for it—"EXHIBITIONISM." But way back when you and I were kids, our folks called it "SHOWING OFF."

I'm no world's historian, but I'll bet that this is the Showingest Off Age since Adam was a pup. Living has become so soft and easy and so glittered up with bright lights that we can't be bothered with regular chores any more. We all want to get out and do something unusual—strut our stuff—"express ourselves."

Now there are certain rare individuals who really have something to express. They have it because they worked for it. They loved Truth and Beauty for their own sake and they were willing to endure any amount of study, discipline, monotony and obscurity to find and reveal them.

But the average Yearner does not belong to this class. He is no humble worshipper at the shrine of Beauty and Truth. He worships only himself . . . desires to express only himself. And unfortunately the average Yearner has little to express but buck teeth, fallen arches and gobs 'n' gobs of conceit. But does this deter him from hitching his kiddie-car to a star? No, gentle reader, it does not. For he should worry, whether he has Art or not, SLONG AS HE CAN SHOW OFF AND, BESIDES, WHAT A WONDERFUL ALIBI "GENIUS" IS FOR AVOIDING HARD WORK!

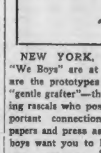
New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

"We Boys" at It Again

NEW YORK, April 22—The "We Boys" are at it again. They are the prototypes of O. Henry's "gentle grafter"—the benignly smiling rascals who pose as having important connections with newspapers and press associations. "We boys want you to help us out," is the theme of their spiels.



For years they bivouacked in the old Waldorf's Peacock Alley, so ubiquitous that a special squad of house detectives was formed to give them the bum's rush through revolving doors. They acquired a flair for social graces and few could resist their credulous cooing.

* * *

After several were "sent up the river," they vanished, but lately they popped up again. They are perhaps the smoothest of petty swindlers, usually silver haired, well dressed and always carrying the aroma of recent barbering. Their unctuousness is so thick it is sticky.

* * *

They hang out only where they may come in contact with "big shots"—the smart hotel foyer, theater lobbies, cafes and select supper clubs. It is their job to scrape up those seemingly casual acquaintances. They catalog you and later you will hear from them.

* * *

Their first contact is by telephone. They are promoting a Social Address Book, a book of "prominent New Yorkers." Or perhaps a local variant of "Who's Who." They say: "We boys are getting out this volume to help us build a club for members of the press."

* * *

The intimation is slyly injected that to be "in right" with "We Boys" will be a help in case of a sudden scandal or any other little twist that might burgeon into the headlines. There are also subtle references to police fixing for auto speeding or other minor infractions.

* * *

Restaurants depending almost solely on a theatrical patronage usually wind up in the hands of the sheriff. Healy's, Churchill's Rector's and Shanley's were this sort. No clientele is so fickle. It symbolizes the troupers' heart—the desire to roam. And show off.

* * *

Willie Howard confesses he was a soprano at the age of 12. But he explains: "At that age how did I know what I was doing?" Incidentally, Howard's brother Eugene joined him for a benefit the other night and forced me to revise my idea of the best fitting suit of clothes in town. He was wearing it.

* * *

They were discussing the lucky star that trails Al Smith. In his defeat for the presidency, he escaped perhaps the most difficult situation a President ever had to face. Many other similar instances in his life were recalled. A slightly stewed gentleman, who was listening in finally mumbled: "Isn't bad either to have a big building to sit in in times like these."

* * *

Lyda Roberti, that flaxen-haired Polish "discovery" of Lou Holz, continues to be welcomed joyously among the Broadway crowds. Her youthfulness, marvelous mop of bright hair and comic-paper dialect encompass a combination seldom attained among the bright lights. Youth is always wonderful. As George Bernard once exclaimed, it seems a shame to waste it on children.

* * *

Reuben's trade slogan: "From a sandwich to an institution" also comes in for a Flippen flippery. Says he: "You buy a sandwich and you pay for an institution."

Yet Arnold Reuben is not so commercially sordid as his comedian friends might have one believe. His yearly theatrical benefit to buy braces and provide care for poor crippled children is a beautiful gesture in human sympathy.

Wise Old England

And a Siam Prince

PRINCE BIRABONGSE JUMPS, AT ETON

The young person, jumping violently, in an attitude calculated to minimize air resistance, interests you mildly, because his father, King of Siam, will soon arrive in the United States. He comes here to consult doctors about trouble with his eyes. We have in America the best eye experts, as well as the best surgeons in many lines.

The young Prince Birabongse, trying to win the junior long jump at the Eton College sports, whether he won or lost is doing his best. That is all you can ask of anybody, Siamese or American.

From all over the British Empire, the sons of Kings, Princes, Rajahs and others that "rule" under the British thumb come to England for education.

The King, Queen and Royal British Princes are polite to them. Ministers of the British Government show them attention—make them happy.

They are made welcome at Eton, Oxford, Cambridge—greatest, most ancient centers of learning in Great Britain.

They compete successfully in sports. England admires that, and their success makes them proud of themselves.

One Indian Rajah was among the best cricket players in the British Empire. And now in England his son takes his place.

THE BRITISH ARE WISE. Nobody in England makes this young man feel that he is in any way inferior because his face is not as white as that of other boys at Eton.

Great Britain knows how to manage colonies. She lets the people alone as long as they do what England says, and she treats them as equals.

Life Can Be Made Glorious

By WINIFRED BLACK

THE PREACHER told me the other day that I wasn't a Christian at all.

He said I was a Pagan.

And I wondered—which Pagan.

The Niobe who wept for her children or the Mother of the Gracchi who lived only for hers?

Pagan—I wonder what that word means, really?

They were rather a jolly lot, the Pagans, weren't they?

Winifred Black

They had nice, busy gods and intriguing goddesses, who loved and hated and fought and revenged themselves, and had a beautiful time being just like human beings, only bigger and stronger and wiser and more beautiful.

But the Pagans themselves—they had a few virtues of their own, after all—didn't they?

Now I think the preacher was all wrong.

I know he meant well, but I think he was wrong, just the same.

If I gave my foolish little daughter a brand-new roadster and a string of pearls and a trip to Europe, how would I like it if she sat down and cried because the roadster was not a limousine, and because the pearls were not diamonds, and because she had to go to Europe in a plain, every-day steamer instead of stepping into an airship and flying across the ocean?

I'd think she was an ungrateful minx and, besides that, I'd be pretty sure that she was rather a stupid young person.

There are just as many glorious things and happy things and good things to think about.

The sun shines a good deal, and it shines all the brighter after it's been raining.

We're in this world now; why not live in it kindly and generously and nobly? Why not use the life that is such a splendid gift and let death and what comes afterward take care of itself?
